Small Business Has Many Complaints.

John W. Davis, 1924 Democratic presidential nominee, assails New Deal regimentation as peril to liberty and as hasty expedient to circumvent natural laws. "I do not," he says, "look for miracles."

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—The National Recovery administration staggered today under an avalanche of criticism as aggrieved business men took advantage of the invitation to tell publicly of the perils and hardships which NRA has visited upon them.

Highest rose the lament of the representatives of small business men who charged sensationally that the NRA had shown favoritism to monopolies—had disregarded the plight of the little fellows in industry.

Officials of the NRA, it was charged, had ordered small business groups to "make their peace" with the monopolists, and among the critics were those who asserted that big business, with the active help of NRA, was driving independent businesses as a class to extinction.

Make Charges Against Swope.

It was charged openly that the General Electric company, headed by Gerard Swope, who was one of the prime movers in the NRA, former chairman of its industrial advisory board, had obtained a code under which it was dooming independent electric manufacturers to "certain death," and that in the face of great masses of evidence to this effect the NRA was still refusing to grant relief to the dying independents.

Similarly, another critic attacked the NRA's conduct in efforts to agree upon a code for the aluminum industry and charged that because the monopoly in that industry controled 90 per cent of production the independents were told they would have to submit to the monopolists' code.

Johnson Admits NRA Sins.

As a curtain raiser to these charges came a startling speech by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, in which he sought to disarm much of the criticism by frankly admitting many of the sins of his organization.

Setting up twelve weaknesses and deficiencies in the NRA codes and administration, Gen. Johnson declared that there were many others. He said all these matters, as well as others which might develop in the public hearings during the rest of this week, would be taken up before the hearings next week of the code authorities, and that the remedies would be applied as rapidly as possible.

Conceding that of late public interest in the Blue Eagle has "lagged," the administrator announced his intention of conducting another fiery campaign to recruit the consuming public once more behind the NRA bird.

Horizontal Adjustments Indicated.

Gen. Johnson also disclosed that when the code authority hearings are completed there would probably be a presidential order effecting horizontal changes in all codes to achieve the remedying of the faults discovered.

He revealed that the burden will fall upon each codified industry to produce proof if it felt itself unable to carry out the changes to be propounded by the President.

It is reported that the President will decree a rise in minimum wage scales fixed in all codes, and a lowering of all scales of working hours, and the feeling abroad is that wages will be boosted 10 per cent and working hours cut 10 per cent. Industries whose leaders might feel themselves strained by present scales will be required to prove their right to exemption from the ruling.

These changes are expected by Gen. Johnson to produce a greater degree of employment due to the codes, and to boost purchasing power. But the first speaker to give voice to the attitude of industry disagreed.

This was George H. Houston, vice president of the National Association of Manufacturers and president of the Baldwin Locomotive works. He protested that a rigid fixing of wage and hour schedules would curtail recovery; that "prosperity lies in the production of goods and not in the curtailment of production."

Denounces Personal Critics.

Interspersed with Gen. Johnson's remarks was a bitter and eloquent denunciation of those who he asserted were resorting to "outright lies or half-baked and ignorant assertions" in efforts to discredit his administration.

The public hearings were called by

SENATE RAISES FEDERAL PAY; VETO IMPENDS

Yields to Soldiers and Employes.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—The United States senate surrendered to the demands of the organized veterans and federal employés today and voted to restore 350 million dollars of the half billion of federal expenditures lifted from the taxpayers' backs when President Roosevelt was fighting for government economy last spring.

By amendments to the 588 million dollar annual appropriation bill for the executive and independent offices, the senate gave back to the veterans approximately 140 million dollars, and to federal employés 215 million dollars.

The senate acted in the face of a warning, carried to the floor by Democratic Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, that its action—unless undone by the house, which still has to vote concurrence—might result in a presidential veto of the whole measure.

Spenders Hit Snags.

It was not, however, an unmixed victory for easy spending.

Backed by a warning from the President that he would veto a bonus measure, the senators voted down, 24 to 64, an amendment by Senator Huey Long [Dem., La.] to provide for payment of the bonus certificates as soon as the President saw fit, the money to be raised by an issue of greenbacks.

Next put on the spot by an amendment offered by Senator William E. Borah, Idaho insurgent Republican the senators voted that the restoration of federal pay should not affect officials, including members of congress, receiving more than $6,000 a year.

The senate action on veterans' amendments saw the compromise proposals of the administration shot through and finally discarded.

New Provisions in Measure.

By provisions adopted successively yesterday and earlier today the bill, as passed, authorized the following:

Restoration of Spanish-American war pensions to 90 per cent of the rate prevailing prior to last spring's economy act, thereby affecting some 190,000 pensioners, including 67,000 restored to the rolls; restoration of free hospitalization of all veterans, but with graduated preferences, beginning with service connected cases and to apply only to the extent of beds now available; restoration of world war benefits to cases of presumed service connected disability as defined by the 1924 act; provision that the base pay for total disability be $100 a month; provision making the benefit in cases of total blindness $150 a month; restoration of presumed service connection in the cases of emergency officers; restoration to full allowances of widows and dependents in service connected cases; provision for double pensions to the widows and dependents of officers and men killed in the wrecks of the airships Shenandoah, Akron, and the blimp J-3.

Expenses Mount Up.

With the $21,000,000 added expense entailed by the President's liberalized regulations of Jan. 19, the senate amendments, if enacted into law, will add an estimated $138,439,000 to the $546,748,096 already carried in the bill for the veterans' administration. The compromise restoration of federal employés' pay was similiarly treated.

The amendment adopted last week by a vote of 41 to 40 and given approval today is calculated to cost $26,000,000 between now and July 1 and $189,000,000 next year.

The senate rejected the administration proposal for immediate restoration of 5 per cent of the 15 per cent pay cut voted in the economy act, with another 5 per cent restoration on July 1 and the remaining 5 per cent when the President deemed it possible. Instead a 5 per cent immediate pay restoration retroactive to Feb. 1 was voted, with the full 15 per cent to be restored on July 1.

Savings Melt Away.

Together, increased veterans' allowances and pay increases will amount to an estimated $354,432,000. The vote by which the senate adopted the increases was 68 to 15. It marked the greatest step yet taken in the final wearing away of the savings voted less than a year ago when government economy was a presidential watchword.

Originally calculated to bring about a saving of some 450 millions, the veterans' economies were first curtailed on the insistence of congress, being cut to approximately 312 millions. This again was cut by liberalizing regulations issued by the execu-

WORKING ON HIS EAGLE AGAIN

Jap Plane Is Shot Down by Soviet Troops

TOKIO, Feb. 28.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—A Japanese military plane was shot down by Soviet troops near the northern border of Manchukuo on Feb. 17, said Rengo [Japanese] news agency dispatches from Hsinking [Changchun] today.

The dispatches said the plane was shot down near the confluence of the Amur and Sungari rivers. They also reported that the crew of the plane was killed.

Two Other Cases Reported.

While it was said the war office was without information that a Japanese plane had been wrecked by gunfire, a spokesman asserted fresh reports from Hsinking [Changchun], Manchukuo, confirmed two cases of Russians firing on Japanese planes on the Amur river frontier, Feb. 24.

Pilot Reported Shot.

It was stated a Japanese civilian plane carrying a military observer was fired upon while flying over the Amur river, which is supposedly the boundary between Japanese-advised Manchukuo and Russia. It was said the pilot was slightly wounded, but that the plane was not damaged and was able to return safely. On Feb. 12 the Russians also fired on a Japanese plane without damaging it, the war office said.

Japan Sends Hot Protest.

Following these reports and those of the sighting by Japanese on Feb. 23 and Feb. 25 of two planes "satisfactorily identified as Russian," the foreign office today sent a sharp protest to Moscow, demanding that flights of soviet planes over Manchuria and Corea be stopped.

"We consider such incidents highly dangerous," a foreign office spokesman said. "It is always dangerous for children to play with fire."

The protest was sent by Foreign Minister Koki Hirota to Ambassador Ota at Moscow for presentation to the soviet government. With it, said the spokesman, went a demand for guarantees against any further flights by Russian planes over Manchurian or Corean territory.

Moscow Puts Peace Up to Tokio.

MOSCOW, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Responsibility for keeping peace in the far east was placed squarely up to Japan today by the newspaper Izvestia, which assumed a conciliatory tone compared with recent bellicose utterances of Soviet statesmen.

The government organ declared that the recent release of six arrested Soviet officials of the Chinese Eastern railway in Manchuria paved the way for a resumption of negotiations for the sale of the road and that "this means that Tokio and Mukden found it impossible to impose their will [the seizure of the railway] on such a great power as the Soviet Union."

SYLVESTER PHONES PRESIDENT FOR AID AND HE GETS IT, TOO

Columbus, Miss., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Sylvester Harris' long distance telephone conversation with President Roosevelt has brought results.

Here is Sylvester's version of the conversation:

"De White House gentleman what answered de phone up there got mad and said, 'Quit calling de President,' but I keeps on and finally gets him.

"He say, 'Who dis,' and I say, 'It's Sylvester.'

"He say, 'Sylvester who?'

"I says 'Sylvester Harris, a nigger down here in Mississippi. A man gettin' ready to take my land and I want to know what to do. De papers say call you and I does and here I is.'

"De President says quiet-like, 'Sylvester, I'll investigate and you'll hear from me.'"

That was Feb. 19. Yesterday, George Hamilton, local representative of the New Orleans Federal Loan bank, received a telegram, followed by a letter, asking that the mortgage on Sylvester's farm be investigated thoroughly and adjusted through extension.

GRANDDAUGHTER OF SWIFT, FORMER MAYOR, MISSING

Miss Marjorie Swift, 18 years old, the granddaughter of the late George B. Swift, former mayor of Chicago, and a companion, Mary Dickinson, 16 years old, 2970 Sheridan road, were being sought by police last night after their disappearance from the Jennings Seminary for Girls at Aurora.

The girls were first missed at the institution at 2:30 a. m. Sunday. Several hours later they were reported seen at Plainfield, ten miles from Aurora, dressed in hiking costumes and carrying knapsacks and blankets. Chief of Police A. G. Wirz of Aurora was notified of their absence by Mrs. Mina Malek, principal of the school, and he asked the Chicago police to cooperate with him in the search.

At the homes of the girls in Chicago relatives were at a loss to explain their sudden leavetaking. Miss Swift's parents are dead. She makes her home with her grandmother and an aunt, Miss Edith Swift, 5524 Cornell avenue, who said the girls were probably taking a little vacation.

$150,000 Fire Sweeps New Hampshire Town

Center Sandwich, N. H., Feb. 27.—(AP)—A roaring fire, fanned by a high wind, tonight had virtually destroyed the business center of this town, levelling seven business structures and homes and causing damage in excess of $150,000.

Machine Gun Bandits Kill; Get $207,000

Kansas City, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A bank clerk was slain and robbed of approximately $207,394 in a bold foray by holdup men armed with a machine gun and pistols on a crowded downtown street here late today.

The loot was $1,000 in cash and the remainder in securities—some negotiable—which the Commerce Trust company was mailing to correspondent banks and business concerns.

Three men leaped from a motor car on Ninth street just east of Walnut, leaving the fourth at the wheel. Some witnesses said the driver was a woman. Others said it was a man. Two men overpowered Bayle N. Swafford, an armed bank guard.

The third shot L. Webster Kemner, 29, the clerk, with a pistol and picked up the packages containing the loot, while pedestrians looked on in horror.

Flee in Auto.

The quartet fled north on Walnut street in the car, which bore Kansas license plates.

Kemner and the guard had started to the old postoffice at Ninth and Grand avenue, only two blocks from the bank. Swafford said the attack came so unexpectedly that neither he nor Kemner was able to offer resistance.

"We crossed Ninth street at Walnut," the guard said.

"The bandit car pulled into the curb in front of us and three men jumped out. I was covered with a machine gun. One man shoved a revolver against Kemner's chest and fired."

Three Suspects Seized.

Tonight police arrested two men and a woman. Chief of Detectives Higgins said witnesses identified one of the men.

One of the suspects gave the name of Sam Decaro. He denied connection with the holdup. Officers identified the woman as Decaro's wife. The other man was identified by police as Joe Martino, 26.

E. P. Wheat, cashier of the bank, said after a checkup, the total loot was $207,394, of which only $3,000 was readily convertible into cash. The loot included $63,000 in government bonds intended for Chicago.

Knoxville, Tenn., Votes to Buy Muscle Shoals Power

Knoxville, Tenn., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The city council tonight approved a contract under which Knoxville will purchase Muscle Shoals power from the Tennessee Valley authority for distribution over a municipally owned system. Under an estimate prepared by engineers residential rates will be from 52 to 73 per cent less than those now charged by the Tennessee Public Service company, present distributors of power in Knoxville.

Boy Admits He Set Fire to State Arsenal

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—A ten year old boy calmly told Gov. Henry Horner tonight how, on Feb. 18, he set fire to the state arsenal, then sat reading a textbook on "Good Citizenship" at his home near by while the old building flamed to a $700,000 loss.

He likes to see "burning buildings and falling walls," said the tiny, under sized lad who sat nonchalantly on a chair in the governor's office in his leather jacket, twirling an old gray cap.

"What does that 'Y' on your sweater stand for?" a reporter asked.

"The Y. M. C. A.," said this astounding child.

Taken From School.

Cecil Kiper, 215 South First street, an address half a block from the arsenal, was taken from the Douglas school this afternoon by Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas and his deputies.

For a week they had sought a boy answering his description. He had often been seen in the arsenal by caretakers and just before the big blaze a week ago last Sunday he had told the attendants that a waste basket in one of the arsenal washrooms was on fire.

Now the marshal knows that Cecil set this fire and another small blaze in a nearby restaurant—where he goes each Sunday to read the "funny papers"—before he tossed a burning paper bag, weighted with solder, at the great curtain of the arsenal stage.

"I just wanted to see how far I could throw the thing," he told the governor. "I don't want my mother to know about it and I don't want to go to a reform school."

Tries to Involve Another.

When they brought him to Marshal Coultas' office Cecil was evasive. He didn't know anything about it. Then he admitted he knew how the fire started, but blamed it on another boy. The other boy, whose name was not disclosed, was questioned, but his innocence was instantly apparent.

The arsenal caretaker, Elmer Bradley, was brought in to look at Cecil.

"Yes," he told Coultas, "that's the boy who came in the building early that morning. He was smoking a cigaret.

"'Get out of here with that,' I told him.

"'Nertz to you,' he said, so I put him out. Then, a little later, I saw him peeking out from behind a door. 'There's a fire in this washroom,' he said, and sure enough, a basket of paper towels was blazing. I put it out and the kid disappeared."

Cecil went to a restaurant near by to read the "funnies." In a short while he informed the proprietor that a garbage can in the rear was on fire.

Goes Back to Arsenal.

Then he went back to the arsenal. No one was around, so he took a paper bag, weighted it with a lump of soldering wire he had in his pocket, and struck a match. The bag flared and the boy hurled it at the stage curtain. The cloth flared and Cecil ran home.

He picked up the school book, "Good Citizenship," and began to read. Wailing fire sirens came closer, there were shouts and the sound of a throng gathering. Fed by the records of Illinois soldiers who served in the world war, the wooden interior of the old building soon was a caldron of fire. Then Cecil came out to watch.

Before being taken to the juvenile home the boy denied that he had set either the fire which damaged the house of representatives in the capitol building last July or a disastrous lumber yard blaze not long afterward.

DR. WYNEKOOP TO TAKE STAND IN OWN DEFENSE

State Will Close Its Evidence Today.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop's defense against the charge that she murdered her daughter-in-law, Rheta, for profit and for love of her unhappily married son is expected to open today.

The defendant, 63 years old, gray and thin, is expected to be her own best witness, her attorneys indicated as they mapped their courtroom strategy last night. Her philandering son, Earle, Rheta's husband, will probably not be called to the witness stand, they said.

Dr. Alice, her lawyers said, will take the stand probably some time tomorrow to tell Judge Harry B. Miller and the jury that she knows nothing of how her disrobed daughter-in-law happened to be chloroformed and shot through the back in the Wynekoop home at 3406 Monroe street about 3:30 p. m. last Nov. 21.

Lawyers Outline Testimony.

She will insist, the lawyers averred, that her first knowledge of Rheta's fate came with a shock when she went on an errand to the operating room in the basement of the home some five hours later and found the blanketed body of Rheta on an operating table with an empty chloroform bottle on a nearby shelf and a pistol covered with gauze close to the victim's head.

This is the story, with some possible embroidery of her fond love for Rheta, which Defense Attorneys W. W. Smith, Milton Smith, and Frank J. Tyrrell expect Dr. Wynekoop to tell.

But such is the inscrutable character of the defendant—who once confessed that she accidentally killed Rheta with chloroform and fired a bullet into the body, only to repudiate it—that neither her own counsel nor her prosecutor, Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty, was altogether sure what she would say.

Other Defense Witnesses.

There will be other defense witnesses, Attorney Tyrrell said. John Van Pelt, the man of odd jobs around the Wynekoop home, will be called to say that Dr. Alice always treated him well and never threatened his life, even though he carried $1,000 insurance in her favor.

He will be called, Mr. Tyrrell said, "if the police haven't spirited him away where we can't find him."

There are rumors that police or private detectives plied Van Pelt with liquor on an occasion after Dr. Alice's indictment and subjected him to baths of steam and ice water until he "confessed" that he killed Rheta on Dr. Alice's promise to split the girl's $12,000 insurance and marry him.

Two Children to Testify.

The defendant's daughter, Dr. Catherine Wynekoop, resident physician at the county hospital, and her other son, Walker, a label manufacturer, are also expected to mount the stand to help save their mother from adverse judgment by a jury qualified for the death penalty.

Attorney W. W. Smith said a host of character witnesses had volunteered, including the Rev. John Henry Hopkins, Episcopal minister, Dr. Alice's spiritual adviser. The Rev. Mr. Hopkins has not missed a session of this trial or the first one, which was halted by Judge Joseph B. David last January after Dr. Wynekoop had experienced a series of collapses.

State Near End of Case.

Except for a few loose ends to be tied up this morning, Prosecutor Dougherty wound up his case at 4:30 p. m. yesterday with medical evidence.

The courtroom seats, heretofore packed to the ailes, thinned out a bit as Dr. Thomas L. Dwyer and Dr. Jerry Kearns related how three autopsies were performed on Rheta's body to discover what killed her.

The missing spectators had heard all they wanted of the searching cross-examination of the doctors by W. W. Smith, but to Dr. Alice it was an unaffecting recital. She, who had first been introduced to the mysteries of the dissecting room 40 years ago, listened in listless boredom, a pallid cheek supported on her bony knuckles and her eyes half closed.

It was the immovable judgment of both doctors, from the evidence of the autopsies, that Rheta died of a bullet wound and that alone. For all his barrage of hypothetical questions, Attorney Smith could get neither physician to admit she might have died of chloroform.

Clarence Muehlberger, coroner's chemist, supplied the last medical testimony. His report was that Rheta's brain, liver, heart, and other organs had yielded nine and one-half grains of chloroform. The defense did not ask him whether this quantity could be considered lethal.

Having resigned from the coroner's staf soon after he performed two autopsies on Rheta, Dr. Dwyer drew a withering fire of cross-examination.

On direct examination he testified he had performed one autopsy on the morning following Rheta's death and a second that evening, both at direction of Coroner Frank J. Walsh. He was questioned by Prosecutor Dougherty, who took the occasion to refute one whispered report about Rheta.

Q.—You performed this second autopsy microscopically at the coroner's orders after finding pus in the organs in the first autopsy? A.—I did.

Q.—You examined the smears microscopically for traces of venereal disease? A.—I did and found no traces of such disease.

Tilts with Defense Lawyer.

A black haired young man with a jutting chin, who had performed 3,000 autopsies in five years on the coroner's staf, Dr. Dwyer's eyes blazed with anger at times under W. W. Smith's cross-examination.

Smith wanted to know what course the bullet had taken.

"It was inward, upward, and forward." The witness repeated his phrase on direct testimony.

"Now I'll put the pencil point to my back and you indicate the exact spot where the bullet entered Rheta's body," he directed.

Dr. Dwyer stepped down and placed the pencil at the point where he said the bullet entered, about six inches from the spine. Smith pirouetted before the jury.

"Was it there—was it right there?" he demanded, dancing about as if to show how easily Rheta's own hand might have held the gun.

"I object to this performance," Prosecutor Dougherty interrupted.

The Chloroform Suggestion.

Smith put away the pencil, dropped the suicide suggestion and took another line of attack. He apparently wanted to suggest that Rheta might have died of chloroform.

"When you made this report that a bullet wound caused death, you had no knowledge of the presence of chloroform in the organs?" he asked.

Dr. Dwyer nodded his agreement, explaining that he, not being a toxicologist, had removed the vital organs and sent them to Mr. Muehlberger for examination.

Q.—But you learned later that nine and a half grains of chloroform had been found, some of it in the brain? A.—Yes sir, from Mr. Muehlberger's report.

Q.—Would that alter your judgment as to the cause of death? A.—No, sir, it would not.

Q.—Well, suppose I were to tell you a pound of chloroform had been found in the brain—would that alter your judgment? A.—Yes, I believe that would. [There are 5,760 grains in an apothecary's pound].

Dougherty Questions Again.

Prosecutor Dougherty took the witness for redirect examination. His first question proved he did not propose to have the jury think Rheta died of anything but the bullet wound.

Q.—How much blood was there in the right lung of the body? A.—I should say about two quarts. There had been a severe hemorrhage.

Q.—If a bullet had been fired into the dead body would there have been any blood in the lungs? A.—Very little.

The reply was drowned out by Defense Attorney Milton Smith's bellowed objection.

"Make him put it hypothetically," he stormed to Judge Miller.

Dougherty tried again:

"Assume you had found a body of a 23 year old girl on an operating table, dead." Another roar of objections.

"Object to dead," shouted Milton Smith.

Objections Are Overruled.

"That much is certainly in the evidence," Dougherty countered, proceeding at a nod from the judge:

"Assume you found this body, 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighing 105 pounds with blue eyes, good teeth and well nourished—have you any opinion from the blood in the lungs whether she died of a bullet wound—O, and the blood on the garments?"

"Object again" came the shout, this time from W. W. Smith. "There wasn't blood on all the garments."

Judge Miller ruled the witness might answer.

"My opinion is that death came from a bullet wound," said Dr. Dwyer.

The next witness, Dr. Kearns, described the findings of the third autopsy, held last Dec. 3 at Indianapolis after Rheta's body had been exhumed there. Dr. Kearns said he had found two scratches about the mouth and seven bruises on the arms, thighs, and legs, which Dr. Dwyer did not mention. He declared Rheta's brain appeared normal.

Ready to Take Stand in Own Defense

Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, who will testify in her own behalf at murder trial, as she appeared in the courtroom yesterday as state was closing its case. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

DR. ALICE'S FINANCES

Dr. Wynekoop's financial means were fully disclosed for the first time by the two first witnesses of the day. One was David M. Sweet, assistant vice president of the City National bank; the other, Henry Olson, manager of the Great Lakes Mortgage company, Chicago correspondent for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

Their testimony revealed Dr. Alice as the owner of considerable property, some of it mortgaged to a degree that gave her trouble in meeting principal and interest payments. Through Mr. Sweet the state introduced four letters she had written him over a period of nine months before the murder, pleading for extensions.

His bank, Mr. Sweet said, had originally given Dr. Alice a $6,000 loan, taking a first mortgage on the Monroe street residence as security. The home, he said, was appraised at $16,100 and the loan had been reduced from time to time to $3,500 when Dr. Alice first began writing him pleas for an extension about February, 1933.

Letters Read to Jury.

Surprised at the absence of defense opposition, Prosecutor Dougherty read all four letters to the jury. They were filled with references to the Wynekoop ailments—Dr. Alice's own nervousness, Rheta's need of a change of climate, and even the "delicate health" of Earle.

"I am humiliated to ask another extension," she wrote in the first letter. "My daughter-in-law is ill and I am going to send her away or go away with her. I expect soon to realize on a promise to get about $2,000 on funds long due me, where payment was delayed by broken faith and promises. I must meet $6,000 interest on mortgages and $2,000 in taxes March 1 on other properties."

His bank granted the extension on the amortization payment due, Mr. Sweet said. There was no concern about the interest, he said, explaining that it had been paid in advance to 1934.

Wants a Change of Scene.

"After all," Dr. Alice wrote more hopefully in another letter, "I am only 62 years old. If I could get away from all this anxiety to a change of scenery, there is no reason why I cannot live another good ten years. Earle is delicate, too, and needs me more than my other son, Walker. I have lost $75,000 in the last five years. I have had many trials and tribulations.

"I have property in Niles Center worth $30,000 which I would sell for $15,000 if I could find a buyer. But I must keep calm within—I have learned that. I will send you a blueprint of the Niles Center property."

Neither the indicated trip nor the promised blueprint was forthcoming, a third letter indicated. She wrote on Oct. 24, pledging an amortization payment by the following Feb. 1, "if I live."

Again Asks an Extension.

The fourth letter, dated Nov. 1, three weeks before Rheta died, repeated the plea for an extension.

In a few brief questions put to Mr. Sweet on cross-examination Attorney Milton Smith brought out that notwithstanding her own allusions to desperation Dr. Wynekoop was never threatened with foreclosure on the home.

Q.—Did you ever tell the doctor her home would be taken from her? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Was there ever any danger of her losing the home? A.—None at all. It was not to be taken from her. Our handling of the loan indicated we were sympathetic.

Insurance Man Questioned.

Mr. Olson was called to the stand. His direct examination revealed Dr. Alice as owner of an apartment building at 3955 Fullerton avenue, appraised at $57,100. His company had granted her a $20,000 first mortgage loan on it about April 1, 1931, he said. Dr. Alice had reduced this to $19,000 before she ceased amortization payments.

Q. [by Prosecutor Dougherty]—What was the condition of the loan on Nov. 21, 1933 (the day of Rheta's death)? A.—There was $1,500 due, in equal amounts, from the preceding March 1 and Sept. 1.

FOUR WITNESSES ACCUSE WOMAN OF TIPSY DRIVING

Mrs. Blossom Howard's Case Goes to Trial.

Four witnesses, including an intern and a nurse, testified yesterday that Mrs. Blossom Howard, a former cabaret entertainer, was intoxicated last Dec. 17 when her automobile crashed into another car, injuring Prof. Garrett H. Leverton of Northwestern university.

The four were among ten witnesses who testified before Municipal Judge Joseph H. McGarry in the Traffic court as the trial of Mrs. Howard opened after many continuances. The charges are reckless driving and driving while intoxicated.

Mrs. Howard, a plump blonde, who is also known as Miss Blossom Taylor, sat unmoved as the witnesses testified against her. During the three hour court session she kept her face wrapped to the eyes with a silver fox fur to foil photographers. Beside her sat her husband, Jack Howard, a north side saloonkeeper who is said to have political connections.

Attorney Outlines Charges.

In an opening statement Harry Pritzker, Prof. Leverton's attorney who is prosecuting the case by arrangement with the state's attorney, outlined the charges. He declared that Mrs. Howard turned south into Sheridan road from Rosemont avenue in the early morning of Dec. 17, swinging her car into the wrong side of the street. She forced one automobile to edge to the right, sideswiped a second, compelled a third to swerve to the left to avert a collision and struck a fourth car driven by John Baird, an instructor in dramatics at Northwestern university, Pritzker said.

"Prof. Leverton, who was riding in the fourth car with Baird was seriously injured," Attorney Pritzker went on. "We will show that the defendant was driving recklessly, while intoxicated, and that she used profane language and staggered after the accident in which she was slightly hurt."

Testimony of Witnesses.

The first witnesses were four occupants of the first three cars mentioned by Attorney Pritzker. All testified that Mrs. Howard was driving fast on the wrong side of Sheridan road.

Two of them, Roy W. Swanborg, 2555 Aubert avenue, and Kenneth A. Anderson, 2457 Byron street, said that Mrs. Howard was intoxicated when they saw her after her automobile had struck the car in which Prof. Leverton was riding. They testified that she swore at them when they helped her from her car.

Sidney Klow, an intern in the Edgewater hospital, and Miss Helen O'Toole, a nurse, testified that Mrs. Howard was intoxicated when she and Prof. Leverton were taken to the hospital for treatment. Klow said Mrs. Howard was unruly and kicked him twice when he tried to lead her to the emergency ward. The nurse said she heard Mrs. Howard cursing as she entered the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Benjamin, 4116 Monroe street, occupants of the first automobile struck by Mrs. Howard's car, said she was driving recklessly. They said they did not know whether she had been drinking.

After the Benjamins had been heard the trial was continued until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

HYMIE LEVIN SEIZED BY FEDERAL AGENTS IN INCOME INQUIRY

Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin, who was loop collector for the Capone syndicate in its era of prosperity, was arrested yesterday by two agents of the bureau of internal revenue, Clarence Converse and Nels Tessem, on a suppressed warrant issued by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

HYMIE LEVIN.

Last night it was reported that Levin was arrested for alleged evasion of his income taxes, and that twenty other gangsters, most of them allies of the Capone organization, were being sought on similar accusations. It was estimated that Levin's income in 1930 was $40,000.

Levin was arrested in a gambling place said to be operated by Frank Ryan in the Woods Theater building.

He was taken to the office of District Attorney Dwight H. Green, where he was questioned in the presence of the arresting agents by Mr. Green, Special Assistant Attorney General Leslie E. Salter, and E. Reilly Campbell, special solicitor of the internal revenue department. Following the questioning, Levin, temporarily unable to furnish the $20,000 bond set by Judge Sullivan, was taken to the county jail.

MYSTERY DEATH INQUEST TO BE RESUMED TODAY

The inquest into the mysterious deaths of Mrs. Evelyn Jensen, 26 years old, and Edward Muehlenbeck, 29 years old, 3607 North St. Louis avenue, who were overcome by fumes on Feb. 2 in the Jensen home at 5523 Melrose street, is to be resumed today with Coroner Frank J. Walsh conducting the inquiry.

Though the inquest was opened two weeks ago and continued to give the police an opportunity to investigate the deaths, Deputy Coroner John J. Butler said yesterday that the case still has the authorities mystified. He said that a number of tests of the furnace in the Jensen home had been made but investigators were unsuccessful in their attempts to make it produce carbon monoxide gas or other lethal fumes.

At the first hearing a coroner's jury was unable to decide that the deaths were accidental and refused to return a verdict until it had heard the testimony of Mrs. Jensen's husband, Harry, an official of several labor unions and a former member of the state pardon board. Jensen told police that he left his wife and Muehlenbeck, a vacuum cleaner salesman, alone in the apartment at 11 a. m., while the salesman was demonstrating a cleaning machine. At 5:30 he returned to fine Muehlenbeck dead and his wife dying, he said.

MAYOR STARTS DRIVE ON SALE OF BAD LIQUOR

Police Will Buy Samples for Chemical Tests.

Mayor Kelly, in the capacity of Chicago liquor control commissioner, yesterday opened a campaign to halt the sale of low grade whisky and spirits under labels that are deceptive to the consumer.

"I have instructed the police to make purchases of package whisky in all of the city's liquor dispensaries," he said. "These spirits will be tested by the health department.

"Much of the liquor being sold now is improperly labeled. It can hardly be disputed that some of the mixtures being sold as whisky are made of sugar and not of fermented grains. These should be labeled imitation whisky, and aren't.

"Of course the health department may not be able to tell exactly the age of the whiskies, but it can tell whether the stuff is drinkable."

Urges Drafting of Rules.

In furtherance of his campaign the mayor last night delivered a request that the state liquor control commission hasten the drafting of a set of rules to govern the sale of liquor. This commission is composed of Arthur S. Smith of Bloomington, chairman; Albert A. Sprague, and Milton S. Foreman.

The state law grants rather general powers to the state control commission. It provides that the body may regulate standards of quality in accordance with the practice of the federal government. Specifically, it requires that all liquor vended must have federal stamps, that it must have the name and address of the manufacturer on the label and that the minimum alcoholic content and the date of manufacture shall be included on this label.

On Labeling of Whisky.

Also, the law commands that all spirits sold as whisky or gin shall be made of fermented grains or a mixture of grains—sugar liquor being ineligible to these ratings. Many of the cheaper brands of liquor are distilled from sugar mash, in the opinion of the mayor, and the failure to mark the bottles "imitation" is a great aid in the sale.

U. S. TEST SHOWS ONLY 1 OUT OF 4 BOTTLES OF RUM OF HIGH QUALITY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—Only one out of every four bottles of whisky being sold is of high quality if tests run by the treasury department and announced today are a fair sampling.

Yet D. S. Bliss, commissioner of industrial alcohol, says that the results of these tests indicate an improvement in the quality and price of legitimate liquor.

Analyzing 79 different brands and types of whisky now being sold, the industrial alcohol division of the treasury found 21 of them to be of good quality, 16 fair, and 42 poor. Most of the poor whiskies were labeled "whisky, a blend," "rectified whisky," or "imitation whisky."

Liquor being sold as bonded whisky, blended whisky, and straight whisky the treasury found to yield fewer bad brands than the other types. The federal alcohol control administration recently permitted the importation of 25 million gallons of Canadian whisky in an effort to improve the quality of whisky blends.

Of 18 samples of bonded whisky the treasury found 15 good, 2 fair, and 1 poor. Eleven tests of "straight whisky" showed 3 good, 5 fair, and 3 poor varieties. Out of eight bottles labeled "blended whisky," the treasury found 2 of good quality, 5 fair, and 1 poor.

Thirty-two types of "whisky, a blend," however, tested good in only one case, fair in 4, and poor in 27. Five tests each of imitation and rectified whisky showed all of them poor.

OIL COMPANY'S CHIEF JAILED FOR CONTEMPT

C. J. Christie, president of the North American Oil corporation, 4440 Addison street, was sentenced to 10 days in jail yesterday by Judge John P. McGoorty for contempt of court. Christie announced an appeal from the order, but was taken into custody immediately.

Judge McGoorty appointed a receiver for the corporation last July on the petition of Assistant Attorney General John H. Gately, who told the court that the corporation owed the state $67,000 for motor fuel taxes.

Attorney Gately, who asked for the contempt citation, told Judge McGoorty yesterday that Christie had violated the restraining order by joining in a petition for bankruptcy filed for the company in the federal court.

Gunman Robs Store While Girl Friend Waits in Car

While a young woman waited at the wheel of their automobile, a dapper young robber held up a drug store at 5245 Woodlawn avenue yesterday, ordering three clerks and a waitress into the rear room the gunman picked out four pints of bonded whisky and a quart of port wine from the store liquor stock. Then he forced the manager, Leo Stangle, 6531 Harvard avenue, to open the safe, from which he took $160. He then cut the telephone wires and fled.

Cairo's Theater Destroyed by Fire; 2 Towns Aid Fight

Cairo, Ill., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The Gem theater, the largest motion picture and vaudeville house here was destroyed by fire today just before the afternoon performance. Fire departments of Cairo, Mounds and Mounds City fought vainly to save the building. Wires to the Cairo Evening Citizen were cut and publication of all but the first edition was suspended.

JOHN W. DAVIS HITS NEW DEAL; PERILS LIBERTY

Democrats' Chief of 1924 Urges Common Sense.

JOHN W. DAVIS.

"Who are the men that you would set to rule over us?" he asked. "This proposed regimentation threatens, if it does not seek to destroy, that personal liberty which Americans of past and present days have been taught hitherto to hold as the most precious of earthly possessions.

"The farmer who raises more than he can sell suffers in not being fully paid for his efforts. To avoid this the government steps in and pays him in advance so that he may escape the danger of unrequited toil. All that has happened in the end is that one man's burden has been shifted to another man's back. As a permanent policy it is obviously unthinkable.

For Less Restraint.

"The law of supply and demand cannot be thwarted by governmental price fixing or even by experiments with the currency. Those who bite on that rock are sure to break their teeth. Wisdom in government, I submit, consists in discovering the natural laws and following them, not in devising hasty expedients whereby they may be circumvented.

"I do not look for miracles to save us or hope for gold at the foot of the rainbow. I have more faith in the prosaic process of following paths marked out by reason, common sense, and the past experience of mankind. This translates, in my opinion, into terms, among others, or less restraint on human activity, not more.

"When the wind has blown over the ant heap, the ants will build it again, never fear, if they are given time, but they will not work if they are urged into blind paths or pushed in several divergent directions at one and the same time."

Mr. Davis broke his silence on the subject of the present Democratic administration at the invitation of the Foreign Policy association and the World Peace Foundation, which reached him on a train returning from a Caribbean cruise with J. P. Morgan on his yacht, the Corsair.

Reply to Wallace.

These two bodies last week made public a pamphlet written for them by Secretary Henry A. Wallace of the department of agriculture, entitled "America Must Choose," inviting "dispassionate discussion" of the choice of economic nationalism and internationalism—or a middle course.

In answer to the invitation to take part in the discussion, Mr. Davis issued a statement which said:

"What does the choice of national isolation mean, as the secretary outlines it? His logic is merciless. It would be necessary first to compulsorily retire from 40 to 100 million acres of crop land.

"In these days of juggling with billions these figures may seem unimpressive, but 100 million acres laid down in a single sheet would cover the combined states of West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, with barely enough fringe for standing room. Quite a patch of land that, even in this big country.

"Of course, in actual operation, the doubtful blessing of idle land would be more widely distributed. But wherever the destroying rain might fall it would produce a destruction of land values and would compel a radical shifting of population."

CROSS-U. S. AIR LINE FURLOUGHS HALF OF FORCE

T. & W. to Cut Pay and Stagger Work.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Officials of the Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., coast to coast air line, said today about 50 per cent of the company's employés would be placed on furlough status after tomorrow when service is reduced as the result of cancelation of air mail contracts.

Wherever possible those furloughed will be given part time work as occasion demands. In other instances work will be staggered.

All salaries will be cut. The reductions will range from 1 per cent for those making from $66 to $100 a month, to a cut of 25 per cent in the salary of Richard W. Robbins, president of the company.

Mail Service Resumes.

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—The army air mail service was resumed at Newark early today after the planes had been grounded for nearly two days by the storm. A Ford tri-motored plane, piloted by Lieut. A. J. Lehman, took off for Cleveland at 2:10 a. m. with 339 pounds of mail.

It was the first mail plane to leave the airport since 5:30 a. m. on Sunday, when a ship took off for Boston.

Order Fighters Grounded.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The army air corps today ordered grounded until further notice all pursuit ships of the P-26 type—the war department's latest low wing fighter model. Lieut. F. I. Patrick was killed last Thursday when a plane of this type crashed near Denison, Tex.

Start Again for Chicago.

Oconomowoc, Wis., Feb. 27.—(AP)—A trimotored army airplane, carrying a lieutenant and nine mechanics from Galveston, Tex., took off from an emergency landing field near here at 4:05 p. m. today to continue a flight interrupted last night when it overshot Chicago and the fuel supply ran low. The lieutenant said he followed the wrong beacon line from St. Louis.

Given to Office

A portrait in oils of the late Edward J. Tobin, who was superintendent of Cook county schools for 22 years, was given to the county school office in the county building yesterday. The painting was donated by Mr. Tobin's widow. It is the work of Miss Virginia McElroy, 651 Washington boulevard, a former Cook county school pupil.

BANGHART ASKS JUDGE TO QUASH HIS INDICTMENT

Judge Michael Feinberg will rule today on preliminary motions in behalf of Basil Banghart, gunner for the Touhy gang, who is to be tried for the kidnaping of John Factor, wealthy speculator.

Attorney William Scott Stewart, who served as defense attorney for three other members of the gang now under sentence of 99 years each for the kidnaping, filed an appearance yesterday in behalf of Banghart. He then filed a motion to quash the indictment in view of the ruling of the state Supreme court declaring illegal the method of selecting grand jurors in Cook county.

Attorney Stewart also moved for a change of venue from Judge Feinberg and a change of venue from the county.

WHAT A MAN! HE FIGHTS 2 DUELS, PLANS A THIRD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Feb. 27.—Dr. Santiago Verdeja, secretary of sanitation, was slightly wounded in a saber duel today with Dr. Reinaldo Marquez, former local sanitation department head whom Verdeja had discharged. The duel was fought on a farm near Havana.

Verdeja, reputed to be one of Cuba's most prominent duelists, yesterday faced another opponent on the field of honor in the person of Dr. Ernesto Argon, former president of the now defunct National Medical federation. Verdeja was slightly wounded in this duel, which was fought with pistols.

It is believed that he will appear against a third opponent tomorrow.

HOUSE GROUP TO PROBE ARMY GRAFT CHARGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—With talk of court martial actions as a possible outcome, the house military affairs committee today prepared to launch its own investigation into current reports that graft and profiteering are rampant in the war department.

Virtually assured today of authority to conduct the inquiry, members of the committee declared their intention of making a thorough examination of each of the several different scandal rumors now being heard about the army's purchasing methods.

One aspect of the investigation will concern itself with the charge that private plane manufacturers have reaped exorbitant profits on aircraft and engines built for the army. A similar investigation into naval aircraft profits was concluded today by the house naval affairs committee.

Woodring Still Before Jury.

Meanwhile the district grand jury continued its inquiry into reports of graft in the war department in connection with supplies. Assistant Secretary of War Woodring, who is prominently involved in the charges, continued his testimony behind closed doors and his close friend, Ralph T. O'Neil, former American Legion commander and now a Washington attorney, is scheduled to be heard tomorrow.

As the grand jury resumed its hearings it was learned special investigators delving into the war department graft charges are now seeking to run down the facts concerning a number of "poker parties," at which lobbyists and manufacturers' representatives lost heavily, if willingly, to government officials in charge of purchasing.

All of these matters, according to Chairman McSwain, will be thoroughly aired by the congressional group as soon as the house gives final approval to the resolution authorizing the investigation.

Appearing before the rules committee, to seek approval of the investigation, Mr. McSwain declared that he now has evidence that the army, without competitive bidding, purchases aviation goggles at $100 each.

"Every one knows they can be bought for four or five dollars," he declared.

Representative W. Frank James [Rep., Mich.], another member of the military committee, told the rules group that officials of the war department have been violating the law for years in letting airplane bids without competition.

Defends Navy Plane Deals.

The naval affairs committee, meanwhile, concluded its investigation into profits on navy plane contracts by listening to Rear Admiral King, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics, staunchly defend the system of "negotiated" contracts through which the navy now buys its aircraft.

The air mail situation, at the same time, was the subject of continued hearings before the so-called senate Black committee, where Karl Crowley, solicitor of the postoffice department, described the action of Postmaster General Farley in canceling the air mail contracts as "one of the most courageous deeds" ever done by an administration.

POLICE RAID A BANK; OFFICIALS ARE GONE; AND SO IS $1,250,000

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Police today raided a bank and arrested all the clerks, but said they found the entire board of directors and two executives missing—along with more than 4,000,000 pesos [about $1,250,000].

In the strong boxes were 96 pesos [about $32] and a directors' note for 50,000 pesos [about $16,670]. Officers called it the most extensive swindle in the two years Argentina has had currency exchange control. Police seized books of the bank, the Banco Commercial Del Plata.

According to complaints to police, the bank, which specialized in the sale of foreign drafts, offered dollars, pesetas, lire, and other monies at prices generally under the official rate. Purchasers, weeks afterward, received word from consignees abroad that the drafts had not been received. They began complaining to police, but guardedly because of their own participation in exchange transactions below official rates.

Banking circles understood that a number of United States firms were among the victims.

NEW SQUAD RAIDS GAMBLERS; SMASH DENS WITH AXES

Two south side gambling establishments were raided and seven men arrested last night by the new police racket squad under the command of Lieut. John L. Sullivan. Using axes, the squad smashed in the doors of a second floor room at 735 West 63d street and seized four men who were clustered about a roulette table, chuck luck cages, and other gambling paraphernalia. The policemen confiscated a quantity of the equipment, including signs which stated that bets up to $1,000 would be accepted.

The squad then descended on an establishment in the building at 7900 South Ashland avenue which formerly housed a Bain bank. Breaking their way in there the policemen found three men and gambling equipment. In both places card tables and gaming furniture were smashed with axes.

The men arrested are Michael J. Ryan, Austin E. Foster, Patrick Gavin, and Joseph Daly, seized at the 63d street address, and James McCabe, Louis Duskin, and James Holmes.

BUROCRATS GET BADGES IN ITALY; ALSO A SALUTE

ROME, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Civilian employés of the government will wear insignia of their rank and will be entitled to a salute from inferior ranks, Premier Mussolini ordered tonight.

The orders apply to all employés and officials, from ministers down, and includes schoolmasters, railway personnel, office employés and others. Insignia will be worn on the lapel of the coat. The salute will be the regular prescribed Roman salute.

Premier Mussolini said the orders were issued for the purpose of bolstering discipline.

Declares Pilots Able and Well Trained.

Washington, D. C., Feb 27.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of army air corps, asserted tonight that the safety of army aviators had been and would be the prime consideration in flying the air mail.

In an address to reassure the relatives of the army flyers, Foulois said, "No attempt has been made by the air corps to maintain a high percentage of mail schedules regardless of hazards involved."

"On the contrary," he declared, "I have from the very start continually stressed in my instructions that the safety of operating personnel is the paramount consideration in these operations."

Dwells on Safety First.

Foulois disclosed that on Feb. 24 he had directed that only pilots with more than two years' service in the air corps were to be used for night flying unless weather conditions along the route were "excellent."

"I have dwelt," Foulois said, "somewhat at length on our 'safety first policy' primarily to give assurance to the families of the pilots who are flying the air mail as well as to the public at large that every possible precaution has been and is being taken in the interest of their welfare.

"I am honestly and frankly of the opinion that the hazards involved in flying the mail are not as great as those involved in peace time military flying, when military flying is considered as a whole.

Declares Critics Uninformed.

"I would like also to ask you to discount as untrue, unfair, and unfounded certain of the recent accusations and headline seeking phrases which have reflected not only against the efficiency of the air corps personnel but also against the present administration.

"Much of this, in my belief, is nothing more nor less than partisan propaganda designed to advance interests which are by no means unselfish. These attacks in a number of cases have emanated from persons absolutely unqualified, in my opinion, to pass judgment on such matters, especially if any weight is to be given to the adage that air experience is the best teacher.

Pilots Fine as Any.

"I seriously question the many statements which have been made by individuals, in public and private life, during the last few weeks to the effect that the army air corps is poorly trained and poorly equipped as compared to foreign air powers.

"I will promptly agree that, insofar as quantity of aircraft is concerned, we are behind at least four foreign air powers. This fact has been frequently stressed in the past, but I will not admit that the normal quality of our material and the general efficiency of our personnel is exceeded by any air power in the world."

LEAPS INTO RIVER AND RESCUES PAL LODGED UNDER A CAKE OF ICE

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Frank Colton, 43, Staten Island, jumped from a tugboat into the ice filled East river at the foot of Wall street today and rescued a shipmate, who had fallen from the boat and become lodged under a cake of ice.

Colton and his friend, Michael McCaffery, 53, are employed on the same tugboat. McCaffery, in stepping from the tug to a derrick, tied alongside, lost his footing and plunged into the river, coming up under the ice. Colton, shouting for help, seized a life line and a life preserver and went over the side after him. He tied the rope about McCaffery, told the men on the tug to "haul away," and managed to tie the rope about himself after it was tossed back, whereupon he became unconscious.

Charges Husband Didn't Live Up to His Prospectus

Mrs. Ella Fishman, 29 years old, 944 Leland avenue, filed a bill for divorce in the Superior court yesterday against Jack Fishman, manager of a chain of north side apartment hotels. Through her attorney, Norman Becker, Mrs. Fisher declared that her husband, when courting her, had said he had been married four times and from this experience would make a perfect husband. Instead, she charged, he had been cruel to her. She asked the return of $3,500 which she said she turned over to Fishman.

Small Business Files Many Complaints.

Gen. Johnson for the purpose of receiving "constructive criticism." After he had delivered his message, and an auditorium full of constructive critics had applauded him and other leading lights of the NRA, the critics split up into five groups and this afternoon got down to cases.

These groups took up, respectively, the problems concerning wages and hours, costs and prices, control of production, code administration, and the plight of the small business man.

No Effort to Curb Witnesses.

It was in the last named hearing that the most sensational charges were made. Armin Riley, the NRA chairman of the meeting, with Leon Henderson, new head of the NRA planning and research division, made no effort to curb any of the witnesses, although Gen. Johnson had announced that a ban would be laid upon specific criticisms, that argument would not be permitted, that witnesses would be confined to factual presentations, and that no mention of separate codes would be permitted.

The first main witness was Sam M. Jones, representing the Incandescent Lamp Manufacturers association, who brought the charge that Mr. Swope's General Electric company had, through the electric manufacturers' code, brought the peril of extinction to the small business units.

Stating that the code was approved on last Aug. 4, Mr. Jones declared that prior to its approval "we registered our protests to its provisions on the grounds that they promoted monopolistic practices and tended to oppress independent units and specifically to place the independent manufacturers at the mercy of the General Electric company."

Seeks Action for Two Months.

"We were told to put our protest in writing," he continued. "This was done. For two months I made daily visits to NRA seeking to determine when the recovery administration would take action on our protest. I was given every assurance that action would be immediately forthcoming. But it didn't come.

"Early in December we received an official communication that inasmuch as the General Electric company comprised the great majority of the lamp industry and inasmuch as the independents comprised a very small minority, there was nothing NRA could do but look on complacently while General Electric finished the job of destroying competition that it had so efficiently and profitably carried on for a great number of years.

"This decision aroused a storm of protest in quarters that could not be ignored.

"We were invited to submit a supplemental code for the lamp industry and we were informed that NRA had discovered some new defects in the electrical code which it proposed to remedy at a public hearing on January 4. We were invited to the hearing.

Submit Supplemental Code.

"We attended the hearing, presented specific claims backed by affidavits and four or five pounds of legal documents in support of our case. We also submitted the supplemental code on the same date.

"The January 4 hearing was adjourned to January 29. It did not reconvene, however, until February 8. At that time we presented more evidence, additional photostats, affidavits, and briefs.

"At that time, also, a representative of the General Electric company told the presiding deputy administrator in no uncertain language what his company thought of a supplemental code for the lamp industry. We were informed that a decision on our application for a supplemental code would be handed down immediately.

"An interim of three weeks followed in which nothing happened, although I was given daily assurance that the decision was just around the corner. Yesterday, Feb. 26, we received the answer. The answer was 'No.' No code for the lamp industry. I wish at this time to insert in the record a copy of the communication from NRA."

Reads Letter Into Record.

Mr. Jones then read a letter signed by J. C. Cowling, an assistant deputy administrator of NRA, stating that the "various facts presented" did not seem to warrant a separate code for the industry.

"This," said Jones, ruefully, "is the fruit of seven months of effort to obtain remedial code action by cooperation with the NRA." Pursuing his theme, the speaker went on to say:

"It must be said in fairness that the electrical code was reopened to remedy existing evils. The electrical code has been on the operating table since Jan. 4. No one can say with certainty what it will look like when it is sewed up again, but in view of our experience I do not think we can be regarded as unduly pessimistic when we state that we do not believe the revised code will contain our recommendations. The General Electric company is against these, too.

Major Companies Dominate.

"The code authority for the electrical industry is the National Electrical Manufacturers' association, commonly known as NEMA. The independents do not know what companies pay the cost of administering NEMA or how the voting power is divided among the participating companies.

"I do not think, however, that there is any danger of contradiction of our contention that the major companies dominate the code authority. As a matter of fact, no independent manufacturer in the electrical field, so far as we can ascertain, belongs to NEMA and so long as voting power is based solely on amount of production, it would be fruitless for the independents to join."

Then making specific objections to the code, Jones declared that it contained a price fixing provision, and that under an amendment offered by NEMA, the code authority would be given "copper riveted" power to fix prices.

"By its terms," Jones said, "the independents would be forced to sell their product at the price fixed by NEMA. Inasmuch as the independents have only survived this long because of their ability to make a fair profit on the quality product at a price lower than the monopoly price, the enforcement of that provision would mean their certain death."

Calls It "Packed Jury."

The speaker asserted that the code so worded the prohibitions against unfair trade practices as to make "convictions under such circumstances, particularly where the code authority consists of a packed jury of the monopoly, utterly hopeless."

The provision of the code giving independents a nominal voice in the activities of NEMA, said Jones, is "pure window dressing," and he declared the independents to be "entirely at the mercy of the dominant group."

"In conclusion," he said, "NRA has been provided with evidence in great detail and with every type of supporting information, affidavits, photostatic copies of pertinent material, etc., to show that the electrical code spells extinction to independent enterprise unless steps are taken to make the code complete, to eliminate unfair practices to prevent monopolistic tendencies, and to enable the small business man to retain his place in the economic system, protected from the arbitrary and illegal oppression of great corporations."

Even the argument of the President's wife, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, was presented in support of a plea for relief for the "little fellows." Mrs. Roosevelt had given a signed statement to Miss Harriet Anderson, New York retail book seller, which Miss Anderson read at the hearing.

Miss Anderson had argued that the retailer's code, going no further than to impose a bar upon selling articles below invoice cost, had resulted in the retail department stores selling books at far below the established price. Then Miss Anderson read Mrs. Roosevelt's message backing up the argument.

Mrs. Roosevelt declared it unfair for department stores to sell books at cost.

Defends Small Shop.

"The retail department store," she wrote, "can write off the profit very easily whereas small book shops must make some profit. It is easy to say, of course, that all small shops will have to go out of business, but I question the desirability of saying that, for in many cases, even in food shops, one can on the whole get better value for one's money and the customers will pay less on all around buying than in the chain stores.

"Even though we acknowledge that chain stores in cities can always do it more cheaply, I doubt if they can in smaller communities and give the same value. Even if this were true it would do away with what I should say was an ultimate aim in building up community spirit and consumption at home of as much as possible of what is produced in the neighborhood."

Aluminum Trust Attacked.

The plight of the independents in a struggle with the aluminum trust was described by Oswald Schutte, representing the independent aluminum manufacturers' association.

Describing the small group which he said has sought doggedly to prevent the adoption of a code which would destroy them, Schutte declared it was the first duty of NRA under the language of the law creating it to protect small businesses from oppression.

"Unforunately," he said, "it has been the attitude of NRA that our right was only to complain; that it was the big fellows' code. So with the consent of the deputy administrator, we wrote our own code. What happened?

"A brother deputy came along at the next hearing and told us and the first deputy that he had been assigned to the aluminum code and that the first deputy was all wrong.

Monopoly's Code Submitted.

"There must be a single code for the whole industry, the second deputy said, and he told us it was up to us to make our peace with the monopoly. He said that he had just had lunch with the head of the monopoly, who came here from Pittsburgh and brought a code which he wanted the President to approve without a hearing because we were so small a minority that didn't count for anything.

"We found that the monopoly's code elevated the head of the monopoly to the code authority. Meanwhile we found that our own independent code had disappeared somehow from the office of the second deputy and we had to go dig up a copy for them.

"Well, a committee of four, two from each side, was formed and after we had spent months going over the code the head of the monopoly said he would accept no code with any fair practice clauses at all—just a code of wages and hours.

"The deputy agreed with him. We said we would take it to Gen. Johnson and to the President if necessary. I spent a half hour arguing with the general, and he said he'd think it over. Finally we learn that the code has been referred to the department of justice for a legal decision, and there it stands."

Gen. Johnson Lists 12 Major Defects of NRA Codes and Suggests Remedies

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Twelve points of weakness or deficiency in the NRA codes and the NRA administration were outlined by General Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, when he opened today the series of public hearings at which critics have been invited to present their complaints against the administration.

Declaring that from the thousands of letters and other evidences received daily, the NRA had already formulated many ideas for remedy and improvement, General Johnson cited the following which he conceded "need immediate attention."

"1. A more uniform and equitable rule of national price stabilization in those cases where it is necessary to maintain wages at a decent standard against the certain results of predatory and cutthroat competition and further insurance against increase of price faster and further than increase of purchasing power.

More Effective Cost Rule.

"2. A more effective rule on costs for the purpose of maintaining rules against sales below costs of production.

"3. Uniformity of wages and hourly rates in competitive industries.

"4. Uniform classification of areas for the purpose of the North-South differentials.

"5. Further reductions in hours per week and further increase in hourly wages.

"6. Certainty of protection against monopoly control and oppression of small enterprises, and, especially, the inclusion in codes of adequate buying [as well as selling] provision to guard against oppression of small business.

"7. A much improved method for securing prompt and effective compliance.

Safe Financing Method.

"8. A safe method of financing code administration without racketeering and abuse.

"9. Elimination of inconsistent or conflicting provisions among various codes.

"10. Adequate labor and consumer representation in an advisory capacity on code authorities.

"11. Uniformity of governmental representation on code authorities.

"12. Wider use of mechanism for settling labor disputes in connection with code administration."

"There are many other matters," he went on, "which have already developed, but these are the twelve principal heads of improvement and these, together with whatever may develop as a result of this meeting, will be the principal heads of discussion in the code conference which opens March 5."

Horizontal Adjustment Likely.

The general then revealed a purpose of attempting through presidential orders to achieve a general remedying of some of these complaints, and his language gave credence to reports that at the close of the hearings, Gen. Johnson will ask President Roosevelt to order a horizontal increase in minimum wage scales and a simultaneous decrease in scales of working hours.

"It is our purpose to determine in the code conferences," Johnson declared, "the opinion in codified industries as to how many of these improvements we can put into effect by general presidential rulings, leaving to each industry the opportunity to show why the application of such rulings cannot, or ought not to, be applied to it, or to what extent such rulings ought to be modified or stayed. It is our plan to move into this corrective process just as soon as the code conference is finished."

Says Public Backs Blue Eagle.

Conceding that the edicts of the Blue Eagle had to be enforced by public opinion, he said the demonstration given by the American people was as effective as was ever given.

"For a variety of reasons," Gen. Johnson confessed, "it has lagged somewhat of late, but it will not lag long. We are going out to restore public information about the Blue Eagle in any region where that may be necessary—call it what you will [and chiselers, big and little, call it plenty of names] the Blue Eagle must be made indispensable to popular support for every business enterprise in this country."

Going then into a defense of the criticisms which, in the past months, have been heaped upon the NRA, Gen. Johnson banged the table before him and shouted his oratory until the microphones and loud speakers fairly burst with the noise of it all.

Answers Criticism of Failure.

Answering criticisms that the NRA had failed to fulfill its promises, Johnson quoted from what he said was a record of a press conference he held on June 6, 1933, to the effect that he had predicted 3 million men could be put back to work under NRA. Declaring that a census showed that 2,750,000 men had gone back to work, and that pay rolls were increased by 3 billion dollars, Johnson said his guess was 92 per cent accurate.

The charge that the NRA had increased prices faster than wages went up, was labeled by the administrator as "cruel, cynical buncombe." Holding that the codes didn't go into effect until last September, Mr. Johnson said the cost of living index at that time was 77.9; in December, 77.3; in January, 77.5, and for the end of February, 77.8.

"In other words," the general said, "with the cost of living stationary, NRA reemployed 3 million people (who were without jobs before) and added 3 billion dollars to the annual wherewithal of workers to live."

Answers Ballyhoo Charge.

"Responding to the charge that he had resorted to a campaign of propaganda and ballyhoo, Gen. Johnson said:

"There was nothing false about the representations of NRA."

"We delivered what we promised," he said, "and what we delivered was all to the good for American workers of all classes. What then is this talk of ballyhoo? I'll tell you what it is. It is that some of these enemies of higher wages and shorter hours object because we went over their heads straight to the people with the Blue Eagle."

GAG ON RADIO TO BE ISSUE IN WIRE CONTROL DEBATE

See Censorship Move by Administration.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Charges of government censorship, of interference with and intimidation of radio broadcasters, which have been seething beneath the surface for some time, are destined to be aired in the course of consideration of the administration bills for control of the telegraph, telephone, and radio, introduced in both houses of congress today.

Some opponents of the proposed legislation, which President Roosevelt asked for in a special message yesterday, view it, together with the NRA code for newspapers, as a paving of the way for complete government control of all media of transmission of information and expression of opinion, such as Secretary of Agriculture Wallace recently declared to be inseparable from complete realization of the aims of our present nationalistic economy.

Wallace for Control of Opinion.

Secretary Wallace said that to attain "a self-contained life" there will be necessary not only a rigid regimentation and regulation of all production, but an "extraordinarily complete control of all the agencies of public opinion, which is generally necessary to keep the national will at a tensity necessary to carry through a program of isolated prosperity."

With increasing frequency attention is being directed in congress to incidents indicating that radio broadcasting concerns are lending themselves to the dissemination of administration propaganda and are denying their facilities to critics of the administration from fear of a refusal of the government to renew their license.

Senator Arthur Robinson [Rep., Ind.] has pending a resolution calling for an investigation of these charges.

The alleged intimidation of broadcasting concerns is traced to a thinly veiled threat made by the radio commission in a statement Aug. 14 last, in which occurred this passage:

"Under the radio act the commission has no right of censorship. However, the commission has the right to take into consideration the kind of programs broadcast when licensees apply for renewals."

Bill Before Both Houses.

The administration bill creating a commission to control wire and wireless communications was introduced in the house by Representative Sam Rayburn [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the interstate commerce committee. At the same time Senator Clarence C. Dill [Dem., Wash.], chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, introduced a bill embodying all the provisions of the Rayburn bill and in addition repealing the radio act of 1927 and substituting a revision of the radio regulations.

The principal innovation in the Dill bill is the following proviso relating to frequencies:

"That no frequency used for broadcasting shall be reserved for the use of one station for a distance of more than 2,200 miles, air line, if any person, firm, or corporation, capable of rendering radio service in the public interest, make application to operate broadcasting apparatus on any frequency so reserved, at a point beyond the distance of 2,200 miles, air line, from the station or stations already licensed and operating on said frequency and all applications and licenses considered and granted under this provision shall not be counted as a part of the quota of the zone in which said additional stations are located:

Provided, further, that the commission may also grant applications for additional licenses for stations not exceeding 250 watts of power if the commission finds that such stations will serve the public convenience, interest or necessity, and that their operation will not interfere with the fair and efficient radio service of stations licensed under the provisions of this section."

Regulates Common Carriers.

The bill contains provisions which would regulate common carriers engaged in wire and radio communication and repeals the provisions of the interstate commerce act insofar as they relate to such carriers.

The provisions of the bill relating to common carriers engaged in wire and radio communication are similar to provisions of the interstate commerce act relating to common carriers by railroad, the most notable exception being that the new commission would not have any authority with respect to intrastate charges or service.

There are also certain provisions having no counterpart in the interstate commerce act. The bill provides that charges of carriers engaged in communication service shall be just and reasonable, requires that schedules of such charges shall be filed with the commission, permits charges to be modified only after thirty days' notice, and authorizes the commission, after investigation, upon complaint, or upon its own initiative without complaint, to prescribe just and reasonable charges.

Abolishes Radio Commission.

It proposes to abolish the federal radio commission, and transfers to the new commission the administration of the radio act of 1927 as amended, and of certain provisions of law relating to wire and radio communication which are now administered by the interstate commerce commission and the post master general.

A feature of the bill is that it divides the proposed new commission into three divisions to be known as the radio division, the telephone division, and the telegraph division, which are to administer many of the matters which will arise under the act in the same manner as though each such division were a separate commission.

It authorizes the commission to require the establishment of joint routes. It prohibits discriminations and unreasonable preferences in charges and service by carriers. It makes carrier liable for damages resulting from unlawful acts or failures to act. Copies of contracts between carriers which relate to traffic affected by the act are required to be filed with the commission.

Bars Interlocking Directorates.

Restrictions as interlocking directorates are imposed, similar to those in the interstate commerce act. The commission is authorized but not required to make valuations of carrier property and to require carriers to file information as to estimated reproduction cost and original cost of carrier property.

Extensions of lines and circuits and construction of new lines and circuits are to be subject to commission approval, except that the requirement is not applicable to extensions within a single state.

The commission is given considerable authority with respect to contract entered into by carriers relating to the furnishing of equipment, supplies, research, service, finances, credit or personnel, particularly in any case where the other party to the contract is an affiliated corporation.

May Direct Accounting.

The commission is authorized to prescribe forms of accounts, records, and memoranda to be kept by carriers; to prescribe depreciation percentages applicable to carrier property; to inquire into the management of the business of carriers; to require information from affiliated corporations, and to require annual and other reports from carriers and affiliated corporations.

The bill contains certain special provisions as to telephone companies. It authorizes consolidations of telephone companies by a provision identical with that now contained in section 5, interstate commerce act, and such provision of the interstate commerce act would be repealed.

Telephone exchange service which is state regulated is not to be regulated by the bill, even though a portion of such service may constitute interstate or foreign commerce.

MR. BLOOM TELLS NRA OF DEALINGS WITH FOUR BANKS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Charles P. Bloom's complaint was against four banks. He told it to NRA today because "it breaks my heart, and NRA ought to know about it."

The Philadelphia small brass manufacturer, exporter and importer said his money was in one bank which failed.

At last a 20 per cent dividend was paid depositors. Bloom put the check in another bank, which promptly failed.

In the course of time there came a 10 per cent dividend on the 20 per cent dividend. It went in a third bank and "then all the banks closed."

What became of the fourth bank was not revealed because a lighted cigar set Bloom's coat on fire at that moment.

In calling for NRA amendments Bloom observed:

Rock Island Republicans Nominate G. Bartholomew

Rock Island, Ill., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—George E. Bartholomew was nominated today for mayor on the Republican ticket. He is secretary of the Republican Oil corporation here and served for eight years as an alderman. John W. Graham, Democratic nominee for mayor, was unopposed.

MINER KILLED BY SLATE FALL.

Dr. E. J. Ryan Calls Code "Unthinkable."

Predicting that the national administration will soon try to control the professions, including dentistry, as it has already assumed command of business, Dr. Edward J. Ryan, editorial director of the Oral Hygiene publications, national dental magazines, yesterday called upon dentists to launch an attack against any attempts to codify and rule the dental profession by government representatives.

Dr. Ryan's address was the feature of yesterday's session of the 70th annual convention of the Chicago Dental society at the Stevens hotel. The convention will end tomorrow.

Calls Code "Unthinkable."

A code for the dental profession, Dr. Ryan said, would be unthinkable. He stressed the fact that dentists, by the very nature of their work, must be intense individualists, not subject to the same type of control as industries.

"The 'easy money' of the federal government and the Blue Eagle have won converts in the dental profession," he asserted. "There are those who say the federal government should give relief work to dentists under the provisions of the Civil Works administration and that the dental profession should submit a code under the terms of the National Recovery administratiton to protect dentists from one another by establishing minimum fees and maximum hour chedules.

"Dental care cannot be standardized, produced in mass production units, or become impersonalized. Dental care is not a tangible commodity but an intangible personal service. Dentistry is not an industry to be codified but a profession that is to be defended against reformers from without and heretics from within.

Advantage to Public.

"It is to the advantage of public welfare that we preserve the spirit of professionalism. Although the attitude of 'let the public be damned' has created some industrial fortunes, it has never produced a successful professional man."

One of the factors that is hastening the approach of government control of the dental profession is the steady increase in the amount of money allocated by relief agencies for dental care, Dr. Ryan declared. In Chicago, for example, the amount spent for dental relief in 1931 was $7,500. In 1934, he said, $84,000 is available from government funds.

Dr. Ryan asserted that he was entirely in sympathy with the work of the government in bringing dental relief to the unemployed. He pointed out, however, that such work was no longer of a temporary character and should be organized on a basis satisfactory to the profession and under its own supervision.

Danger in Relief Work.

"The danger inherent in dental relief work," he said, "is that the greater number of persons who are served, the greater number of persons there will be who will expect state medical and dental care as their natural right."

"We have the state, today, paying out funds for dental care of the people," he continued. "I grant, and I think all will agree, that it is the function of the state to supply the health needs of the indigent. I am deeply concerned, however, under what conditions and terms these services are to be rendered and as to what the fate of the profession may be.

"I will not agree that $1.20 an hour for a skilled laborer working for the CWA and 80 cents paid for a two-surface amalgam paid to the dentist by a state relief agency is fair or just. Neither do I approve of graft, or corruption, or racketeering on the part of the profession in rendering dental care to the indigent under state funds."

Outlines National Plan.

Under national planning, Dr. Ryan declared he could easily imagine the following sequence: First, dental care to the indigent; second, to low income groups; third, dental care under social insurance, both voluntary and compulsory; and finally, socialized dental care to all levels in the population.

Diet is the principal factor because it is the most abused one in proper care of the teeth, Dr. A. D. A. Mason, professor of clinical dentistry at Toronto university, told the dentists at another meeting.

"The trouble with tooth health today is that we are in the era of white flour and sugar," he said. "The simplest rule to follow is to lessen the carbohydrates consumed."

Dietary care of the child looking toward good teeth should begin before it is born, he declared. The mother, before birth, as well as the child afterward, should be given the necessary salts, calcium, phosphates, and iron.

Other Factors Listed.

Other factors which determine tooth health are heredity, environment, structural form, habits of living and the effect of the ductless glands, Dr. Mason said.

Because of the depression and the enforced lack of attention to teeth because of economic conditions, dental health conditions are at their worst in many years, Dr. Stanley Tylman of Chicago told the dentists. He advocated a national survey to determine the dental health of 30,000,000 workers in industry.

Former "Senator" in South Carolina

GREEN COLEMAN.

Revisits Old Scenes

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Fifty-eight years ago Green Coleman left Columbia because the Ku Klux Klan had left a note under his door at a hotel: "Don't let us find you here when we come back."

Green didn't. He knew the Klan and he knew how thorough it was. He fled to North Carolina, and now, at 88, he's an inmate of the alms house at Charlotte.

He claims he served as a senator from Chester county, S. C., in the carpetbag days when Negroes or Republicans held practically every post of importance. He wanted to see Columbia once again before he died. And so some of his white friends, including Mayor A. H. Wearn of Charlotte, believing his story about once having been a state senator, carried him down to Columbia, where the legislature is in session, and two young Negroes lifted him in their arms and carried him to the senate chamber, where he was given a seat of honor—a little Negro, with hundreds of white faces turned on him.

STEAL JEWELRY FROM CAR.

Harry Berger, 5036 Sheridan road, a jeweler, reported to the police yesterday that thieves took two cases containing jewelry valued at $500 from his automobile, which he had parked at 63d and Halsted streets.

FARLEY'S SKILL PULLS PRESIDENT OUT OF A HOLE

Gives Man Morgenthau Ousted Another Job.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—The adroitness of Postmaster General James A. Farley today pulled the Roosevelt administration out of a political impasse precipitated by his fellow cabinet member, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr.

The log-jam was broken when genial Postmaster Jim soothed Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.], by having his protégé, E. Barrett Prettyman, whom Secretary Morgenthau fired as general counsel of the bureau of internal revenue, appointed corporation counsel for the District of Columbia today.

Farley Saves the Day.

Farley's political rescue of his fellow cabinet member came after Farley, as chairman of the Democratic national committee today promised to keep this Roosevelt-dominated body out of all Democratic primary elections. The postmaster general said no party member will receive the indorsement of the national committee against any other party member.

Farley's statement was taken as a relaxation in the attempt to build up a Roosecrat party within the old organization. It leaves the administration free, however, to indorse candidates, either Democrats or bolting Republicans, in the final elections.

Goes to New Post.

By arranging for the appointment today of Mr. Prettyman as a District of Columbia official, Farley paved the way for confirmation by the senate of Robert Jackson of New York, the man who Secretary Morgenthau wants to succeed Mr. Prettyman as general counsel of the bureau of internal revenue.

Senator Tydings had been objecting to Mr. Jackson's appointment until he had been revenged for Secretary Morgenthau's dismissal of Mr. Prettyman. Secretary Morgenthau discharged Mr. Prettyman because, he said, he wanted a man of his own choosing at the head of the legal tax work. Mr. Prettyman was selected under former Secretary William H. Woodin.

Deserted by His Bride, Husband, 18, Kills Self

Roosevelt Studies Making Income Tax Returns Public

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt may make public all income tax returns now filed on the basis of 1933 earnings, it developed today.

At the same time inquiry disclosed that Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. is planning a basic revision of the whole national structure to eliminate federal and state overlapping.

The question of making income tax returns public for the first time since 1925 is under study at the treasury department and the bureau of internal revenue. The President has power under the national industrial recovery tax law to open for public inspection all income returns filed this year.

Secrecy Now Obtains.

President Roosevelt has asked the treasury to advise him on the question. Returns, which are not actually due until March 15, are already being filed, the bureau of internal revenue announces.

Unless the President issues an executive order, income tax returns will remain secret documents surrounded with penalty provisions aimed at any one revealing them. A strong liberal group in congress, however, is in favor of making the returns public.

Secretary Morgenthau, in revealing his plan for eliminating eventually federal-state tax duplication, said that it is one of the subjects which he hopes to take up as soon as the adjournment of congress gives him time.

Each Government Encroaching.

A national tax system in which certain sources of revenue are reserved to the states and certain others set aside for the federal government was envisaged by the secretary. He said that such an arrangement must be brought about.

At present both the federal government and several states tax incomes. The federal government two years ago invaded the gasoline tax field previously left to the states and states are gradually encroaching on the tobacco tax, previously a federal levy.

Many other instances of duplication have developed to the detriment of both state and federal revenues. Secretary Morgenthau said he hoped to bring to Washington during the summer an outstanding state tax commissioner who, with Prof. Roswell, the treasury's federal expert, would work out a division of tax sources.

ASKS USE OF GAS TAXES TO BUILD BASCULE BRIDGE

A proposal that the city's share of the state gasoline tax be used in 1934 and 1935 to pay 70 per cent of the $1,700,000 cost of a bascule bridge across the north branch of the Chicago river at Ashland avenue was made last night in an effort to surmount obstacles now confronting the project. The proposal was made by C. A. Snyder, secretary of the West Central association.

"Thirty per cent of the cost may be obtained as a grant from the Public Works administration, if the city council does not delay too long," Mr. Snyder said. "I have made inquiries which show that the state highway department will consider letting the city have $600,000 this year and a like amount next year to complete the bridge."

The previous plan was to obtain a government loan of $1,200,000 to be repaid over 20 years out of the gasoline tax. This was opposed at a joint meeting of the council committees on special assessments and harbors, wharves and bridges yesterday. Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] declared that if anything happened to the gasoline funds, the obligation would stand against the city corporate fund.

HELD AS SCHOOL BURGLAR.

Alfred Bastin, 34 years old, 4940 Winthrop avenue, was seized by Evanston police yesterday as the burglar who has committed thefts in Northwestern university buildings and in the Orrington elementary school in the suburb.

CITES NATION'S HUGE OUTLAY IN PATENT CURES

Approximately $500,000,000 could be turned over yearly to all the hospitals in the country to facilitate free services, if the American people could be won away from patent medicines and non-medical practitioners, C. Rufus Rorem, representing the Julius Rosenwald fund, told 50 women voluteers for hospital service at their first meeting yesterday. Mr. Rorem, who is an associate for medical services in the foundation, addressed the group at 18 South Michigan avenue, on "Medical Care, a Community Service."

Paul H. Fesler, president of the Chicago Hospital association, explained the essential points of hospital organization to the volunteers. The lecture course, which will continue until March 9, is sponsored by the Council of Social Agencies, and is under the direction of Mrs. Edward O. Brown.

The institutions in which the women will serve are the Cook County, the Presbyterian, and Provident hospitals, and University of Chicago clinics.

HANGS HIMSELF IN HOME.

Benjamin Flowers, 44 year old, hanged himself yesterday in his home at 2655 Magnolia avenue.

HYDROX PUTS MEN TO WORK*

we are starting our own CWA

WE have watched the President working out a way toward recovery of this nation. We have seen him inaugurate his Civil Works Administration. We have seen that CWA put men to work. We have heard the program stated—that the purpose of the CWA is "to prime the pump of industry."

Now we believe it is time to follow the President's lead. And for us who are natural leaders in our industry to start priming our own pumps.

Therefore, Hydrox has now started its own CWA program. Beginning last week, Hydrox started expenditures upon the development of its own plant, and plant facilities, which will increase Chicago's payrolls by many thousands of dollars.

Ordinarily, this program of spending would be put off until what America calls "better times" are here. But if this pump is to be primed, and providing these planned expenditures are good in themselves, then right now is the time to do that priming.

Literally nothing would happen if these plans were not carried out at this time. Our business would not suffer—except as any business suffers when all business suffers. Our sales would not materially diminish. Our patronage would certainly not grow less.

But chiefly important, the money would not be spent. The men would not be put to work.

However, the money spent now will provide more labor for more men and women when this work has been completed.

Tomorrow, in another advertisement we shall tell you more about this plan, and show you how these planned expenditures are not merely of immediate importance in putting men to work, but of future importance to the whole idea of planned recovery.

*This program is already under way—the men have all been hired and the work has started. We are saying this so that others will not come seeking jobs and be disappointed.

LAUNDRY OWNER ACCUSES SAPIRO IN RACKET TRIAL

Says Attorney Expressed Favor of Racketeers.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Attorney Aaron Sapiro, who undertook to "stabilize" the Chicago laundry industry in 1932, was quoted yesterday in the racket conspiracy trial as having told a laundry owner that invasion of the industry by racketeers was to the owners' interest.

It was the activities of racketeers, with price fixing, boycotts, and allegedly illegal strikes, which led to the return of the indictment against the defendants now on trial before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court. The defendants are charged with a conspiracy embracing the laundry, cleaning and dyeing, and carbonated beverage businesses. Attorney Sapiro, Dr. B. M. Squires, who was dictator of the Cleaners and Dyers' institute; Morris I. Kaplan, trade association lawyer; Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], and union officials and trade association heads are named in the indictment.

Accuser of Attorney Sapiro.

The witness who made the charge against Attorney Sapiro was Ike Neivelt, owner of the Kenwood laundry, 1718 East 75th street.

Neivelt's principal business was doing wet wash for hand laundries. He described a number of meetings of power laundry executives, all members of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association, who did the same kind of business. Attorney Sapiro was present as counselor for the association. The meetings started in the fall of 1932 and continued into 1933.

Neivelt testified that at these meetings Attorney Sapiro repeatedly urged the power laundry owners to persuade the hand laundrymen whom they served to enroll in the Cook County Hand Laundry Owners' association. The power laundries, under the Sapiro plan, paid a check-off on their trucks to the laundry and dye house drivers' union, to be used for this organization work. On Monday it was testified that Marshall Rose, field secretary of the hand laundry association, had admitted that he was assigned to that post by Murray Humphreys, public enemy No. 1, who is under indictment in the present trial, but is a fugitive.

Price Differential Set.

At a meeting in November or December, 1932, Neivelt said, Attorney Sapiro announced that thereafter members of the hand laundry association would be charged 3 cents a pound for wet wash and 4 cents a pound for flat work by power laundries, while nonmembers would have to pay 4 and 5 cents for the two classes of work. Neivelt described a telephone conversation which he had the following day with John I. Toomey, secretary-treasurer of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association, on the subject of the price differential.

"I got sore," said Neivelt, "and said, 'It's the biggest racketeering I ever saw, and you can tell Mr. Sapiro so.'"

At the next meeting of the power laundry group, in January, 1933, Neivelt said, he asked Sapiro if it was true that the inside laundry workers were being organized. (On Monday it was testified that Humphreys had bought the charter of this union from the men who obtained it for $1,500.) Sapiro replied, according to the witness:

"The more unions, the more racketeers, the better it is for you."

Recalls Reply to Sapiro.

"I told him," said Neivelt, "'You may think so, but a lot of laundry owners don't.'" Sapiro, he said, then called him a vile name and said:

"You're a violator. I could close you up tomorrow, under your contract, but I won't. I'll keep you in the association. All of the others here can take your business. You have no protection any more."

Assistant Prosecutor Thomas Dodd Healy read to the jury a number of letters which Neivelt received from Sapiro, dunning him for payment of back dues and assessments, and threatening that if payment was not made he would be cited to the drivers' union as delinquent in his membership in the laundry association.

The implied threat there, the prosecution contends, was that the union called strikes at the plants of association members who violated its rules. Others of the letters demanded that Neivelt pay damages to another member of the association for taking a customer from the other company.

"Forced to Pay Damages."

Sam Specter, 1528 Pratt boulevard, owner of the Ineeda laundry, also testified yesterday that the Chicago Laundry Owners' association made him pay damages to another laundry for taking one of its customers.

Specter's attorney was Kaplan, who was also attorney for the laundry association. He told how Kaplan, as attorney for the association, had admitted having the drivers stage a strike at the plant of his personal client, the witness. The strike, on March 23, 1933, resulted from Specter's use of billboard posters advertising cut prices, it was brought out. The witness said that he called Kaplan on the morning of the strike.

"I wanted to resign from the association," said Specter. "Mr. Kaplan told me I had better reconsider. He said he had had protests from other members on the posters and that he had to take action. That was the reason for the strike, he said."

Specter arranged to have the offending posters removed and notified Kaplan of his action later in the day, whereupon the strike was ended, he said.

Philip Gilman, owner of a hand laundry at 5328 Belmont avenue, testified yesterday that Mortimer Cook, a business agent of the drivers' union who got a severance in the present case because of illness, demanded in November, 1932, that he join the union because he drove his own truck. He refused, he said, saying that he was not making enough money to pay the dues. Cook, he said, threatened to "make it hot" for him. On Nov. 17, 1932, the witness said, the window of his shop was broken and a stench bomb was thrown inside.

Dr. Squires, who has been absent from the trial since the presentation of evidence in the cleaning and dyeing phase of the alleged conspiracy was stopped, is in the Illinois Central hospital, under observation for what may be an attack of amebic dysentery, it was learned yesterday.

WAGNER SAVES SHAVE, BUT IT COSTS HIM 2 HOURS AT OVERTIME

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.] tonight ordered what probably was the most expensive shave of his career.

Detained at a prolonged session of the national labor board, of which he is chairman, and with a dinner engagement in the offing, Wagner stuck his head out the door of the conference room and called a secretary:

"Call the hotel and have them hold a barber there until I come—no matter how late. I'll pay the difference."

Two hours later the senator streaked away from the board and headed for the hotel, several miles away.

N. U. TRUSTEES CONFIRM DOOM OF MERGER PLAN

Northwestern university trustees in their regular monthly meeting at the Drake hotel last night unanimously voted to lay aside proposals for a merger with the University of Chicago. Their vote approved the joint statement of the merger committee of the two universities made public last Saturday, announcing the abandonment of merger plans. Northwestern's merger committee was officially discharged.

Last night's action officially ends merger negotiations which gained nation-wide notice last November. After the meeting it was learned that negotiations had virtually been completed and ready for presentation to the Northwestern trustees at the November meeting last year. It was added, however, that rapid growth of opposition to the merger led its sponsors to postpone action until a later meeting.

SENATE RAISES PAY, PENSIONS 350 MILLIONS

Yields to Veterans and U. S. Employes.

tive. Today's action, if it becomes law, will undo another third of the original saving.

The senate's attitude was denounced by Senator Robinson in a vigorous speech in which he warned of a possible veto and charged the whole program of increased expenditures to politics.

The Candidates Succumb.

The balloting gave force to his assertion. Every Republican who voted—and there were 30 out of 35 in the senate—voted for the increase. Only 15 Democrats stuck with the administration and voted "no"; a total of 37 voted in the affirmative.

Out of the 14 Democrats, 17 Republicans, and one Farmer-Labor member running for reelection next fall, only Senators Byrd of Virginia, Thompson of Nebraska and Walsh of Massachusetts, all Democrats, voted against the increase. The vote on the Long bonus amendment took place in the face of a letter sent to Speaker of the House Henry T. Rainey of Illinois and made public earlier in the day.

The letter was as follows:

"Dear Henry:

"Mac" [Marvin H. McIntyre, assistant secretary to the President] "has shown me your letter of Feb. 21. Naturally, when I suggested to you that I could not approve the bill for the payment of the bonus certificates I did not mean that I might let it become law without my signature. I don't do things that way. What I meant was that I would veto the bill and I don't care whom you tell this to.

"Let me know your thought on the next step. F. D. R."

Action on Borah's Plan.

For the Long amendment were 17 Democrats and 7 Republicans; against it were 39 Democrats, 24 Republicans and the single Farmer-Laborite.

Then to the very evident dismay of the senators came Senator Borah with his amendment. He first wanted federal pay restored to no officer with a salary above $8,000. As one of those wanting increases in veterans' allowances and pay restored to the lower grades of federal employés, he said he wished to oppose the President's wishes with "clean hands." At Senator Robinson's suggestion he changed the figure to $6,000. Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] spoke for the amendment; Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] helped perfect it.

The senators, asked to face no restoration of their own pay, were laughingly confident when Vice President Garner put the question in a voice vote which clearly showed a preponderance of "noes."

There was an instant demand for a roll call, but this was denied for lack of sufficient seconds. Senator Vandenberg leaped to his feet demanding a division, interrupting the Vice President as he proceeded to announce the amendment's defeat. The demand for a roll call was renewed.

Senators on Spot.

"I'm going to give 'em a vote," the chair retorted, and the roll call went on.

Put on the spot, the senators had to come through. Though close, the "ayes" gradually gained. Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] first voted against the amendment, then, seeing that it would carry anyway, decided he had better be on the right side. Amid laughter he switched his vote to "aye." The amendment carried, 45 to 39.

Because of haste in its drawing, it will give officers with higher salaries the 5 per cent increase until July 1, then deprive them of the full 15 per cent restoration which then goes into effect for other employés.

DIES AFTER GARAGE FIRE.

Walter Piper, 28 years old, of Wheeling, owner of a garage there, died in his home Monday of pneumonia which developed after he had suffered burns when the towing truck in his garage caught fire.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

ASKS EXCLUDED BALLOTS BE PUT BACK IN RECOUNT

Attorney Hayes McKinney, representing Charles F. McKinley, former Municipal court judge, in his election contest, asked County Judge Jarecki yesterday to include ballots cast in the 31st precinct of the 2d ward in the recount. The ballots were cast in the election of Nov. 4, 1930. McKinley is contesting the election of Judge George V. McIntyre to the Municipal bench.

If the ballots were included the precinct would show a net gain of 54 votes for McKinley and would aid him in overcoming the lead of 272 votes that Judge McIntyre established in the recount. Judge Jarecki deferred his ruling on this precinct and on two others until tomorrow. McKinley is also seeking to have the votes of five other precincts thrown out as fraudulent. In the event these votes were declared void, he would be shown the winner. Attorney McKinney indicated he expects to close the case at the next hearing.

The ballots in the 31st precinct of the 2d ward were excluded from the recount when Mrs. Lillian Moore, colored, a judge of election in the precinct, testified that she had initialed 100 ballots at a time, which is contrary to the rules of the election commissioners.

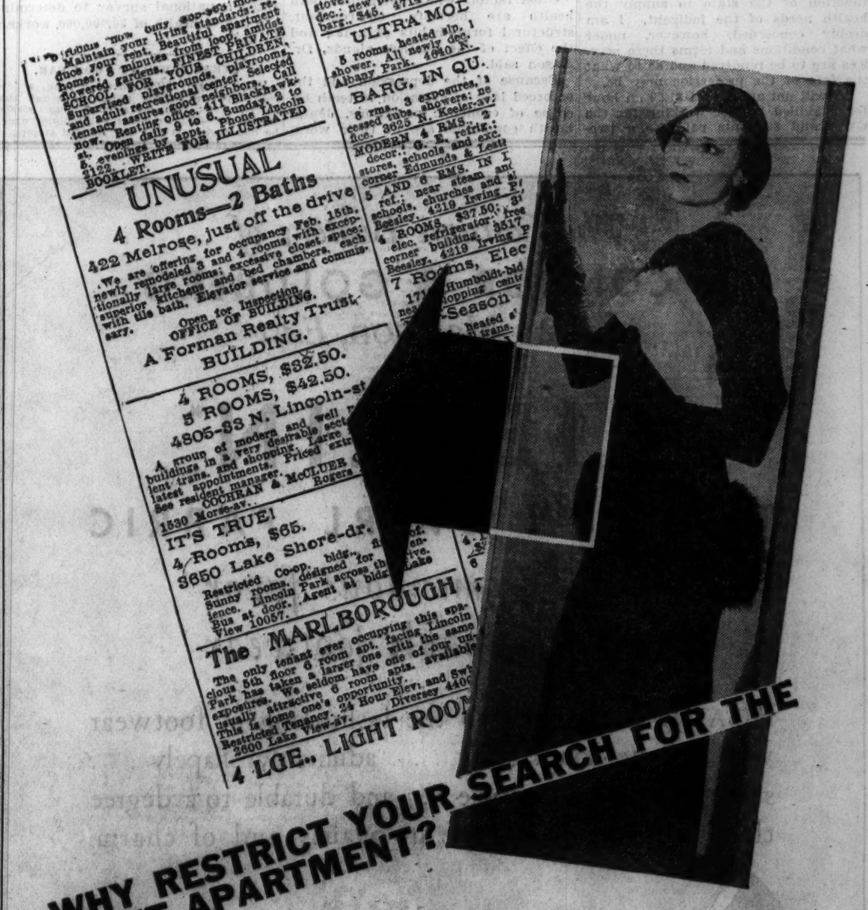
APARTMENTS IN ALL NEIGHBORHOODS TO SUIT ALL TASTES



WHY RESTRICT YOUR SEARCH FOR THE RIGHT APARTMENT?

There is no point to limiting your opportunities to get the kind of an apartment you prefer. But you are very apt to do so if you go about it in the old-fashioned way.

When you trudge from building to building without having in advance the slightest idea of what an apartment looks like, you waste time and energy. Besides, when you use this method, you have no assurance that you make the best selection.

When you read the want ads in the Tribune you have no restrictions as to neighborhoods or price or arrangement of rooms. You can choose from a comprehensive list of apartments in practically all desirable neighborhoods.

Within half an hour you can shop the offers printed in the Tribune. You can clip those that describe the advantages you want and then inspect the apartments at your convenience. This plan saves you time and energy, and provides more opportunities to find a truly satisfactory apartment.

OPENS THE WAY FOR REHEARING ON GRAND JURY

Supreme Court Justice Stays Mandate.

Chief Justice Warren H. Orr of the Illinois Supreme court yesterday signed a stay of mandate that paved the way for a rehearing of the case in which the high court last Friday declared the Cook county grand jury system illegal. The action prevents the decision from becoming effective until the court has ruled on Attorney General Otto Kerner's petition for a rehearing.

Assured in a long distance telephone conversation that his request for a stay of mandate would be received favorably, Attorney General Kerner traveled by automobile from Springfield to Chief Justice Orr's home in Carthage. There the stay was signed.

Kerner Files His Notice.

Attorney General Kerner made the trip to Carthage after he had filed notice with the Supreme court clerk in Springfield that he would petition for a rehearing in the case. The notice of petition came just four days after the court decision was announced and was filed to prevent a chaotic condition in the Cook county Criminal court caused by a flood of appeals provoked by the ruling.

The stay of mandate automatically halted proceedings in the case of Jack Lieber, Chicago robber now in Joliet prison, whose conviction was reversed in the decision that threw Cook county crime fighting forces into confusion. Should the Supreme court reaffirm its decision in a rehearing, law enforcing officials said, 700 indictments would be found illegal and retrials and reindictments would cost Cook county taxpayers upwards of $1,000,000.

April Hearing Expected.

The action of Chief Justice Orr removed the necessity for a special session of the Supreme court, which had been suggested by the state in order to bring immediate reconsideration of the case. The stay of mandate will keep in status quo the Lieber case and all other cases affected by the decision until the next regular session of the Supreme court in April. At that time the justices are expected to consider the petition for a rehearing.

"Following the usual practice in such cases, I have today allowed the motion of Attorney General Kerner to stay the mandate which otherwise might have been issued to release Jack Lieber from the penitentiary. He will remain in confinement at least until the Supreme court meets again in April and has had ample time to consider the petition of the attorney general for a rehearing."

Courtney Prepares Petition.

By agreement with Attorney General Kerner the rehearing petition is being prepared in the office of State's Attorney Courtney. A completed draft was considered at a conference of Mr. Courtney and some of his assistants with judges of the Criminal court yesterday afternoon.

Today the petition will be put in final form and sent to the attorney general this afternoon or tomorrow for filing in the Supreme court. State's Attorney Courtney declined to reveal the contents of the petition until after it has been filed.

Among those who attended the conference were Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court, Judges Michael Feinberg and Grover C. Niemeyer, Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach, First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley, and Assistant State's Attorneys Edward Wilson, Henry Seyfarth and Albert Woll.

Reduce Court Confusion.

The confusion caused on Monday by attorneys rushing to the Criminal court with petitions to quash indictments against their clients was reduced to a minimum yesterday. All attorneys were told that such petitions must be made in writing and filed with the court clerk. The day brough a large number of them.

Several attorneys, however, announced themselves in favor of abolishing the grand jury system in Illinois to speed up justice.

Henry Barrett Chamberlin, managing director of the Chicago Crime commission, said that the commission had long advocated abolishing the grand jury and substituting an appointive judiciary for the elective system. He explained that the grand jury could be eliminated without constitutional amendment.

"The Illinois constitution specifically provides that the general assembly may abolish the grand jury," Mr. Chamberlin said. "Of course something must be substituted in order to bring the accused to trial. This can be accomplished by allowing the state's attorney to file informations with the court."

ONE ROBBER DIES, 2D CONFESSES IN POLICE SHOOTING

Patrolman Near Death as Result of Battle.

Shortly before he died in the Bridewell hospital last night, Paul La Verne Darnell, 20 years old, 6247 Blackstone avenue, was named by a companion bandit as the man who shot Policeman John Henry of the Englewood station early yesterday in the holdup of a saloon at 6404 South State street. The policeman, whose bullets fatally wounded Darnell, was reported in a dying condition in St. Bernard's hospital.

The robber who confessed is Eleio Baker, 21 years old, 6057 Harper avenue. He broke down and said he participated in the robbery after being questioned for several hours by Assistant State's Attorney Richard H. Regan.

Story of the Holdup.

Baker and Darnell entered the saloon and ordered the customers to remain quiet. Policeman Henry, who was on his way to his home at 7944 Bishop street, but had stopped in the saloon for a sandwich, was among the customers. The policeman drew his weapon and began firing when one of the bandits slugged Ralph Geyer, a bartender, for being slow in obeying orders.

Darnell, according to Baker, fired the shot which struck the policeman in the abdomen. Darnell then staggered out and escaped despite fatal wounds from the policeman's gun.

Women Are Seized.

Acting on information received from a physician who had been summoned to attend Darnell's wound, the police arrested the robbers in a flat at 6247 Blackstone avenue. They also seized Darnell's young wife, Verna, who is soon to become a mother; his sister, Mildred, 18 years old, a tap dancer; his widowed mother, Mrs. Frances Darnell; Mrs. Betty Wilson, 24 years old, 1647 East 77th street, a waitress, and George Zipse, 22 years old, 6055 Stoney Island avenue.

Darnell was taken to the Bridewell hospital and the others were held for questioning. Baker's confession came after he had been identified by victims of the robbery and was further incriminated by Arthur Litt, 1315 Madison park, an orchestra drummer, Mildred Darnell's fiancé.

COUNTY IS SERVED WITH ORDER TO GIVE 34 JUDGES BACK PAY

The county commissioners were served yesterday with a state Supreme court mandamus ordering them to pay approximately $85,000 to eleven Superior court and twenty-three Circuit court judges. The sum represents the amount of salaries withheld from the judges by the county board in the 15 per cent salary cuts in 1932, 1933, and 1934. Commissioners criticized the action of the judges who sought the mandamus, but declared payment would be made from county fees and penalties.

Hayden Bell, assistant state's attorney, advised the commissioners that an attempt to seek a rehearing of the case would be inadvisable.

The mandamus was served at the regular meeting of the commissioners at which they launched a $3,000,000 road building program by opening bids on the first twenty-one projects, which will cost $750,000. The county is seeking Public Works administration aid in this work, and officials hope for a grant covering 30 per cent of the cost. The remaining 70 per cent is to be paid from the motor fuel tax fund, which will provide the total cost if the federal government refuses aid. The projects bid on yesterday are scattered construction work, 40 per cent of which is to be within the city of Chicago.

WEALTHY HEIR, HELD AS INSANE, SEEKS FREEDOM

More than a dozen witnesses took the stand yesterday before Judge Frank W. Shepherd in Geneva and testified that Fred W. Wolf, 53 years old, 202 East Walton place, is sane. He is one of the heirs to his father's $2,000,000 estate and he is seeking his freedom from the Elgin hospital for the insane on habeas corpus proceedings. The hearing will be resumed today.

Wolf was first sent to the asylum last July on a complaint signed by his daughter, Mrs. Ann Loftus, 29 years old, which was made, according to charges, at the instigation of his estranged wife, Mrs. Jessie L. Wolf. Two months later he was freed from the hospital and a notation was entered in the Cook County court that he had been restored to sanity. Two months ago he was recommitted on a new complaint.

Wolf is now on parole in the custody of Attorney T. H. Alfreds of Park Ridge pending disposition of the habeas corpus matter. His attorney, Daniel Anderson, asserted that though Wolf's wife has been receiving $500 a month as conservatrix of the estate, she gave Wolf only about $2 a week while he was in the asylum. Under the terms of his father's will, Wolf receives $10,000 a year from trust funds.

CHAIN GROCERY OFFICIAL KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Fred P. Pfleger, 6258 North Talman avenue, general manager of the western division of the Kroger Grocery and Baking company, was killed yesterday in Madison, Wis., when the automobile in which he was a passenger crashed into a parked truck. Two other employés of the Kroger company were injured.

Three motor deaths in Cook county yesterday increased the year's total to 195. The victims:

Mrs. Agnes Kiesgan, 58 years old, 3524 North Ashland avenue. Died in the American hospital of injuries incurred Saturday when she was struck at Ashland avenue and Addison street. The driver, J. D. Moran, 4517 Dover street, took her to the hospital and reported the accident to police.

Joe Long, 60 years old, 2026 South Dearborn street, a Chinese. Fatally injured when he was run down at Cermak road and Wentworth avenue. The driver of the automobile, Leon Brotemarkle, 2014 Indiana avenue, was held by Cottage Grove avenue police for the inquest.

An unidentified woman, about 60 years old. Instantly killed at Stony Island avenue and 76th street by an automobile driven by Ross Rennie, 27 years old, 6548 South Marshfield avenue.

COAL DEALERS SEEK WAGE PACT WITH NEW UNION OF TEAMSTERS

The Chicago Coal Merchants' association yesterday authorized its labor committee to negotiate an agreement on wages and hours with a new union of coal teamsters and helpers, headed by James [Lefty] Lynch and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. This union is known as the Coal Drivers, Helpers and Handlers International brotherhood, No. 704.

It was organized during the strike called by the so-called outlaw union, the Chicago Coal Teamsters. This strike came to an end Feb. 20, after State's Attorney Courtney had approved the newly formed Lynch union and announced his intention to drive the old one, headed by David Reese, out of existence.

The Coal Merchants' association, whose members deliver 90 per cent of Chicago's retail fuel, has not negotiated with the old union, the majority of whose members are still loyal to Reese. The association instructed its labor committee that in dealing with the new union it shall comply with the conditions and provisions of the retail fuel code and submit any propositions agreed on to the full membership of the association.

Three Held to Grand Jury on Killing Charge

A coroner's jury yesterday ordered Thomas Bolger Sr., 48 years old, and his son, Thomas Jr., 25 years old, both of 2108 Sheffield avenue, and Otis Gibbs, 44 years old, 2015 Sheffield avenue, held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter. It was alleged in testimony before the coroner's jury that the trio beat Owen Henry, 31 years old, 2033 Osgood street, in a fight Feb. 12, inflicting fatal injuries. The principal witness was William Lehmann, 10 years old, 2106 Sheffield avenue.

Miss Bennett has one other child, a daughter, Diana, 6, by her former marriage to John M. Fox of Oregon.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Marinette, Wis., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Frederick Dionne, 24, was found dead in bed at his rooming house today. A 38 caliber revolver was clutched in the right hand. A bullet had entered the forehead. He had not been seen since Saturday.

A TRUE STORY

By A MOTHER

whose physician told her ten years ago how to keep her children well

HERE is a mother, who, with her three children, has been enjoying the blessings of perfect health ever since her doctor told her the secret ten years ago!

She is Mrs. J. A. Sullivan, 180 Sherman Avenue, Meriden, Connecticut, and she sends us her story hoping that those who read it may learn this simple method of health and happiness. With her letter she sends us photographs of herself and her children which certainly bear out all her enthusiastic praise of what her doctor told her ten years ago. Mrs. Sullivan writes as follows:

"We are enthusiastic Nujol users, and have been ever since my oldest boy, who is now ten, was a baby, when my family physician advised me to give him Nujol.

"I have seen all three of them through all the children's diseases, which invariably come with the school age. However, no complications have ever occurred, nor have any bad after-effects developed, and I have always felt that this was due to the regular habits acquired by the systematic use of Nujol. We are all healthy and busily active from morning till night."

Here is another true story by a mother, of how she keeps herself well, and how for the past ten years she has kept her three children in perfect health.

Why don't you follow her example, and see what Nujol will do for you when you take it regularly so that it will make you regular as clockwork?

Bring up your children on it too. It cannot hurt them; it is perfectly pure and absolutely harmless; and it forms no habit. Nujol is just a lubricant and is not absorbed by the body at all. Nujol comes in two forms, plain and Cream of Nujol, which is flavored and is often preferred by children. You can get both forms of Nujol at any drug store.

What is your Nujol story? If you have been using Nujol for ten years or more, if you are bringing up your children on it, tell us. Address Stanco Incorporated, 2 Park Avenue, New York City.

DEPORTED RED TELLS OF NAZI PRISON TORTURE

Moscow Cheers 3 Arson Trial Defendants.

MOSCOW, Feb. 27.—(AP)—In a two hour diatribe against Nazi Germany, Georgi Dimitroff described in detail tonight the "moral and physical torture" he and two comrades suffered in a Berlin prison after their acquittal of arson and treason charges in the German reichstag fire trial.

He expressed his happiness at reaching finally his "real fatherland"—Soviet Russia—and declared the young Dutchman, Marinus Van Der Lubbe, who was beheaded for starting the blaze in Berlin a year ago, "was not guilty."

Trio Secretly Deported.

Dimitroff, Wassil Taneff, and Blagoi Popoff arrived by airplane this evening from Berlin, where they were unexpectedly and secretly deported this morning after being held in prison for weeks despite Russian efforts to obtain their release. They were made citizens of Russia recently after their Bulgarian citizenship had been revoked. Thousands of enthusiastically cheering Russians greeted them on their arrival here.

"Van Der Lubbe set fire to the reichstag restaurant, but others fired the plenary hall," Dimitroff said. "The real organizers of that crime are now sitting at the top of the German government. The fire itself was a provocation, and the Supreme court trial in Leipzig and Berlin [which was concluded last September] was the same thing.

"No one can tell who burned the reichstag, but the full story will some day be revealed in the court of the German proletarian dictatorship."

His Story of Catacombs.

Dimitroff told how he and his comrades had been confined in underground dungeons, which he called "catacombs," in Berlin after the trial. He said they were kept handcuffed and in separate cells during the whole period from five months before the trial until they were released today.

"When our jailer found something to complain of against us or wanted to question us," Dimitroff said, "he tightened these bracelets periodically. It was particularly bad in Taneff's case, because he did not speak a word of German and did not know why they were torturing him. It was a régime of moral and physical terrorism."

Recalling that today was the anniversary of the reichstag fire, Dimitroff said: "The Nazis thought that through the trial they could shake off the guilt from their own shoulders to the communists, but the trial turned against them. Even the Nazis themselves are now convinced that the trial was an empty Fascist demonstration."

Greeted by High Officials.

"Hurrah for Dimitroff!" and "Hail the world revolution!" were among the slogans shouted by the crowd as the trio landed here. A band played the "Internationale" as Dimitroff was raised to the shoulders of communist officials.

D. Z. Manuilsky, a member of the communist Internationale's executive committee, headed the boisterous throng, which was composed of communist party members and officials and delegations of factory and office workers. The cheering throng all but swamped the big eight passenger plane as it taxied to the stopping place.

Dimitroff and his comrades were driven to the communist International hotel on the Tverskaya—Moscow's 5th avenue—in a large and expensive automobile, which was convoyed by cars carrying prominent leaders.

The deportation of the trio from Germany was so secret that the soviet embassy in Berlin was not aware of it for hours. They were flown out of Germany by way of Koenigsberg, where they changed from a German to a Russian plane. On the flight to the German border they were escorted by two secret service men, who ordered Koenigsberg police to allow nobody to approach or talk to the trio.

JAP BICYCLE INVASION OF ENGLAND FOUGHT BY BRITISH PRODUCERS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 27.—British bicycle manufacturers believe they have forestalled a Japanese attempt to flood the British market with bicycles selling for $12.50 each and even less.

A consignment of 500 shiny new "pushbikes" arrived from Japan last week and was bought by a London agent at a little more than $5 each. It was his intention to sell the bicycles to retailers at $9 each—a price which would have allowed for the 33 per cent duty and still left him a profit. If the first consignment sold well, the Japanese were planning to send 5,000 bicycles into England annually.

But even before the first consignment arrived, the National Association of Cycle Manufacturers instructed all its members not to sell or repair Japanese cycles, tires or acessories. Retailers now have been ordered not to handle them and an underground boycott is in full swing throughout the industry.

PRINCE TELLS OF KILLING RASPUTIN THE MONK TODAY

Will Take Stand in Wife's Libel Suit.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The story of "how and why I killed the monk, Rasputin" will be told from the witness stand in King's bench court, probably tomorrow, by Prince Youssoupoff. The prince's wife, Princess Irina Alexandra, daughter of Grand Duke Alexander and niece of the late Russian Czar Nicholas, is suing Metro-Goldwyn Mayer Pictures, Ltd., for alleged libel contained in the film, entitled, "Rasputin and the Empress."

In this film Princess Irina charges she was represented by the character, Princess Natasha, who in the picture, was a mistress of the monk, Gregory Rasputin. Irina, who is suing for $2,000,000 damages, was being cross-examined when the trial was adjourned today.

Sir Patrick Hastings, counsel who appeared for the princess, said later he would put the prince on the stand to swear that no one could mistake the identification of his wife with the character Natasha.

Will Tell of Monk's Plot.

Sir Patrick declared the prince would tell of the slaying of the "mad monk" and among other things, how Rasputin boasted to him that he was at the head of a conspiracy to make the czar abdicate in favor of the czarina.

"After which," Rasputin was quoted as saying, "I will be the supreme ruler of Russia."

Sir Patrick outlined other parts of Rasputin's career, how he gained influence over the czarina by threatening to withhold medicine, of which he alone professed to have the secret, from the czarina's invalid son.

HELD POWER OVER WOMEN.

The association of Rasputin with the Russian imperial family formed one of the strangest chapters in the history of European royal houses. Rasputin, the son of a peasant, was a moujik priest, or unordained monk, who went about preaching to whoever would listen.

He was fanatically religious, but his morals were of the lowest. His power over and exploits with women—many of them of the Russian court—were notorious. He wielded this mysterious power even over the czarina, according to evidence revealed since his death. He was slain late in 1916, after having received numerous death threats from irate husbands.

Rasputin's influence on the royal family is credited by many with having hastened the fall of the Romanoffs in 1917.

FRENCH PLAN BIG BOOST IN FORCES OF LAND, SEA, AIR

Program Slated to Obtain Cabinet Approval Soon.

PARIS, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A broad program to build up the military strength of France will be acted on shortly by the cabinet.

More troops and airplanes and speedy completion of vessels now under construction are included in the plan, said to have the tentative approval of Premier Gaston Doumergue.

One of its purposes would be of economic rehabilitation; another to strengthen the country's defenses in view of the troubled European situation, particularly the armament impasse with Chancellor Hitler of Germany.

Financed by Loan.

The program would be financed through a loan. Military equipment, it is understood, would be modernized and stocks of ammunition increased. Marshal Henri Petain, minister of war, favors a strong full time army of "shock troops."

The navy would speed authorized construction of ships and roads, probably in the Alps, would be constructed to relieve unemployment.

The plan to spend $65,000,000 annually for three years to build up aviation facilities is an integral part of the program.

Italy Accepts British Note.

ROME, Feb. 27. — (AP) — Italy has agreed to accept the British disarmament memorandum, well-informed circles said tonight, as a basis for future arms discussions. Germany already has agreed to do likewise and Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal and roving arms expert, will leave tomorrow to ask France to accept it.

It was learned on reliable authority that as a result of Capt. Eden's conferences with statesmen in Berlin and Rome, Germany, Italy, and Great Britain are in accord on what should be done to prevent an armaments race. The French reply, which is expected to be unfavorable, will now decide the fate of disarmament, quarters close to the government indicated.

An important feature of the British suggestions, as distinguishing them from Italian, French, and German memoranda, is that they definitly call for a reduction and not a mere limitation of armaments among heavily armed nations.

Britain to Boost Air Force.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The air estimates, shortly to be presented to parliament, are likely to disappoint that vociferous section of conservative members of parliament who are clamoring for a big increase in Great Britain's aerial arm at home and abroad.

The estimates, it is understood, will provide for the addition of three regular squadrons and a slight strengthening of certain minor units during the coming fiscal year. This will bring the strength of the Royal Air force up to 45 squadrons, which is seven below the "minimum safety level" of 1923.

Critics complain that with the increasing air forces of other powers, notably the United States, France, Japan, and Russia, the British inferiority will become more marked.

FREED OF GAMBLING CHARGE.

Louis Giannini, 39 years old, operator of a restaurant at 3757 West 57th street, was acquitted of operating a gambling device yesterday by Judge Francis Borrelli when police admitted they had seen no money paid out from the slot machine seized.

SPANISH BASQUES THREATEN TO SET UP OWN REPUBLIC

Madrid Crisis Due to Reach Head Today.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Feb. 27.—Socialists received warning today that if their revolt succeeds, they will find themselves governing a nation which is reduced in size. The warning came from the Basque Nationalists, who assert that they will declare their independence from Spain if a Socialist government seizes the power. They added that they are the masters of their own provinces, and are ready for action at a moment's notice.

That the Socialists do not take the Basques' warning as a joke is indicated by the fact that they printed it in three columns on the front page of their newspaper, Socialista.

Prepare for Armed Resistance.

The story is by Rafael Picavea, a Basque deputy, and was written originally for a Basque newspaper. He reports that Basque leaders already have ordered 100 airplanes and a consignment of machine guns from abroad, chiefly from Czechoslovakia. These arms, for which 5,000,000 pesetas [currently about $676,000] is on hand for payment, would be delivered as soon as Bilbao was proclaimed the capital of the new country.

Thirty thousand members of the Basque youth organization known as Mendigoizales are ready to stage a counter revolt, Picavea says. They have detailed instructions, and are armed to carry them out. They already know what strategic points to seize.

If Madrid refuses to grant the Basques independence, Picavea declares, those 100 airplanes will attack the capitals of Burgos and Valladolid provinces.

Sees French Opposition.

However, there are several things which these preparations do not take into account. Two of the most important are:

1. That France would hardly appreciate the formation of a new republic, which the Basques on her side of the border might want to join.

2. That Madrid also has a few airplanes and an army.

Meanwhile, all eyes in the capital are focussed on Premier Alejandro Lerroux's radical party, which at a meeting tomorrow will virtually decide whether there will be a revolt by taking a stand on the party's adoption of an anti-Marxist policy. Sixty out of 105 deputies of the party are said to have signed a motion to be presented at tomorrow's meeting asking for such action.

POPE ELEVATES CARDINAL TO FOIL WRATH OF NAZIS

Makes Foe of 'Paganism' Immune from Arrest.

MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Pope Pius conferred the title of papal legate today on Cardinal Michael Von Faulhaber to thwart any move by subordinate Nazis to arrest the outspoken clergyman.

Diplomatic immunity from arrest is carried by the title. The cardinal has frequently been assailed by prominent Hitlerites for his sermons against paganism and efforts to revise the Old Testament.

Foe of Cult Movement.

While Protestant pastors have engaged in a months-long argument over church leadership and teachings, Cardinal Von Faulhaber has frequently incurred the wrath of the Nazis by his opinions.

A week ago he issued a stern warning in a pastoral letter against modern conceptions holding morality subject to "convenient" changes to suit the needs of the moment.

Apparently referring to a German cult movement, he declared that "manners and customs have their day and perish, but God's commandments are sovereign and eternal, and cannot be set aside by the dictates of mere man."

Fired for Being Kind to Jews.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEIPZIG, Feb. 27.—Fräulein Vorwerk, a teacher in the Goethe school, was suspended today because she stopped a pupil from reciting a poem which she feared would offend two young Jewish girls in the same class. The headmaster of the school, Dr. Behrends, was also suspended for supporting Fräulein Vorwerk's action. At a meeting of the Leipzig city council, at which the suspensions were ordered, it was declared that "such an attitude on the part of teachers cannot be tolerated under any circumstances in the Nazi state."

Decree Twelve Holidays.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 27.—German workers are guaranteed a dozen general holidays every year under a new law decreed by the cabinet tonight. Most of these holidays have already been celebrated in the past, but in some instances not in all states.

The "national holiday" on May 1, celebrated for the first time last year, becomes a permanent fixture. "Heroes day"—formerly movable and known as "the day of mourning for war dead"—in the future will always be celebrated on the fifth Sunday before Easter. Repentance day falls on Wednesday before Trinity Sunday, and "Harvest thanksgiving" falls on the first Sunday after Michaelmas. The other holidays are New Year's day, Good Friday, Easter Monday, Ascension day, Whitmonday, Christmas day, and Boxing day.

Protestant districts will have a holiday on Oct. 31, Reformation day. A holiday in Catholic districts is Corpus Christi day.

BURGLARS KILL TWO; ATTEMPT TO BURN BODIES

Wellington, Colo., Feb. 27.—(AP)—A man and a boy were slain here tonight and a woman was wounded by burglars, who attempted to burn the bodies but were frightened away by the woman's screams.

Sheriff George Sanders said two men and a boy were held in jail in connection with the case.

Clifford Smith, 36, and Robert Griffen, 16, an employé, were shot to death when they returned to the Smith home from a school play. Mrs. Smith was shot and probably fatally wounded.

The robbers, apparently believing Mrs. Smith dead, proceeded to pour kerosene on the bodies of Smith and Griffen, she said.

When she realized what they were doing she screamed and managed to struggle to her feet, whereupon they fled, she told the sheriff.

KIN OF EX-FRENCH PREMIER OUSTED IN BOND SCANDAL

PARIS, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Georges Pressard, brother-in-law of former Premier Camille Chautemps, today was suspended from the office of chief prosecutor of Paris by the French cabinet, which is pressing an investigation of the $60,000,000 Stavisky bond scandal.

The cabinet instructed Henry Cheron, minister of justice, to examine charges repeatedly made in the chamber of deputies that Pressard was responsible for numerous postponements in the trial of Alex Stavisky on charges growing from Stavisky's financial manipulations.

REHERSE MANCHU RITES FOR PU-YI'S ENTHRONEMENT

Altar of Heaven Scene of Ceremonies Today.

BULLETIN.

HSINKING [Changchun], Manchukuo, Feb. 28 [Wednesday].—Henry Pu-Yi completed his pre-enthronement purification ceremonies today and immediately thereafter received American and foreign newspapermen for the last time as plain "Mr. Pu-Yi."

HSINGKING [Changchun], Manchukuo, Feb. 27.—(AP)—While Henry Pu-yi stayed indoors today to prepare by fasting and meditation for his enthronement Thursday as emperor of Manchukuo, other principals in the tradition-hoary ceremonies rehersed their parts in sub-zero weather.

The scene was the altar of heaven—built of earth and consisting of three concentric circular terraces—where the 3,000 year old rites will reach a climax at dawn Thursday [about 4:30 p. m., central standard time, tomorrow].

Use Ancient Dialects.

Manchukuo and Japanese officials, courtiers, and high Manchu dignitaries—one of whom took the 28 year old Pu-yi's part—shiveringly intoned the commands and directions of the ceremonies in ancient Manchu dialects.

Thursday the altar of heaven will be hidden to foreign eyes, but today a glimpse of the three-tiered structure was vouchsafed correspondents. Around it are yellow screens 12 feet high, and the whole place is enclosed in a barbed wire stockade covered by vari-colored bunting.

It reminded one of a county fair. This resemblance was heightened by ginger bread triumphal arches erected along the three mile route the emperor-designate will travel on his way to worship at the altar.

Guarded by Soldiers.

No photographs will be allowed Thursday. To prevent any untoward circumstance soldiers will be massed in close formation around the scene, armed to the teeth.

Pu-yi, the present chief executive of Japanese-sponsored Manchukuo, will be called Emperor Kang Teh, "tranquility and virtue." Among his first acts will be to issue a large cash grant for orphans, endow new libraries and museums, reduce land and salt taxes, and grant amnesty to prisoners.

With the enthronement the government will observe with patriotic exercises the second anniversary of the foundation of Manchukuo and, in effect, welcome the birth of the new Manchukuo empire—Ta Manchu ti Kuo, the "great Manchu empire."

Gorilla Still Insists on Daily Shower Bath

LIFT BAN AGAINST HAPSBURGS! CRIES AUSTRIAN CHIEF

Would Pave Way for Return of Dynasty.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

VIENNA, Feb. 27.—Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg, commander of the Fascist heimwehr, now in control of the government, declared today that laws banishing members of the Hapsburg dynasty from Austria and confiscating their property must be repealed.

The question of a possible restoration of the Hapsburg monarchy, however, "is almost impossible to answer while we are in the midst of our work of reconstruction, particularly because we are not sure it could be kept a purely Austrian question," he said.

Starhemberg emphasized repeatedly that he and Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss are in full agreement and that "we stand or fall together." He thus sought to dispose of suspicions that he wanted to become dictator of Austria.

Denies Border Precautions.

The prince, Dollfuss' right hand man in driving the Socialists out of Vienna, denied that extra precautions were being taken along the Austrian frontiers.

"If it should become necessary to safeguard the frontier," he said, "heimwehr troops would, of course, be rushed in that direction, but personally I do not anticipate this necessity."

"The name Hapsburg," he went on, "is an idea, a conception which reaches out and affects parts of Europe over and beyond Austria's present borders.

"Therefore the problem of restoring the Hapsburg dynasty must be approached with the greatest caution. It is not yet possible to say whether it would be desirable."

Sidesteps Question of Regent.

In reply to a question whether the establishment of a monarchic form of government is contemplated with a regent ruling until a Hapsburg is ripe for discussion, Starhemberg said:

"It is too early to discuss that, too. Offhand, it may seem simple to establish a regency similar to that in Hungary, but the situations in Austria and Hungary are not similar.

"For the time being it is unimportant whether we have a president or a regent. The only important thing is the direction in which we are going and the policy we are carrying out."

He pointed out, however, that a phase of the Hapsburg question could be solved, and that without further delay—anti-Hapsburg laws must be revoked.

Otto's Aids Scoff at Rumors.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Persons in the entourage of Archduke Otto, claimant to the Austrian throne, scoffed today at suggestions that he planned to concern himself with the situation in Austria.

They said that while rumors were going the rounds that he had set out for Vienna, he was quietly resting in his castle.

Robbers Shoot Saloon Owner; Get Only $5 Loot

Two armed robbers, both of whom appeared to be intoxicated, entered a saloon at 1659 West 21st street last night and after taking $5 from the owner, John Nowak, 54 years old, one of them shot and wounded him in the right arm and the back. The shooting was witnessed by Joseph Gural, 1707 West 21st street, a customer of the saloon. The gunmen escaped. Nowak was taken to the county hospital, where he is in a serious condition.

France to Hold U. S. Spy Suspects Several Months

PARIS, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The hope of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Swits of East Orange, N. J., for an early release from prison, where they have been held since Dec. 20 on espionage charges, faded today with indications that an official investigation of the case was far from ended. Several months are expected to elapse while authorities sift seized documents and police reports in an effort to determine to what extent the ten prisoners held are acquainted with each other.

Ever march through MUD?

THEN YOU KNOW WHAT A TIME YOUR ENGINE HAS PLOWING THROUGH THICK, STICKY WINTER OIL

MUDDY FEET ARE SLOW. You know the strain and effort of dragging heavy feet through mud. An engine has to labor against thick, sticky winter oil in just the same way. See the next picture.

DRAG MAKES STARTING HARDER. (See picture below) To start fast in cold weather an engine must turn over easily. If winter drag slows down turning speed the engine can't start quickly.

END DRAG—INCREASE MILEAGE. When winter-grade Iso-Vis "D" goes in, drag goes out. Engines turn over fast, start quickly. And because you take a heavy load off your engine you may get as much as 2 more miles per gallon of gasoline.

10-W POURS AT 20 BELOW ZERO

END WINTER DRAG ...SAVE GASOLINE

New grades Iso-Vis "D" free your engine of costly winter drag. Give quicker starting. Reduce gasoline cost.

Mud slows the soldier down. In just the same way oil that gets thick and sticky in cold weather makes the going harder for your engine. It clutches pistons, cylinders and bearings—sets up a heavy drag that makes starting harder, uses up power and wastes gasoline.

You can get rid of this expensive winter drag—by using the new winter grades Iso-Vis "D"—10-W and 20-W. They resist thickening in bitter cold. They give your engine free play at low temperatures—let it turn over easily and start quickly.

And when you end winter drag you use less gasoline. Your pistons spend their energy driving the wheels, not laboring against thick oil. You may save as much as several miles per gallon.

These new winter grades pour in sub-zero weather. They do not thin out dangerously under heat. They will not sludge. At all Standard Stations.

PERSIA TO SPEND $150,000,000 ON FIVE YEAR PLAN

Shah Plans to Mechanize Ancient Industries.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Persia will launch a five year plan next month. It will be called the shah's plan, in view of the strong anti-Russian bias in Persia. The plan envisaged a complete reversal of the present policy of graduated industrial expansion in favor of "intensiveness."

Within the last year all tenders from Russian firms for the supply of machinery and plants have been politely refused, as acceptance would imply the influx of a large number of cummunist technicians into Persian workships. The material for the plan will be purchased in Sweden, Germany, Great Britain, and the United States.

Twenty textile factories are to be built. At present the paucity of Persia's output of certain cotton and knitted woolens makes the home made variety six times more expensive than the imported.

Plans to Mechanize Industries.

The American advisers employed by the shah at the time of the Anglo-Persian dispute have reported favorably on the exploitation of the oil fields' concessions surrendered by the Anglo-Persian Oil company under the terms of the Geneva settlement. American technicians and equipment will be sought for this industry.

The shah has decided to mechanize all of Persia's ancient industries which brought her wealth in the past—carpets, shawls, rugs, embrodieries, cashmeres. Intensive carpet manufacture at Ispahan, Tabriz, Kazvin, Shiraz, Meshed, and in other districts is to be established forthwith, and machinery is to be purchased abroad. To run these factories the water sheds of the Caucasus and Elburz mountains are to be exploited for hydro-electric power.

Riza Khan is also determined to establish at Bander Shah, the new port he has founded on the Caspian, a fish canning industry and a small iron and steel plant [as a beginning] for building small vessels, thus becoming independent of the Russian Caspian yards. The low lying land in the northeast, where the earth's surface reaches its lowest depression, is to be flooded to increase humidity and to provide a cheap means of communication.

Indians Get Concessions.

Parsee millionaires from Bombay have obtained concessions to erect tile factories and some textile mills in the south, and more capital may be available from that quarter.

To meet the costs of this ambitious program the Persian government will continue for the next five years to earmark the tea and sugar monopolies and also the receipts from the Anglo-Persian oil concession. There is plenty of local capital among the rich land owners, and recently they have shown a disposition to invest their money in local industries.

In well informed circles it is confidently said that Persia will spend between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 abroad in the next few years. She will pay cash and will not interfere, as is Turkey and Russia, with the rights of private ownership.

The newly discovered coal mines are all on crown land and are being very successfully worked, chiefly at Aliabad, where iron and copper are also to be found in commercial quantities.

AMERICAN PLANES SOLD TO GERMAN AIR LINE

Type 247-A Boeing transport plane, three of which have been sold by the American company to the Lufthansa, state subsidized German air line. It was the first sale of American planes to a European line.

First Such Sale

The first sale of American built transport planes to a European air line was announced yesterday by the Boeing Aircraft company of Seattle, Wash. Three of the latest type Boeing transport ships have been sold to Lufthansa, the state subsidized German air transport line, which operates a number of lines connecting England and the continent.

The planes are identical with the type 247-A Boeing planes used by the United Air Lines in their transcontinental schedules. The ships are equipped with retractable landing gear and with two standard Wasp motors [550 h. p.]. The propellers, as in all the United Air Lines ships, will be of the controlable pitch type, which give the planes a cruising speed of 171 miles per hour and a top speed of 190 miles an hour. The planes carry ten passengers and crew of three.

COMMONS BACKS McDONALD 'SNUB' TO HUNGER ARMY

Votes to Refuse Idle a Hearing.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The house of commons after a bitter debate late tonight upheld Prime Minister MacDonald in his refusal to receive a deputation from the thousands of hunger marchers who came to London last week to protest against the government's new unemployment relief program. The vote was 270 to 52.

The prime minister was subjected to severe personal attacks from the excited Laborites during the debate. G. Buchanan, Independent Laborite, referred satirically to the prime minister's Socialist past and recalled that not many years ago his present Conservative supporters described MacDonald as a "communist dupe who was doing Moscow's work." He called attention to the quiet, orderly behavior of the marchers since they came to London and urged MacDonald to raise his prestige in the country by granting them a hearing.

"A Sneer and a Scoff."

The first of a volley of interruptions came when Buchanan charged that MacDonald met the marchers "with a sneer and a scoff." Immediately the ministerial benches resounded with shouts of "shame!" and "withdraw!"

The fireworks were repeated a little later when John McGovern, another Laborite, described the difficulties of the Scottish marchers on their long trek to London. When he referred to "certain well fed and over wined persons" he was drowned out by shouts of Conservatives.

McGovern was strongly reproved by the speaker and confined the rest of his speech to an appeal to the prime minister to meet the marchers.

Maj. C. R. Attlee, deputy Labor leader, and Sir Herbert Samuel, chief of the Samuelite Liberal section, both briefly supported the motion for a hearing of the marchers. Sir Herbert drew a vivid picture of the suffering of the unemployed and declared the action they had taken was "to stir the nation out of its shameful complacency."

MacDonald Makes Fiery Reply.

MacDonald replied in a fighting speech in which he declared that the object of the marchers was to spread "unconstitutional agitation, disrupt organized labor, and destroy constitutional movements."

"It is merely trifling with the distress which unemployment is causing to induce people to come marching to London," MacDonald asserted.

He added that no prime minister and no government could countenance proceedings inspired and controled by "subversive forces."

After a sharp retort by the fiery James Maxton, who interpreted MacDonald's remarks as meaning that he intended to "crush democracy," the house supported the prime minister.

Doctor Accused of Illegal Operation on Girl of 15

Dr. George H. Dietz, a physician with offices at 2407 North Halsted street, was arrested by Sheffield avenue police yesterday on a charge that he performed an abortion on a 15 year old Franklin High school girl. The girl is recovering in St. Elizabeth's hospital. A few hours after the physician was taken to the station Michael Rapini, 45 years old, was seized and confessed to police that he had seduced the girl in his candy store at 1760 Larrabee street, where he also lives.

WILLARD COLVIN, HEIR TO MILLION, IS SUED BY WIFE

Charges Drinking and Extravagance.

Mrs. Hally McLeod Colvin, 28 years old, 100 East Chicago avenue, yesterday filed suit for separate maintenance in the Circuit court against Willard Otis Colvin, young sportsman and heir to a million dollar estate left by his father, the late Edwin M. Colvin, printing company official. The bill, drawn by Attorney Samuel A. Rinella, charged that Colvin has been an habitual drunkard for ten years and has squandered a large portion of his inheritance.

Mrs. Colvin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving McLeod, 117 4th street, Wilmette. Her father is a stock and bond broker. The bill filed yesterday was her second separate maintenance action. In August, 1928, she sued Colvin, alleging that he had become a wastrel since the death of his father in 1926. The bill was withdrawn a week later, when the couple became reconciled and went on a second honeymoon to Europe.

Married In Elopment.

The Colvins were married in Valparaiso, Ind. on Aug. 22, 1922, after an elopement which upset plans for a fashionable wedding in Chicago. They had three children, all of whom died in infancy. Immediately after the wedding, according to the bill, Colvin went to work for his father at the W. F. Hall Printing company at $18 a week, but was given a monthly allowance by his father.

On the death of his father Colvin became the beneficiary of the estate, which was set up as a trust. He draws $1,800 a month from the Northern Trust company, the trustee. He will receive the principal when he is 40.

On the withdrawal of her first bill for separate maintenance, the bill says, Mrs. Colvin agreed to "forgive and forget and start life anew." Since then, however, Colvin "has resorted to his old conduct and although taking cures at sanitariums in Europe and America has refused to forsake the habit of liquor," the bill says. The suit also charges that he has used profanity and physical violence toward his wife.

Seeks to Block Payments.

The bill asks temporary alimony pending the disposition of the suit and an injunction to restrain the Northern Trust company, which is named as co-defendant, from making further payments to Colvin. Attorney Rinella said that he would appear before Judge Walter J. LaBuy tomorrow morning on motions for the alimony and the injunction.

Colvin is 32 years old.

RALPH CAPONE OUT; TO ENTER HONEST TRADE

Perhaps Horse Racing, for Example.

Longbranch, Wash., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Smiling, dapper Ralph Capone, of Chicago, came out of the McNeil island federal penitentiary today, his sentence for income tax evasion served, and said he is going "into some legitimate business—not liquor."

"I never violated the law before prohibition, and I don't intend to now prohibition is repealed," said the stocky, black moustached elder brother of "Scarface Al" Capone, when he was released after serving two years and five months and paying a fine of $10,000.

"The public always got me wrong. I was interested in horse racing and gambling. I never had much to do with Al's affairs. I'm going into some business—I don't know what—but I'm still interested in horses."

Ambitious for Family.

Capone stepped from the McNeil island dock to a ferry boat as if from a bandbox. Blue suit, blue overcoat, gray fedora, gleaming black shoes and flashing teeth—all were immaculate. A friend met him with a car and they slipped away.

"Well, I made a slip and I paid for it," he said. "I am glad to be out and to go home, to bring my famaily a little happiness. I realize what I have done and how I have made them suffer, and I am ambitious to make them happy. After all, I didn't pay the tax and I did break the law.

"I also broke the prohibition law when it was in effect—so did 99 per cent of the other people. I did my time and I don't feel bitter toward any one."

Led into Evil.

"I'm going back to Chicago—by automobile, so I won't be bothered."

He intends to detour through California.

"Now I want to live quietly. No, I don't want my picture taken—I have had too much publicity. This income tax—I wanted to pay it, but my lawyers said no. I signed an affidavit I shouldn't have. I don't like to break the law, though I do like for a man to feel free," he commented, puffing on a cigar in a bone holder.

WELCOME FOR WANDERER.

Mrs. Theresa Capone, matriarch of the Capones, and Mrs. Ralph Capone, who has been living in Cicero since her husband entered prison were both away from home yesterday and it was reported that both had journeyed west to meet Ralph on his release from prison.

When a reporter called at the two flat building at 7244 Prairie avenue where Mrs. Theresa Capone lives, a servant said she understood the mother was on her way to meet her son.

In Stickney, where Ralph owns property, there were reports that he was to be welcomed back with a huge banquet.

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday there was no need to fear the reëstablishment of the old Capone gang. "We're not tolerating any hoodlums," he declared, "Ralph Capone or any others."

MUSSOLINI GIVES CROWN PRINCE OF ITALY A BIG JOB

ROME, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini found Crown Prince Humbert and other princes of the blood worthy of military promotion today under his new rules based primarily on "the length and praiseworthiness" in their present commands. Decrees signed by the king elevated Prince Humbert from the rank of brigadier general to that of division general. The duke of Aosta became a brigadier general in the air forces and the dukes of Pistoia and Bergamo were made brigadier generals in the infantry.

Dr. Dean Takes Stand; Denies Giving Kennedy Poison Drink

Greenwood, Miss., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Breaking the silence which she had consistently maintained since her arrest last August, Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, handsome 36 year old child specialist, today denied from the witness stand the state charge that she poisoned Dr. John Preston Kennedy, her admirer, with a whisky highball.

In a soft voice Dr. Dean told the jury Kennedy had divorced his wife and sought to marry her, giving her a diamond ring which she wore for nearly two years, and that he had "threatened to kill us both" when she broke off the engagement to marry another man.

Tells of Fiancé.

Her fiancé, she said, was Capt. Franklin C. Maull, ship pilot of Lewes, Del. She said their marriage plans were broken up by her arrest last August.

After she had been on the stand for more than an hour Defense Attorney Denman put a blunt question:

"Dr. Dean," he said, "I want you to tell this jury whether you ever gave Dr. Kennedy a drink of whisky containing poison."

"I did not," she said emphatically.

"Where were you on the night of July 27, 1933, when Kennedy is supposed to have been given a drink of poisoned whisky?"

"I was at home."

The state had charged the two held a midnight tryst at the clinic that night.

"Did you tell Dr. Kennedy you were going to marry Capt. Maull?" Denman pursued.

"Yes, on July 19."

"Did he make any threat when you told him?"

Threatened Death.

"Yes. He had been drinking. He said if he had a gun he'd kill us both. He said he was depressed, that I couldn't do it."

"When and where was the last time you saw Dr. Kennedy?"

"On the night of July 25, on my porch. That was the last time I saw him. He said, if I remember, 'I just won't let you go.'"

Scores of women crowded the courtroom early in the day when it was reported Dr. Dean would take the stand. Squads of deputies were on guard.

Ald. Bauler Trial Delayed Until After April Primary

Hearing on the charge of assault with intent to kill against Ald. Matthias [Paddy] Bauler [43d], who shot Policeman John J. Ahearn in front of the Bauler saloon at 343 West North avenue on Dec. 19, was continued yesterday by Judge Donald S. McKinlay until April 12. The delay was granted on the plea of the defense that the trial should be continued until after the spring primary, April 10, in order that the case should not be made a political issue. Bauler is running for ward committeeman.

HIT THAT COLD
WHERE IT LIVES—
in the System!

Don't fool yourself about a cold! It's nothing to be taken lightly nor treated lightly. A cold is an internal infection that will quickly spread within the system unless promptly checked. The wise thing to take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

First of all, it is distinctly a cold remedy and not a "cure-all." Secondly, it is an internal treatment. Thirdly, it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. That's the treatment a cold requires and anything less is taking chances. All druggists sell Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and reject a substitute.

Aviation Notes

Lieut. Col. Horace M. Hickam, commander of the central zone of the army's air mail organization, last night announced that air mail pilots who have lost their jobs through cancelation of commercial air mail contracts will be given first consideration in the selection of reserve pilots by the army. Applications for these positions should be addressed to him at his headquarters at Chicago airport, Col. Hickam said.

United Air Lines yesterday put into effect a new overnight passenger and express service between Chicago and Los Angeles when one schedule was cut two hours and another one hour.

Northwest Airways, operating between Chicago and the Twin Cities, has put two stops in Chicago into effect. In addition to the stop at the terminal of the line, at Chicago airport, the two planes in each direction daily stop at Curtiss-Wright airport in Glenview for the convenience of north shore residents.

Danger Lurks in the LAXATIVE HABIT

Physicians Warn Against Irritating Drugs

Gentle, Effective, Tasteless
The proper dosage is one-fifth glass Pluto Water in four-fifths glass hot water. This small amount is ample to do the work, gives perfect results, and is virtually tasteless. Pluto Water can be taken without disturbing one's daily routine.

Everyone knows that dull, mean headaches are often due to constipation.

But few people outside the medical profession seem to realize that this condition is frequently made worse by the use of medicine-laxatives.

Why? Because most medicine-laxatives work by irritating the delicate membranes. Soon the intestinal muscles refuse to respond to an ordinary dose . . . compel you to take more and more. Before you know it, the laxative-constipation habit has you in its grip.

Nature's Way—a Flush
(The Water Way)

Nature's way is far more simple. It is merely to flush out the wastes and poisons—without impairing the intestinal muscles in the least.

That's why more than 50,000 physicians recommend Pluto Water. For Pluto is not a drug or medicine laxative but a saline mineral water. The same amount each time—no need to increase it—always performs, does not gripe, gives positive results in less than one hour—cannot give you the laxative habit!

Pluto Water is gentle—but speedy. That's because the proper dilution—one-fifth glass Pluto in four-fifths glass hot water—promptly opens the pylorus valve . . . permits the flush to enter the intestines and complete its work without anxious hours of waiting.

Shake off Asthenia!

If you feel achy, listless, only half-alive, that's nature's warning of Asthenia—a condition usually caused by the poisons of constipation. Pluto's famous ten-day treatment ends it promptly—makes you feel like a different person.

CHICAGO CALLED POULTRY CENTER OF THE NATION

New Yorker Says Industry Brings In Billion.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Chicago, so frequently cited as the meat packing center or the leading grain market of the nation, was given a new characterization yesterday. It was hailed as the center of the billion dollar poultry industry, which has continued throughout the depression to return money to more farmers, without need for federal relief, than any other branch of agriculture.

This position of Chicago in relation to agriculture was given by Howard C. Pierce, head of the poultry department for a large chain system in New York, in an address before the agricultural council of the Chicago Association of Commerce at the Great Northern hotel.

Trends in the Industry.

His remarks summarized the trends in the poultry industry as they are being determined in the annual fact finding conference of the poultry industry this week at the Medinah Michigan Avenue club.

While the flock of chickens seems to be a sideline on the farm, said Mr. Pierce, it brings a total of a billion dollars a year to some five million farmers. About half of the eggs produced in the nation come from the area within 500 miles of Chicago, he said.

"Only milk, corn and cotton bring more revenue to agriculture, but to fewer farmers, and because the industry is so widespread there is little recognition of its importance," declared Mr. Pierce. "The increase in poultry production is unlike most other farm businesses in that it has just about kept pace with the increase in population of the nation."

Although dressed poultry and eggs are produced largely in the middle west, western consumers use far less poultry products than easterners, he added. If everyone in Ohio ate as much poultry as do the average Bostonians, there would soon be a shortage of poultry and eggs in this country.

New Market Sought.

Easterners use three times as much poultry as do those living so close to the source of supply, a potential market which the industry is now seeking to obtain. Mr. Pierce declared vast improvements had been made in quality of eggs and eating chickens, which coupled with high food value per cost in relation to other foods maintained the cash market for farmers.

"Turkeys used to be served only for Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday dinners," he added. "Now we find small, tender turkeys in demand to exceed the supply for Washington's birthday or Easter dinners. Few roasting hens now reach the consumer before receiving a fattening diet of grains and buttermilk, and are now available in season and out."

Mr. Pierce believes farmers are beginning to realize that more profits come from the so-called meat producing breeds of poultry which also have fairly high annual egg production capacity, than from the Leghorns or strictly egg production breeds. The poultry industry, he said, has kept more nearly on a stabilized basis than other farm products industries.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm By Bob Becker

Ready for New Lambs

Feb. 26, 1934.

JOHN RAWLINGS, who has charge of the sheep and poultry on THE TRIBUNE'S new experimental farm, west of Yorkville, in the Fox river valley, has the sheepfold all ready for the arrival of the "spring lambs." It will only be a few days until it will resound with the bleating of the little lambs, so there is an atmosphere of expectancy here on the farm. The fold has been enlarged to take care of the 173 bred ewes but even a generous addition to the building may not be big enough to house all the ewes and their lambs.

Every morning now Rawlings puts the ewes in the feed lot so that they can gather around a wagon load of corn fodder and feed for a while. Then he drives them back to the sheepfold where they have shelter from the cold wind and a soft layer of straw on which to lie.

The ewes are getting plenty of rich clover hay these days. Feed racks, both in the fold and outside in the yard, are lined with ewes when this food is distributed to them. Standing out in bold contrast among the gray woolly animals are two black sheep—maybe not jet black in color, but still black enough to merit the name. One ewe, raised on a bottle during infancy last year, and very tame as a result of this intimate attention, comes over to get a tidbit. She hasn't forgotten that human beings are pretty good friends after all.

From now on none of the ewes will be allowed to stay out in the feed lot for any length of time unless Rawlings is around. He wants no little bleating lambs born in the snow or out in the cold winds. Last year when other duties forced him to leave the sheepfold for a very short time he returned to find that several new additions to the flock of sheep had been born in the cold outdoors. It took several hours close to a fire to warm them before they were restored to their mother's care.

The preparations for the arrival of the spring lambs has made itself felt even in Rawlings' home, because there will be some lambs which have to be fed from a bottle.

Maybe a weak sickly little fellow will have to be nursed for a week or more next to a warm fire. Such was the case last year.

"When the lambs come"—that is the watchword around the sheepfold these days, because the arrival of these wobbly-legged little fellows is a living symbol of the new season on the farm.

FARMER GROUPS BOLT WALLACE'S RELIEF PROGRAM

Corn Belt Calls for "Production Cost."

Columbia, Mo., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—The corn belt committee and the Missouri Farmers' association, both headed by William Hirth, today followed their leader into line with the movement for farm prices based on "average production cost" as opposed to the AAA farm relief program.

Terming Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's program as "little more than a tumble weed in a cyclone," Hirth called on members of the corn belt committee and other farm organizations and leaders affiliated with him to attend the farm conference called to meet at Des Moines on March 10, 11, and 12 by Gov. Herring of Iowa. Purpose of conference will be to consider means of obtaining a fair price parity between agricultural and industrial products.

Hirth, who said he had reached his decision after consultation with Gov. Olson of Minnesota, was, as leader of the M. F. A., largest farm cooperative in America, a constant thorn in the side of the now defunct federal farm board.

First Break from Fold.

His announcement today, however, was his first sharp break with the Roosevelt administration's farm relief program. Hirth was a staunch supporter of Rosevelt.

"Because of the hundreds of NRA codes which have been recently adopted and which have already caused sharp advances in certain merchandise prices the farmer's position has become more critical than ever, and the only possible answer to this situation is the fixing of fair farm prices in our home markets based on the average production cost, and this means compulsory control of the various farm surpluses.

"Last year's gross farm income," Hirth declared, "was less than half that of 1928 and 1929, and thus the billion dollars which Secretary Wallace proposes to add to this year's farm income, even though the codes did not promise to wipe it out and more, would amount to little more than a tumble weed in a cyclone.

Situation More Serious.

"Under the Bankhead bills, which President Roosevelt favors, the south is taking steps to fix a fair price on domestically consumed cotton, and I trust that the above conference will convince Secretary Wallace that the corn belt demands the same assurance on wheat, hogs, and dairy products.

"There can be no doubt that the farm situation has become more dangerous than ever, and that the time has finally arrived when half way measures will no longer suffice. Unless the farmer is placed on an even footing with industry not only is the complete collapse of agriculture inevitable but it will be impossible for our farmers to become the deciding factor in national recovery."

ROBBER IS SHOT BY POLICEMAN IN STORE FIGHT

Policeman Darrell Henninger of the Irving Park station and an unidentified robber battled with pistols last night in the Cornelia drug store at 3500 North Cicero avenue. The fight ended with the bandit, apparently wounded, staggering to the street and fleeing on foot.

Henninger had been assigned to guard the store, which has been robbed several times recently, and was behind the prescription counter when the robber entered. As soon as the intruder drew a pistol and announced his intentions the policeman fired. Two employés and four customers fell to the floor for safety when the robber returned the fire.

TRAIN WRECK DEATH TOLL RAISED TO NINE; THIRTY-NINE INJURED

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—The death toll in the wreck of the Akron-Pittsburgh train last night was raised to nine today when two more bodies were recovered from the wreckage.

The bodies of Fireman O. C. Douthite of Youngstown, O., and W. M. Shaw of New Castle, Pa., the engineer, were those recovered today. Seven bodies previously had been removed from the crushed coaches of the train. Thirty-nine were injured.

The train was speeding along ten minutes behind schedule when the wreck occurred. The engine and tender ploughed down a 20 foot embankment, wrecking a two story signal tower and demolishing a three story brick building. The five cars of the train left the tracks and came to rest at freakish angles. The roar could be heard for blocks.

Police cars and fire trucks from all parts of the city were rushed to the scene. Many of the passengers, dazed, crawled out into the snow-filled streets in scanty clothing and were borne away to warmer quarters or hospitals.

Railroad officials say they do not know the cause of the accident. Witnesses attributed it to a "split" switch.

SEIZE INSURANCE OFFICE; ROB 60 AGENTS OF $3,000

Four gunmen invaded the branch office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company on the second floor at 5944 Madison street yesterday and robbed sixty men and women agents of the company as they appeared to turn in their collections. After holding the office for half an hour during which they collected nearly $3,000, the robbers escaped.

As a precaution against robbery the office doors are locked during the time the agents are reporting, but this apparently was known to the bandits. Awaiting the approach of two girl employés, Agnes Mayes, 1814 South 49th court, Cicero, and Alice Burke, 4940 Huron street, the robbers followed them to the office entrance and crouched behind them until the office manager, Joseph Mills, 834 Monroe street, River Forest, opened the door.

Then pushing inside, the gunmen separated and one of them, armed with a sawed off shotgun, held prisoner in an inner office the clerks and the agents as they arrived. Two of the robbers stood just inside the outer office door and the fourth remained on the sidewalk below as a lookout. While the robbery was proceeding the bandits made Mills open a safe from which they took $400.

IDENTIFIED AS ROBBER.

Leon Sanders, 25 years old, 4915 South Honore street, arrested on suspicion Sunday night, was identified yesterday as one of three men who robbed Charles Lents, 3233 South Paulina street, of $2.50 on Feb. 16 at 47th street and Washtenaw avenue.

REVAMPED PURE FOOD BILL FAILS TO PACIFY FOES

Object to Powers Given Farm Secretary.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—When the senate commerce committee today began hearings on the amended Copeland pure food, drug, and cosmetic bill [commonly called the Tugwell bill] it found a fight on its hands.

And the center of the fight was the secretary of agriculture [not Henry Wallace, but any secretary of agriculture].

The original Copeland bill gave so much power of administration of the bill to the secretary of agriculture that manufacturers and advertisers made a loud lament.

Creates Two Committees.

Then came the amended bill, which provides for two presidentially appointed committees—one on public health, one on food standards—to advise the secretary of agriculture on regulatory measures which he may suggest as necessary. The committees cannot initiate regulation, but, on the other hand, the secretary has to have a majority sanction from the particular committee involved before passing the regulation.

And these provisions, proponents of the amended bill today argued, guarantee to the manufacturer and the advertiser protection from "unwarranted seizure or arrest."

"Not at all," chorused many manufacturers, as they clamored for a board of review to which a defendant might go for protection. This board's final ruling, they demanded, should overrule any ruling of the secretary of agriculture.

Favor Review Board.

Major spokesman today for this point of view was Charles Wesley Dunn, general counsel for the Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America. And the ammunition with which he sought to riddle the Copeland bill was the McCarran-Jenckes bill which does provide for such a board of reveiw.

What he particularly objected to in the Copeland bill was the "reversal of the presumption of innocence," on which it is up to the defendant to prove that the regulation with those whose violation he is charged, is not valid.

Dunn's proposed board of review, consisting of five presidential appointees, would, he argued, bring back the presumption of innocence to the defendant who wanted an appeal.

Later in the day representatives of several woman's organizations got into a scrap with Senator Copeland over the fixing of minimum standards and grades.

Dinshah P. Ghadiali, once of Bombay, India, now of Malaga, N. J., also testified. He shouted praises of his healing methods which, he argued, would be completely curtailed if the bill passed.

Charging that it is a doctors' bill, sponsored by a medical profession that seeks to eliminate all competition, he made this offer: "Come to me with appendicitis. In 24 hours I will send you away, cured, with your appendix still inside you, and $300 not gone from your pocketbook."

DIES OF SKULL FRACTURE.

Hall of Science Exhibits Being Improved at Fair

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Working in a din of hammering, sawing, hum of motors and apparent general confusion, 25 highly skilled men in a couple of rooms in the otherwise bare and deserted Hall of Science at A Century of Progress are rebuilding and improving the basic science exhibits.

Except in the mathematics division there will be few new exhibits in the Hall of Science sponsored by the Fair. Industrial exhibits this year, however, will stress the scientific more than last year's, said Charles W. Fitch, assistant to the general manager, A Century of Progress. Meanwhile the old favorites in the basic science division are being perfected and will be arranged more attractively, a work which has been going on since the day the Fair closed.

Fixing a "Jonah."

A trip around the workshop revealed one workman rebuilding a machine which shows the track of a cosmic ray. Another was working on one which he declared proudly had been a "Jonah." It was designed to show the principle of the steam engine. All last summer it leaked periodically. Next summer it won't leak.

In a corner on a table were scattered the "works" of a robot man, his head staring stupidly, isolated from its body. The chief problem here is to correct the man against the criticism most frequently leveled at him last year that his face was "so dumb looking." An effort is being made to have his lips move more flexibly when he speaks, to avoid the impression he is chewing gum, one workman said.

Another was busy with machinery affixed to the back of a diorama designed to show the migration of red salmon from the fresh waters of Alaskan rivers to the ocean, and back to the headwaters of the rivers, where they spawn and die after trips of up to 1,000 miles. Last summer the salmon were apt to be caught while going up stream and remain in one spot until the machinery was adjusted. Next summer they will swim along smoothly without pause.

Provision for Crowds.

"We discovered last summer that some of the exhibits which were arranged only to accommodate small numbers of onlookers attracted great crowds," said C. H. Menger, assistant to Fitch. "It was impossible to forecast which exhibit would appeal most strongly. This year we can take advantage of our experience.

The collection of human embryos showing the development from 6 weeks on, prepared by Dr. J. M. Essenberg of Loyola Medical school, originally was inclosed in a little 12 foot long case. Early in the Fair season it attracted large crowds, so that persons jammed before it and women fainted from heat and crowding.

It was then moved and spread over 80 feet in the south wing, and when the Fair opens June 1 will be set up with the other medical exhibits on the first floor and a space 40 by 100 feet will be devoted to it. An addition to the exhibit will be cross sections of the adult human body. These are cross sections of actual human bodies, and other medical schools are trying to learn the secret of how Loyola cut the sections so neatly, it was said.

Favorite Better Arranged.

Another favorite, Dr. Georg Roemmert's exhibition of living organisms, one celled animals in a drop of pond water, ditch water, moss scum, or other medium collected by him, will be better arranged this year. This exhibit, in which he puts the drop on a lantern slide, throws a powerful light on it through the microscope and projects the image on a screen, fascinated large crowds by its activity. The unicellular animals fight, eat each other, reproduce by dividing into two cells, and carry on the general struggle for existence before the eyes of spectators.

Last year they were enlarged from 150 to 2,000 times their actual size. This year the number of units of projectors will be increased, the animals' image will be enlarged further, and a horseshoe area three times the size of the exhibit's original space will be devoted to their primitive drama. The exhibit will be near the south door of the great hall in the Hall of Science.

Designing these exhibits is Robert E. Smith, who is in his fourth year of making architectural designs of the scientific models suggested by various scientists. They are then constructed by workmen under Carl Diedrich, in charge of the development shop.

JUDGE CONTINUES TAX HEARING ON POSTAL STATION

TAX COLLECTIONS

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $239,134, making a total of $108,002,098 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Feb. 27 ....$	9,520	$ 49,345
Uncollected.	15,141,880	40,575,034
	1930.	1931.
Feb. 27 ....$	70,843	$ 109,426
Uncollected.	64,254,624	61,601,790

The day's collections of 1932 personal property taxes totaled $192,103.

County Judge Jarecki yesterday continued to March 6 the hearing on Assessor J. L. Jacobs' petition to overrule objections to the 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes on eight subpostal stations in Chicago. The stations are owned by Raymond D. Brown of Indianapolis and are leased to the postoffice department. Attorney William Grace, representing Brown, requested the continuance to allow him to examine further the records on the properties in the assessor's office.

The petition to overrule the objections was presented last Saturday by Thomas J. McGovern, representing Assessor Jacobs. He contended that the assessments, to which Brown is objecting, are not too high and that the government pays many times the value of the properties in rentals during the periods of the leases. Attorney Grace has been ordered to show cause why the objections should not be dismissed.

Hearing on the petition of the Chicago Real Estate board for a 15 per cent reduction in the 1931 assessments on small properties will be resumed today before Judge Jarecki.

AUDIT IN KENTUCKY SHOWS STATE TO BE 'ABSOLUTELY BROKE'

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The state's general fund was described as "absolutely bankrupt" in an audit of the state government released today to the legislature and the general public. It was prepared at the instance of the the governor's advisory council.

The audit called the present conditions of the state's fiscal affairs "a real financial crisis," and submitted a list of proposed remedies which involve complete state and county reorganization. The audit comprised a volume of several hundred pages.

Among the remedies suggested was the discontinuance of interest-bearing warrants and the revision and simplification of fiscal laws. Revenue measures have been held up in the legislature until release of the audit.

48,000 Shovel Snow; Toll of Storms 14.

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—At a cost of about $25,000 an hour New York City was digging itself out of white drifts today and resuming normal routine. An army of 48,000 men started the work of clearing the city's streets. The city's death toll for the day was five, raising the total for 3 days to 14.

The danger of a threatened fuel shortage in the city and adjacent communities was lessened when deliveries were made by train, barge, and truck throughout the metropolitan area.

Battle Drifts with Food.

Possible shortages of food and milk in snowbound Long Island and New Jersey communities were virtually ended when chain store grocery delivery trucks and milk wagon drivers—many of them using sleighs—fought their way through snow blocked roads to isolated towns.

Transportation lines were again operating on normal or near normal schedules, though incoming steamers were delayed by storms at sea. Bus schedules to New England were resumed.

Snow Fall 10.1 Inches.

The brisk nor'easter which swirled across the city for thirty-six hours, leaving a total of 10.1 inches of snow behind it, had passed up the coast to the Canadian seaboard.

Heavy seas lashed the north Atlantic coasts and the Gloucester fishing schooner, Adventure, with twenty-three men aboard, was in distress, forty-five miles northeast of Gloucester. Further north off Nova Scotia, other maritime accidents were reported.

Winter's latest appearance left the entire coastal regions from the Carolinas northward swathed in white. Winston-Salem, N. C., isolated since Sunday, reëstablished communications today and told an amazing story of no electric light and power, a shortage of gas and giant trees splintered by their burden of ice.

Low temperatures prevailed throughout the south today and added to the burden of the relief work.

TARDY AUTOISTS CROWD COURTS; 600 ARRESTED

More than 3,000 motorists, arrested last week during the drive to force the purchase of 1934 licenses, jammed the municipal police courts yesterday. Most of them displayed receipts showing they have obtained both plates and tags. These were freed and their cash bonds returned. Many others who protested they had been unable to get licenses were granted short continuances.

So many motorists appeared in the police courts that the regular calls in most cases were continued until today. In each of the Town Hall, Stockyards, South Chicago, and South State street courts more than 500 men and women who were charged with failure to buy licenses appeared. Late in the day, according to the records of the court, not a single motorist had been fined.

Meanwhile the police continued to arrest automobile owners who still were driving vehicles with 1933 license plates. Nearly 600 arrests were made during the day.

New Safe, Pleasant Reducing Treatment Amazes Doctor

"I was under a doctor's care for bad heart and liver. He said I was too fat and should reduce.
"I tried all sorts of remedies without results. Then a friend said she had taken BonKora and lost 20 pounds in 5 weeks, so I tried it.
"I have lost 29 pounds in 6 weeks. My hips reduced 9 inches; bust 6 inches; waist 7 inches; I wear dresses 3 sizes smaller.
"My doctor was amazed. I don't go to him any more since I lost the fat that was crowding my heart. My liver troubles, indigestion, constipation, headaches and tired feeling have all disappeared. I feel full of pep. And I look years younger since I lost that fat."—Mrs. M. A. Prateau, 21171 Clarita Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

Chicagoans, Once Fat, Praise BonKora

What BonKora has done for these people it should do for you. These testimonials are genuine; written in gratitude by users of BonKora.

Loses 18 Pounds

"I have been taking BonKora three weeks today, and when I weighed this morning found I have lost 18 pounds. I am feeling a whole lot better, too, as I was bothered with indigestion for years and now I do not seem to get a touch of it."—Mrs. Emma O'Brien, 6812 Vincennes Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Nurse Loses 40 Pounds

"Other remedies had failed to reduce me, but BonKora took off 40 pounds in 6 weeks. It made me feel stronger, and I look years younger. I always recommend BonKora to my patients if they are stout."—Mrs. Francis Rudolph, 4527 Lake Park Ave., Chicago, Ill.

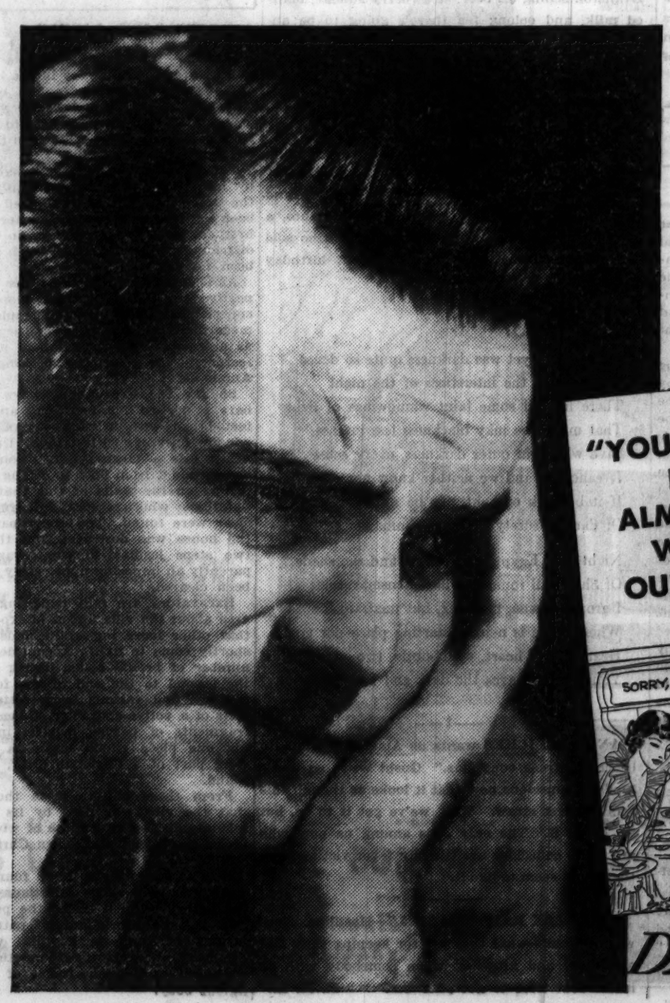
Expert finds many packaged Coffees . . . Stale

Thousands are drinking it—not only flat and tasteless in the cup—but a constant source of Nervous Irritation



MORE than half the packaged coffees bought in 16 cities in a recent investigation were found to be stale. This means that you may be drinking coffee that goes flat in the cup—and is nervously irritating.

Stale coffee develops rancid oil. If you drink it regularly, you are very apt to find yourself easily disturbed, flying into trivial rages.

How can you tell whether your coffee is stale? You can when you buy Chase & Sanborn's—the coffee with a wonderful dating system.

Every pound of Chase & Sanborn's is marked with an expiration date. We watch this Date and see that no can remains on the grocer's shelf after its date has expired!

You know Dated Coffee is fresh—full-flavored and healthfully stimulating. From now on—ask for Chase & Sanborn's Dated Coffee!

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. I will attack the mighty fabric of that mightier engine. I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter."

—Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

THE VICTORY FOR A FREE PRESS.

No amount of sophism, lickspittle, propaganda or abuse can conceal the fact that any code under the servitude of the NRA militates against the freedom enjoyed by the American press since King George III. was driven from these shores. Recognizing this unescapable fact, the code committee of the American Newspaper Publishers association, The Pacific Northwest Newspaper association, the Del-Mar-Va association, the Inland Daily Press association, the National Editorial association, the New England Daily Newspaper association, the Southern Newspaper Publishers association, the New York State Publishers association, and the Hearst organization has done a remarkable work in securing a code that is now as much a Magna Carta as an indenture of servitude. The vital provision for the freedom of the press is there in full force and, unrestricted by the comment of President Roosevelt, the reservation that the terms of the contract may not be changed without consent of the publishers prevents its subsequent removal.

The freedom fought for by the newspapers inures to all the press, for it was incorporated in the code for books, magazines, and printers, without any fight on their part. Thus the freedom of all the press has been protected by the newspaper associations. The court journals, the "liberal" newspapers and their cousins, the communist sheets, are also protected. They will slink, snarling, behind the men who protected them, and snap at their ankles as before.

CONSOLIDATION ECONOMIES.

Whether or not congress held the view that the administrative expense of one hundred and fifty-six class I railways must of necessity affect freight rates when it provided for the consolidation of our railways into a limited number of systems is problematical. It is certain, however, that according to popular view the salaries of so many railway presidents have a decided effect on the cost of railway freight and passenger transportation.

Statistics fail to support the popular notion. The total salaries of all railway executives, officials, and staff assistants are scarcely two per cent of railway gross revenues, so wherein lies the benefit of consolidation? Mr. Eastman leaves us in a quandary. In one section of his report he discusses government ownership which would merge all railways into a single national system and in another place he condemns the Prince and other so-called grand consolidation schemes as offering entirely illusory economies.

If we will forget the unimportant expense of administration for a moment and apply operating and traffic principles we must come to the conclusion that a railway should be as large but no larger than its principal job. Of course, every railway has its local duties, but its real excuse for existence lies in offering a market service to some particular group of commodities produced in the territory through which it operates. The western roads collect the food products of the prairies and consolidate them for movement to eastern markets. The roads serving the mines of the iron ranges must move the ore to the lakes. The so-called eastern trunk lines furnish the link between the Atlantic seaboard and Chicago, St. Louis, and other eastern termini of the western trunk lines. Then there are cotton roads, the Pennsylvania coal roads, and the Pocahontas coal roads, each serving a definite purpose, and so on. Obviously each is most efficient in its own sphere, as is any other business enterprise in its own element. The Missabe roads can more efficiently handle iron ore to the lakes as independent units than as branches of grain roads.

The Illinois Central, on the other hand, built to serve the territory from Chicago to the gulf, spoiled the geography of its system when it acquired a line to Omaha—an orphan among the granger lines. Similarly, the Pennsylvania would ruin the geography of its system by the acquisition of such a line as the Wabash. The history of railroading is replete with instances of successful roads heading for bankruptcy through ambitious plans to invade the backlog traffic of another territory. Therefore consolidation of railways serves a public purpose only when the acquired trackage enables the enlarged system to more perfectly or economically perform its national requirement. A minimum of interpenetration between definite fields should be the goal.

LITTLE BUSINESS AND THE NRA.

Senator Nye's resolution intended to disclose the extent to which big business is dominating the work of the NRA has been approved by the senate. Under the resolution the senate is to be provided with a list of the names of all persons who have been or are now connected with the NRA in Washington, their present and past business connections, and the codes which they helped formulate. The names of all code authorities are to be listed and if any of them were previously in the NRA organization that fact is to be stated.

This information, when available, should prove more than ordinarily interesting to students of the New Deal, but it should be understood at once that such a listing of names and connections will not disclose the whole story of the relations of big business to the NRA. For a fuller understanding it is necessary to recall the economic and legislative setup a little less than a year ago when the National Industrial Recovery Act, under which Gen. Johnson is operating, was being drafted and passed.

We were then near the bottom of the depression. The situation was bad enough for any business man but it was particularly bad for the largest business organizations, generally speaking. In good times they had enjoyed the advantages of mass production and comprehensive selling arrangements in reducing unit costs and expanding output, but both of these advantages had been converted into liabilities by the spring of 1933. When consumption fell off the huge factories found themselves saddled with heavy overhead costs which had to be apportioned among fewer units of output, with results which are too familiar to require comment. The selling organizations were often too expensive to maintain, but without them the hope of restoring volume production was slim.

Smaller units frequently were in a somewhat more favorable situation. The investment was proportionately smaller and manufacturing costs were quite generally lower, particularly for the small industry in the small town. There the lower living costs permitted the payment of lower wages and the proximity of the workers' homes to the factories permitted longer working hours without proportionately greater exertion. The time which the city worker spent on crowded street cars could be devoted, in smaller towns, to work.

For these reasons and others the small units were running big business out of gas. Big business took advantage of the fact that the new administration was inclined to experiment to slip over the recovery act, the real purposes of which were pretty well concealed. The plan, in effect, provided for regulation of industry by industry with some form of government supervision to prevent abuses. Naturally the larger units in any industry were dominant in its trade association and were therefore dominant in the preparation of its code and are dominant in the code authority. With the anti-trust laws virtually repealed, the big units were placed in a position to control prices and thus destroy the competitive advantage of the little fellow in the depression markets.

THE MARKET FOR HOLDOUTS.

Something has to be done to keep baseball alive in public interest over winter and nothing has more publicity value toward the end of the off season than the salary holdout. When Babe Ruth's eyes and legs were younger he could give the populace a fever by sending back his contracts, guaranteeing thereby a sellout all around the circuit for each of his season appearances. No one else is quite so good, and Babe on the near side of middle age, which is baseball senescence, takes a philosophical view of his comparative infirmities. Nevertheless this has been one of the better late winter publicity periods.

Some of the clubs have begun to feel the depression and are beginning to pass it around. The pay check isn't what it used to be. In some cities such as Cincinnati and Philadelphia a baseball depression is only business as usual, but even in good cities, good baseball cities, Cincinnati otherwise is above reproach, there is a tightening of the belt and the players feel the tension on the meal ticket. There is probably considerable good faith in some of the holdouts, but that does not affect the market worth of each salary controversy. It may be only a square deal if the owners in coming to adjustments with their young men allowed a percentage for the publicity value of the various disputes.

Editorial of the Day

A BAN FOR DEEP NETS.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

Persons not conversant with conditions in the great lakes fishing industry may wonder why the proposal to regulate the use of deep trap nets should be considered as part of an emergency program for the special session of the legislature. The fact it is included emphasizes that it is of sufficiently critical importance in the minds of state leaders to warrant prompt action.

The truth is that the whitefish industry is facing extinction because of the greedy methods pursued by some commercial fishermen in their effort to get the last available pound of fish. They have invaded the last strongholds of the whitefish with deep water nets which reach down to the greatest depths of the lakes. Shallower waters already have been fished out in many localities until this delicious fresh water food has been virtually depleted except in the deeper holes.

Unfortunately too many fishermen think only of the present, without concern for the generations to come which should have the right to enjoy this product of Michigan waters. The only remedy is for the state to step in with regulations that will conserve the supply and insure against the extermination of the species. Based on competent surveys by the United States bureau of fisheries over a period of many years, conservation authorities have recommended that nets be limited to a depth of not more than 80 feet. This would leave the fish unmolested in the deeper portions of the lakes and preserve a nucleus for continued propagation.

The legislature should not delay enactment of adequate regulation and enforcement provisions. Every year brings extermination a step nearer. This is an emergency measure in every sense of the word.

THE FINISHING TOUCH.

The lecturer was emphasizing the demoralizing effect of divorce.

"Love," he said, "is a quest; a proposal, a request; the giving of a daughter in marriage, a bequest; and marriage itself the conquest. But what is divorce?"

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE WORLD do move! The authorities at Vassar have issued a new rule permitting the girls to smoke in their rooms in the dormitories during week-ends. Which is very reminiscent of the old wheeze about the dialog between the bartender behind the bar and the boss in his office at the end of the bar: "Say, is Casey good for a drink?" "Has he had it?" "He has." "He is."

"ANGRY MOVIE BEAR and Lion Attack Two in Hollywood."—Headline. And you certainly have to hand it to the bear and the lion. It's really refreshing to get some news out of Hollywood besides divorces.

THE HEART'S WARDROBE.

The heart may wear a thousand gowns,
Its wardrobe ample as a queen's.
In rainbow rows the memories hang,
The shining blues, the lustrous greens
Beside the somber grays. The heart,
However, has its favorite—
Some golden gown that's old, most like,
But trimmed with dreams and exquisite.

"FARMERS to Get Lion's Share of U. S. Easy Money."—Headline. That settles it. I am what is called a "white collar worker." Why my pa didn't teach me how to become a farmer I don't know. Howsoever and notwithstanding, I have today inserted in the newspapers the following advertisment: "For Sale—One dozen [12] white collars, slightly worn. Will trade for plow, one-half acre of land, two billygoats, or what have you?"

'SFUNNY THING this conference inviting critics which Gen. Johnson has called in Washington. Criticism was one thing which I always thought you didn't have to invite. It came anyhow. If your face was dirty; if you said you thought the weather was pretty cold; if you wore a new overcoat; if you bought a new automobile; if you didn't buy a new automobile; if your wife had a new hat; if your wife didn't have a new hat—you were criticized. And you didn't have to call any conference or assembly and invite criticism. You got it anyhow. But if the New Deal is going to teach humanity that criticism shouldn't be expressed until it is asked for—gosh! that one thing alone would justify it. But that would be the millennium or the end of the world or something.

Do not spank Junior or little Nancy for saying the movie was swell, the ice cream was swell or the school teacher was swell. "Swell" is no longer slang; it's the works; that is, it's the cat's eyebrows. Anyhow, what I'm trying to say is that I think it's a swell word.

"LAMBS Fetch Highest Price in Three Years; Now Selling at $10."—Market news. Only ten dollars? I bought a lamb roast yesterday and I got the idea that they must sell for about five thousand dollars a head and that when the butcher bought one he not only handed over the five grand in spot cash but had to kick in with his auto, a mortgage on his home, and ask the man who sold him the lamb what he wanted for a birthday present.

DARKNESS.

There never yet was darkness quite so dense
But through the interstices of the night
There filtered some faint winnowings of light
That made the inky blackness less intense,
Save where, in outer darkness, every sense
Is canceled, and we neither know nor care
If it be dark or light. To be aware
Of dark is surety of light's immanence.

Night, and Egyptian darkness, and the shade
Of Sheol fall round me like a cosmic stole;
I grope, unseen, unseeing, but unafraid,
Where there is neither starting place nor goal;
Heart of my heart, with subtle, two-edged blade,
Your spirit cleaves the dark and finds my soul.

TREATMENT FOR CHILBLAINS.

A. F. writes as follows:

Several years ago I froze my toes and every winter since then I have trouble with my feet. Is there any new and improved treatment for this?

The answer is yes.

There is no statement as to the nature of the trouble, but chilblains is almost a certain guess. This means that, when exposed to cold, the toes and perhaps the entire foot become blue, mottled, and cold. There may be considerable itching. If the case is a rather bad one there may be blisters. As a result of the freezing the tissues have become sensitized to cold and exposure starts up the unpleasant but not dangerous condition known generally as chilblains.

There are two comparatively new procedures, both of which are effective.

The first is paraffin foot baths. The foot and lower leg are kept for 20 minutes daily in melted paraffin held at a temperature of 125 degrees Fahrenheit. The directions call for sterilized wax which melts at 120 degrees. If the baths are to be used in cases in which the skin is not broken, and since bacteria cannot live long in a temperature of 120, one need not deny himself the paraffin treatment because he is uncertain that the wax is sterile. It is important, however, to know the melting point of the paraffin and to be certain of the temperature of the melted product. The equipment includes a container large enough to hold the foot and lower leg and capable of being kept at the right temperature. It also includes a thermometer. The paraffin is put in the container and melted. When it is at a temperature above 120 and lower than 130 the affected foot and leg are immersed in it and kept there for 20 minutes. At the end of this period the parts are removed from the wax and 3 minutes later this substance is peeled off. These treatments are given once a day for about two weeks.

The ultraviolet light treatment is used especially in those cases in which blisters are present, although it is also of service in the other cases. However, if the case has no blisters the paraffin method is the better. The ultraviolet light treatment is given as follows: The light is held about 6 inches from the skin. The exposure is continued until a mild erythema develops. Experience is needed to judge just how much to redden the skin. The treatments are given twice a week for about three weeks. There must be caution not to give a succeeding treatment until the redness caused by the former one has faded out. It is probable that exposure to ordinary electric light would be of some service in a case of mild chilblains, but the proper use of an ultraviolet light will be required if the case is a well marked one.

BABY'S ECZEMA.

G. S. S. writes: I would like to tell how I helped cure my baby of eczema. At 6 months of age eczema started on face, hands, and body. After trying out various salves and prescriptions I found that the following relieved the itching and checked the rest from spreading:

Sponge baths with warm witch hazel were used instead of water. I substituted halibut liver oil with viosterol for cod liver oil, as the latter is so fatty that it is hard for some babies to digest. I skimmed off one inch of cream from a quart of milk. I omitted foods which seemed to irritate the condition. In this case these were tomatoes, peas, oranges. Now, at 21 months, he can have these foods except cod liver oil, as he still breaks out from that.

To prevent scratching, I pinned cardboard tubes [ice cream cartons] on his arms at the elbows, so he could bend the arms, but not scratch his face. I also used a medicine prescribed by my physician, which stimulated the stomach, liver, and bowels, and used a salve containing a tar ingredient. In my baby's case there seemed to be a connection between his eczema and constipation when a new tooth was about to come through.

REPLY.

Eczema in babies is generally due to food. It is cured by changing the diet. The food most frequently at fault is milk. Some cases are cured by skimming all the fat from the milk. Your baby seems to have been one of the large group which has eczema from eating greases and fats. Many thousand mothers have had your happy experience in that their babies have been cured of eczema or cradle cap by lessening fats in the diet.

SCARLET FEVER.

A. B. C. writes: I want some information about scarlet fever.

1. When is it contagious?
2. How long do skin scales remain contagious after they have peeled off?
3. Will sunning blankets make them safe?

REPLY.

1. From the onset of the disease until the throat is normal, the tonsils are no longer swollen, there are no enlarged glands, and no discharges. It is most contagious in the early stages.
2. Peeled skin may not convey the disease at all. At the worst, the scales are not very contagious and in a few hours all infectivity has been lost.
3. Yes.

PROBATE UNNECESSARY.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father died recently. Some time before his death all bonds, stocks, bank accounts, etc., had been transferred to my mother. 1. Is it necessary to do anything with regard to a will which was made several years ago prior to the transfer mentioned above? There is no other property except the home, which was owned in joint tenancy. 2. Is it necessary to transfer title to the home? 3. What effect, if any, would the above transfer have as regards inheritance tax? A. C.

1. We see no necessity for probate if that is what you mean to ask.
2. No.
3. The one-half of the real estate which passes by survivorship might be subject to inheritance tax.

WAGE ASSIGNMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I understand there is a new law in effect regarding a co-signer on a note. I was a co-signer on a note in 1930. Since then I have changed my employment and am not working for the same company I was when I signed the note. Am I still responsible? M. F. B.

It has been the law for many years that a wage assignment is valid only as to wages earned in the employment in which the assignor was engaged when the assignment was signed. We know of no new statute on this point, but the federal Circuit Court of Appeals has recently held that bankruptcy gives a defense against wage assignments.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PREFERRED CLAIM.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I work for a firm who went into bankruptcy in November. They were appointed their own receivers and promised to pay us our wages in thirty to sixty days. To date we haven't been paid, although they paid other creditors. 1. Is there any law to protect a workingman? 2. They told us to cooperate, and now they put us out of work and won't pay us, telling us that they haven't got the money? 3. What can I do? L. G.

1. You were entitled to a preferred claim if you pressed the matter.
2. This implies that you may have acquiesced in the paying of the other claims first. We cannot advise without knowing the facts.
3. If several employés were involved, it probably would be advisable for them to go over all of the facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PARENTS' LIABILITY.

De Kalb, Ill., Feb. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A recent book dealing with the subject of rural sociology makes the following statement: "Parents are made legally responsible for the acts of their children until the age of majority is reached." 1. Are parents held legally responsible for the acts of their children in Illinois? 2. Do you think that this would be generally true in other states? W. L. M.

1. Under Illinois law, the parents are not liable for their children's torts in the ordinary case. It would have to be proved that the parent encouraged or directed the act complained of, or that other additional facts were involved. Neither the parent nor the child is in general liable on the child's business contracts.

From Across the Sea

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME.—Italian archeologists are excited over the discovery in the hamlet of Minore, near Naples, of a patrician villa said to be 1,900 years old and containing mural paintings whose colors are more vivid than those of the houses of Pompeii.

The mansion, which was inhabited by an aristocratic Roman family in the first century of our era, had also been used as a meeting place for the first converts to Christianity in that district, according to relics which have been found in it.

As is usual in Italy, the ruins were partly buried and partly encased in superimposed buildings of a completely modern style. The villa is described as a type of the perfection of architecture in the golden age of Emperor Augustus.

So far the excavations have laid bare a portico 150 feet long and 75 feet broad with a vaulted roof and window openings 30 feet high. Underneath was a large cellar, oblong in shape, intact from floor to ceiling, and it was on the walls of this that the paintings whose colors still remain clear were found. The upper part of the house was destroyed, but thirty-two steps leading to what was apparently an imposing upper story have been cleared.

Excavators are still exploring the area about the villa and it is expected that other more important finds will shortly come to light. A considerable number of bronze coins, dating from the second to the end of the fourth century, and various terra cotta objects of a votive character, stones and fragments of carved marble, including one piece which looks as if it were part of a Christian altar, were found.

From these objects it is thought that the villa was used by its later inhabitants as also a place of worship under the then little known Christian cult.

Similar cases have been found in Italy where the early Christians exercised their religion under the protection of the Christianized patrician owners of some such villa, which eventually became the foundation of a church or the inheritance of a religious body.

THE GRAND JURY.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—The Supreme court of Illinois in a recent decision invalidated hundreds of indictments voted by alleged illegally constituted grand juries in Cook county. As a consequence, if a rehearing is denied by the court, many persons will escape punishment for crimes of which they have been convicted. If that is the law, then the judges of the Supreme court have no alternative but to adhere to their decision. The legislature enacts laws and the courts interpret them.

In this connection it is worth while to note article 2, paragraph 8, of the constitution of Illinois of 1870, which provides, inter alia, "that the grand jury may be abolished by law in all cases." On account of the size of Cook county and the lack of personal knowledge of grand jurors of the law and facts, grand juries in voting indictments rely largely on the advice and suggestions of the state's attorney. The voting of indictments, even though witnesses testify before and evidence is submitted to the grand jury, is little more than a formality. No one ever heard of a grand jury voting an indictment when the state's attorney thought one ought not to be voted or the grand jury refusing to vote an indictment when the state's attorney thought an indictment should be voted.

In other states grand juries have been abolished in many instances except for special investigations, and the change in procedure has been uniformly satisfactory. In Cook county the wages paid to grand jurors annually runs into many thousands of dollars. The time of the sheriff in summoning a grand jury and the time of the court in questioning and impaneling a grand jury add to the expense. It is submitted that this useless expenditure of money in maintaining an antiquated institution in Cook county when public revenues are limited is wholly unwarranted. Prosecutions for misdemeanors and felonies should be on informations filed by the state's attorney with leave of court.

If the governor would issue a call for a special session of the legislature for the legislature now in session to consider legislation abolishing grand juries we can get rid of this antiquated institution and save the taxpayers of this county thousands of dollars annually.

A. C. DE WITT,
Former Assistant State's Attorney.

EVANSTON'S CWA.

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 22.—Chicago CWA offices employ only those living in Chicago. So do the adult education programs. Why, then, is the Evanston office, in the Evanston Chamber of Commerce building, not only in charge of a resident of Chicago, but part of her office force and many of those who bask in the light of her patronage are also Chicagoans? PUZZLED.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—In an article in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE entitled "Business Club Fights Tax for Job Insurance" the writer quotes the president of the club in arguing against unemployment insurance:

"Such large firms as Procter & Gamble, Eastman Kodak, and General Electric have solved their own problems for the mutual advantage of employers and workers, and other worth-while companies can do the same."

I happen to be joint author of a book entitled "Unemployment Benefits in the United States," and therefore happen to know a good deal about this subject. Your readers may be interested to know that Mr. Henry Dennison of the Dennison Manufacturing company wrote to me in February, 1933, "I do acknowledge, by force of all American experience beginning in 1915 and greatly intensified in the past three years, that compulsory unemployment measures are necessary if we are to have more than 2 per cent coverage of American employés. We have no grounds to believe voluntary efforts would go beyond that."

Considering the fact that Mr. Dennison was the first manufacturer in the United States to establish a voluntary plan of unemployment insurance and that he has always been an ardent advocate of industry handling its own problems as far as possible, this is an important bit of evidence. FOR A MORATORIUM.

Chicago, Feb. 21. — The object of the Home Owners' Loan corporation could be rightfully completed by a new law proclaiming a moratorium, which would render void at once any civil action of foreclosure, reinstate in their rights the home owners already expropriated, and order the mortgage holders to accept in exchange new government mortgage bonds proportionate to the actual value of the property.

The Italian-American Civic federation, conscious of the distressing situation in which the small home owners find themselves, is calling upon all goodhearted people and all public spirited organizations to send to President Roosevelt, to Gov. Horner, to congress, and to the state legislature a petition asking this moratorium, and to keep on agitating toward this end until the moratorium is proclaimed. DR. R. CANNIZZO,
President, Italian-American Civic Federation

HORNER FAVORS AID TO SCHOOLS; FIGHT ON MEANS

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner announced tonight that he was in favor of a special tax to pull the schools of the state out of their financial bogs. He made the announcement after a four hour conference with teachers in his office at the statehouse.

In his statement the governor emphasized his decision that state revenues from liquor taxes and the sales tax would not be diverted to the common school fund. He also declared that he was opposed to any increase in the tax on real estate.

"I favor any special tax that will meet the situation," asserted Gov. Horner, "but it must be fair and constitutional."

Republican Opposition Forms.

When news of the governor's declaration filtered out Republican opposition began to form immediately. Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago], minority leader of the house, declared that he would fight any new form of taxation to the last ditch.

"It looks like the state is going tax crazy," said Schnackenberg. "We will fight any new tax burden. The state must use the revenues it already has to support the schools."

The house and senate will hold o joint hearing tomorrow afternoon on the school problem. The galleries are expected to be filled with more than 400 teachers, members of the Chicago division of the Illinois State Teachers' association. It was said that at least one representative from each of the Chicago schools would trek to Springfield by auto or train.

That a storm was brewing over the school legislative program was indicated during the day when Representatives Schnackenberg and Roland V. Libonati [Rep., Chicago] introduced bills providing that the state's liquor taxes should be placed in the common school fund.

Libonati also introduced a bill for the diversion of revenues obtained from the sales tax, over and above the money needed for current state expenses, into the school fund.

Estimates 19 Million Yield.

If the legislation is passed, Libonati said, the fund will be increased by 19 million dollars. He estimated that $6,500,000 would be poured into the state treasury in liquor revenues and that $12,500,000 would come from the unused portion of the sales tax.

Chicago gets about one-third of the common school fund, or a little more than 3 million dollars, from the $10,500,000 annual appropriation. The Libonati plan would add an estimated $6,300,000 to Chicago's portion.

House passage of the "pegged levy" bill was postponed until tomorrow on the motion of Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago] because there were not 102 members present to vote the bill as an emergency measure.

The bill will substitute an arbitrary educational fund levy of 44 million dollars for 1933 and a 43 million dollar levy for 1934. It is estimated that $8,500,000 more in tax revenues will be obtained on the levies of these two years by this method.

JUDGE DIRECTS ACQUITTAL OF 4 BANK OFFICERS

A directed verdict of not guilty by Judge Donald S. McKinlay yesterday ended the trial of four former officials of the Home Bank Trust company on the charge that they made false statements to the state auditor of public accounts on March 27, 1930. The defendants are Peter Evans, former president; L. H. Prybylski and Fred W. Georgs, former vice presidents, and Martin Johnson, former cashier. The bank, which was at Ashland avenue and Division street, paid off its depositors and merged with another bank.

L. V. L. FAVORS 30 ASSEMBLYMEN FOR REELECTION

Report Criticises 18 Incumbents.

Chicago's raking over the coals by the Legislative Voaters' league was completed yesterday with the publication of the final instalment of its report on members of the general assembly whose terms expire this year.

That section dealt with the odd numbered districts from 13 to 31 inclusive, all of which are in Cook county. Each elects a senator and three representatives this year. After scrutinizing the records of those who seek renomination, the league, in effect, found in these districts only three out of nine senators and only twelve out of twenty-four house members of whom it could approve.

Only 30 Approved.

Adding these figures to those drawn from the part of the report dealing with the other Cook county districts, which was published Monday, showed that in this county only five out of fifteen senators up for renomination and only 25 out of the house trying to hold their seats were able to pass muster as having given satisfactory service.

In answer to downstate charges that Chicago sends many unfit men to Springfield, the league in the past has pointed out that to a large extent this is due to the prolonged refusal of the assembly to wipe out the "rotten boroughs" of the metropolis by a reapportionment. This is believed to have a bearing on the final instalment of this report, as it covers a number of small west side districts.

Verdicts of League.

In terse form, the verdicts of the league in reference to candidates for renomination, the numbers preceding the paragraphs denoting the districts, were as follows:

SENATE.

17. Francis J. Loughran, Democrat—Developed considerable capacity; general record good.
15. Peter P. Kielminski, Democrat—Showed complete unfitness; very bad record.
17. James B. Leonardo, Republican—Undesirable record.
19. Richey V. Graham, Democrat—Very good record; characterized by energetic and faithful application to work; has had conspicuous part in much important legislation.
21. George M. Maypole, Democrat—Showed legislative ability, but made rather poor record; capable of greater public usefulness than he has shown.
23. William F. Gillmeister, Democrat—Showed no legislative qualifications.
25. Frank J. Huckin Jr., Democrat—Inactive; has not demonstrated any particular capacity.
27. John Broderick, Democrat—Bad record.
31. Harold G. Ward, Democrat—Record highly praiseworth; studious, level-headed, hard working; a recognized leader; effective and exceptionally valuable service.

HOUSE.

13. Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Republican—Again showed unusual qualities in leadership; his influence was exerted in behalf of many deserving measures; service was notably able and valuable. William W. Powers, Democrat—Unenviable record. John G. Ryan, Democrat—Seemed to give attention and have possibilities of usefulness.
15. James Kostka, Republican—Showed industry, ability, and sound judgment. Matt Franz, Democrat—Bad record. Edward Skarda, Democrat—Improved his record.
17. Charles Cola, Democrat—Poor record. Peter C. Granata, Republican—Elected to vacancy; service too brief for comment.
19. Sol P. Koderick, Rep.—Energetic and valuable service; record was good as during all his years as a legislator. John E. McSweeney, Dem.—Attentive; did well in most respects; was criticized for alleged activity before parole board. John O. Hruby, Dem.—Rather attentive; showed some independence; failed to develop any capacity.
21. Robert Petrone, Rep.—Showed no fitness. Joseph L. Rategan, Dem.—Exhibited ability and skill; record excellent. Edward J. Upton, Dem.—Attentive to work, especially in committee.
23. Arthur M. Kaindl, Dem.—Gave attention to work.
25. Edward B. Bederman, Rep.—Active as usual; highly creditable record. Benjamin S. Adamowski, Dem.—By industry, ability, and fairness, has made an enviable record as a valuable and dependable legislator. Raymond T. O'Keefe, Dem.—Active, but not effective.
27. A. O. Galvin, Rep.—Showed capacity and did pretty well. A. L. Auth, Dem.—Regular; gave careful attention; showed dependability; record very creditable. Edward J. Petlak, Dem.—Showed no fitness.
29. Joseph E. Farina, Rep.—Showed no capacity.
31. Pierce L. Shannon, Dem.—Industrious; attended to business; fair record. Mason S. Sullivan, Dem.—Not very active but did very well.

Before the primaries of April 10, the league will issue a report making its recommendations not only as to candidates for renomination, but as to new candidates as well.

PACKERS FIGHT SANITARY BOARD 'WASTE' FEE BILL

Hearings Open Today in Springfield.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Officials of Chicago's sanitary district were expected here tonight for a hearing before both house and senate tomorrow on the controversial bill to allow the district to charge packers and manufacturers for treating industrial waste.

The bill is one of a series of six introduced. Five would patch the law to comply with instructions laid down by the federal government when it granted a $40,000,000 loan for the building of sewage treatment works. Apparently their passage will not be contested.

See Schedule Not Ready.

But the "waste" bill, as it has become known, has drawn fire and may not fare so well. The Illinois Manufacturers' association asked for the open hearing and representatives of Chicago meat packers may appear to register their protests against proposed additional expense.

The schedule of prospective charges has not been completed for inclusion in the bill. District engineers are trying to determine now how much is expended annually to treat factory and plant waste but it was considered doubtful that even an estimate could be given the legislation tomorrow on what the scale of charges might be.

Assemblymen from the stock yards district have been the most vocal opponents of the bill and the manufacturers' association immediately joined hands.

Tells Opposition.

"We feel," said James L. Donnelley, executive vice president today, "that the powers asked for in the bill are much too broad to permit its being rushed through. Particularly do we object to passage until the schedule of charges has been fixed."

Most of the trustees of the district are expected here tomorrow, headed by President Thomas J. Bowler. With them will come Langdon Pearse, sanitary engineer, and the district's engineers, Phillip Harrington and Horace P. Ramey.

Another impending battle loomed today when Representative John P. Devine [Dem., Dixon] said that he would push his beer bill in the senate. This measure would permit the open and unrestricted sale of beer over bars throughout the state without the sale of food.

A long argument over three mortgage moratorium bills introduced in the house led, today, to the appointment of a committee of seven members to study all the measures and report back an agreed bill next Tuesday.

Virginia Senate Rejects U. S. Child Labor Law

500 TEACHERS MAKE PLEA AT CAPITAL TODAY

Five hundred teachers, members of the Chicago division of the Illinois State Teachers' association, will leave for Springfield this morning to urge the adoption of the school board's legislative program. They will seek further legislation to increase the state school distributive fund so that additional revenue would be provided for Chicago's school system.

The teachers have chartered a special train on the Alton line, leaving at 7:30 and arriving in the state capital at noon. Under the leadership of Robert C. Moore, secretary of the association, the group plans to march on the legislature and to seek a conference with Gov. Horner. The teachers will return to Chicago tonight.

Sanitary district officials headed by Thomas J. Bowler, president and Ross A. Woodhull, chairman of the finance committee, left for Springfield last night to urge adoption of a bill authorizing the district to impose charges for handling industrial waste, particularly that from the stockyards.

JUDGE GIVES 2 PISTOL CARRIERS A YEAR AND FINE

Municipal Judge Frederick W. Elliott yesterday found Earl P. Daly, 24 years old, 8019 Clyde avenue, and John Carroll, 25 years old, 2944 South Michigan avenue, guilty of carrying concealed weapons. He sentenced them to a year in the bridewell and assessed fines of $300 apiece. They were seized two days ago by Sergt. Patrick McShane and his detective bureau squad, in a taxicab.

When the attorney who represented the two men charged that the police had no authority to search them because they possessed no warant for their arrest Judge Elliott said:

"Unless a man is a peace officer the presence of firearms on his person can mean only that he intends to do violence to some one else. I refuse to temporize with gun carriers. Every one who is brought before me will be dealt with severely if he is found guilty."

GRANTED A JAIL STAY.

"I wouldn't trade for the finest house in town now that we've got gas heat"

An Interview with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Pear, 7231 S. Union Avenue

"At this time every day I used to fire the furnace, but that's all over now. It's such a relief to get rid of that everlasting job of shoveling coal . . ."

FREEDOM, comfort, relief from drudgery! That's what automatic gas heat has meant to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Pear.

"Why, gas heat makes all the difference in the world," says Mr. Pear. "It's such a relief to get rid of that everlasting job of shoveling coal, poking fires, and hauling out ashes.

"You see, I've got a workshop in my basement now, thanks to gas heat. I used to have it in the garage, where there was no heat at all."

THOUSANDS INSTALL GAS HEAT AS RATES GO DOWN

With rates for gas heat now one-half of what they were in 1930-31, thousands of Chicago home owners are switching to this sootless, dustless, automatic way of heating their homes. With gas heat, their furnace worries are gone! No longer do they shovel coal, chop kindling, sift and haul dirty ashes. No basement dirt is tracked upstairs. Their walls and draperies stay clean much longer, due to the immaculate cleanliness of gas heat. Savings are made on decorating bills, too. And every hour, day and night, their houses are kept at the correct temperature — automatically.

YOU INVEST NOTHING FOR EQUIPMENT

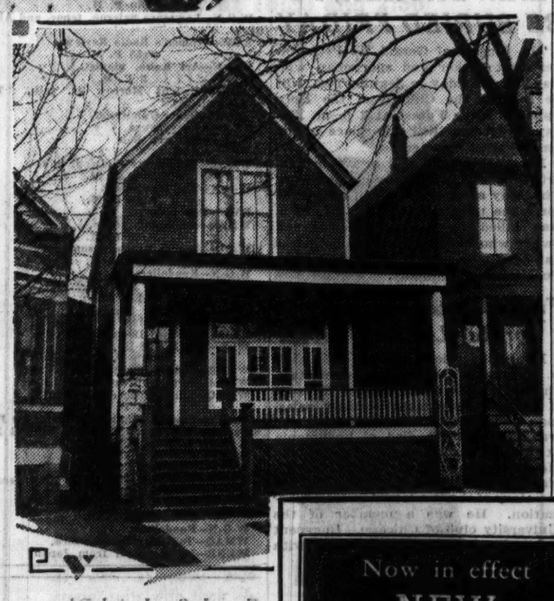
You can have gas heat without one cent of investment for equipment! Here's our offer. We will install a burner in your present furnace or boiler at our own expense. You pay only the rental on the equipment, which amounts to $3 a month in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. You try it for a month, two months, a year. And if within the year you find that you are not completely satisfied with gas, we will take it out at our expense and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. But—if you decide to keep gas heat—as we think you will—the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

Don't delay! Think what gas heat will mean in greater comfort, better health and convenience for the entire family. With rates for heating with gas so low, it is pure folly not to investigate this liberal offer. Call your local gas company for full information.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Pear, at breakfast in their gas-heated home at 7231 S. Union Avenue. Mr. Pear is through with shoveling coal, poking fires, and hauling out ashes. "I wouldn't trade my house for the finest house in town, now that we've got gas heat," he says. "Gas heat is certainly a blessing."

Even Mrs. Pear's canary is happier now since gas heat came to the Pear home. The house is warm and comfortable, all day and all night long.

In regard to the cleanliness of gas heat, Mr. Pear says: "The walls are just as spic and span as the day they were painted."



Right—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Pear, at 7231 S. Union Avenue. Over 20,000 families in the Chicago area are now enjoying clean, automatic gas heat.

What Others Say About New Low Cost Gas Heat

"Hauling ashes used to be my Saturday afternoon job. Now with gas heat I have more time to myself. Besides I don't have to get up at daybreak to shovel coal and shake the furnace."
William J. Masoner
647 N. Cuyler Ave.
Oak Park, Ill.

"I am perfectly satisfied with my gas heating unit and am pleased to say that up to date my consumption of gas will be lower than oil."
Otto A. Pohl
528 Webster Ave., Chicago, Ill.

"It's just human for one to tell another, but I am telling the world about gas heat — economical, cleaner, reliable, convenient and efficient."
Dante R. Barone, R. Ph.
Chicago, Ill.

"Fine. I like it (gas heat) better than any way I have ever heated before, and I have heated my houses in many different ways."
Mrs. Robert P. Bazner
Chicago, Ill.

Gas heat has given Mr. Pear more room in the basement, where he now has this little workshop. "I used to have my workshop in the garage," he says, "where there was no heat at all."

Constant Care Insures Gas Meter Accuracy

Every working day, in more than 400 Chicago homes, a new gas meter is installed by The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company to replace the meter in service.

Every one of these new meters has been tested by inspectors employed by the City of Chicago, to meet the specifications of the United States Bureau of Standards. Old meters are constantly replaced with inspected and approved meters, in order that the high standard of gas meter accuracy may be maintained.

Even during the last four years, when slack business and reduced rates have been lessening company revenues, and when salaries and wages and dividends have had to be cut, this policy of meter replacement has been maintained.

The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company believes that accurate meters are a part of good service. That's why 400 new meters will be installed in Chicago homes tomorrow, and every working day in the year.

EASY TO GET RID OF BAD BREATH AT ITS SOURCE BY THIS IMPROVED, SCIENTIFIC WAY THAT DOCTORS ADVISE

Don't fool yourself into believing that you are secure simply because a rinse or gargle with a mouthwash leaves your mouth tingling with a clean, pleasant taste.

To get rid of bad breath and taste you must get at the root of the trouble. That's in your stomach if you're an average person. Excess acids ferment foods, form obnoxious gases that rise up into the mouth and cause embarrassment.

So naturally the easiest, surest way to get relief is to get at the root of the trouble. Doctors advise a teaspoonful of BiSoDoL in water morning and night.

This pleasant tasting blend of six valuable digestive remedies works wonders. It swiftly neutralizes excess acids, soothes and heals the inflamed mucous membranes. And keeps your stomach so settled and sweet that you are sure of waking up in the morning with a clean, pleasant taste and certain of having a sweet, inconspicuous breath all day!

Don't forget that your breath is only as sweet as your stomach and nothing can keep the stomach any sweeter than BiSoDoL. Try it. Also when you have indigestion, gas, heartburn or any other distressing acid trouble take BiSoDoL. It's the improved, quicker acting way to get rid of pain and discomfort that doctors have used for many years with success. All druggists sell BiSoDoL for only 25c a package.

Reaches 13.6% of Total Spent in State.

BY HUGH SEXTON.

The cost of administering relief in Illinois last month amounted to 13.6 per cent of total expenditures, compared to the 10.6 per cent spent for administration the previous month. This increase was disclosed yesterday by Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

The increase in administrative costs in January was preceded by increases in the two previous months, when the relief case loads were being decreased by business recovery and the civil works administration, but the staffs of social workers and clerks employed by the commission and its agents were not being reduced. In November, 1933, administration costs amounted to 9.9 per cent of total expenditures, and in October, to 9.2 per cent.

Personnel to Be Cut.

The 13.6 per cent spent for administration in January did not include any administration costs chargeable to civil works administration, civil works service or civil works educational service projects, but did include surplus food activities, Mr. Dunham said. He said decreases in personnel being made this month are expected to reduce the percentage of administration costs.

Mr. Dunham disclosed that Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive director of relief for the commission, is making a study in Cook county and downstate of the proper ratio between social workers and the number of families on the relief rolls that should be maintained by the commission as a matter of policy. In the past this ratio has varied greatly.

Saving on Offices.

The relief commission and the civil works administration will save a total of about $50,000 a year in rent, electric light bills, and other charges by moving from its present scattered quarters to the new central headquarters at 1319 South Michigan avenue, Mr. Dunham said. Some of the space formerly occupied by the commission was rent free, but high rents were paid for other space.

The property and insurance advisory services put into effect last year by the relief commission were credited with saving the commission and relief clients a considerable amount of money in a report Mr. Dunham made public. The property advisory service's pay roll for the year was $53,862, and the insurance advisory service's pay roll was $53,969. The insurance advisers realized $1,010,015 net through relief families' insurance policies, saving the commission that much of direct relief, the report said.

Mrs. Lillian Florsheim to Be Buried Tomorrow

Funeral services for Mrs. Lillian W. Florsheim, wife of Louis Florsheim, a director in the Florsheim Shoe company, who died at the age of 53 years yesterday morning in her home at 1540 Lake Shore drive, will be at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Rosehill cemetery chapel. Mrs. Florsheim had been ill for two weeks. Surviving are her husband and a daughter, Lillian, 16 years old.

The late L. Hamilton McCormick, inventor and author and a member of the famous harvester family, left his fortune of $1,000,000 in trust to his widow and his three sons, it was disclosed here yesterday when his will was filed before George B. Weiss, assistant to the probate judge. Mr. McCormick died at Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 2. He was in his 75th year.

His will directed that his widow, Mrs. Constance Plummer McCormick, 631 Rush street, be given his personal effects and the family home with its furnishings. The residual estate is placed in trust. Two-fifths of the income are to be paid to Mrs. McCormick during her life, the remainder to be shared equally by her sons. At her death the trust is to be terminated and divided equally among the children.

The will names as executors the sons, Leander James McCormick, the Heronry, Whitchurch, Hampshire, England; Edward Hamilton McCormick, St. George's, Weybridge, England; and Allister H. McCormick, Knollwood drive, Santa Barbara, Cal. Attorney S. J. Templeton, who presented the will, explained, however, that Edward and Leander are disqualified from acting as executors because of their residence outside the United States. Judge Weiss granted a petition for a widow's award of $40,000.

LYTTON ESTATE $250,000; WILL OMITS CHARITIES

Fortune Once Held at $2,000,000.

The late George Lytton, merchant, sportsman, and art patron, left an estate of only $250,000 instead of the fortune estimated at 2 million dollars when his will was placed in the hands of probate authorities last Dec. 11. This was disclosed yesterday when Attorney S. J. Templeton, counsel for the estate, formally presented the will for probate before George B. Weiss, assistant to the probate judge. The will was admitted after a brief hearing.

Attorney Templeton said Mr. Lytton's fortune had been much larger at one time than it was at his death on Dec. 9. The lawyer added, however, that he did not know the peak value of Mr. Lytton's holdings, which included large blocks of securities. He said much of the shrinkage could undoubtedly be traced to dwindling of stock values.

Charity Bequests Eliminated.

The terms of the will, according to the attorney, are modified by the decrease in the estate's value. Charitable bequests made on the contingency that the estate should exceed $1,500,000 are completely wiped out, the lawyer said. Among the charities thus affected are the Chicago Business Men's orchestra, the Chicago Music association, the church extension board of the Chicago Presbytery, and the operators of Camp Grey, Saugatuck, Mich.

The provisions for the widow, Mrs. Marion Lytton, and for the daughters, Rosemary, who lived with her mother at the Hotel Ambassador East, and Mrs. Katherine Zazulinski of Warsaw, Poland, are also modified, the attorney explained.

Income to Be Divided.

The will directed that after Mrs. Lytton was given her husband's personal effects, the residual estate should be placed in a trust to be administered by the First Union Trust and Savings bank. From the income Mrs. Lytton was to be given $1,000 a month; Mrs. Zazulinski $500 a month, and Rosemary $750 a month.

Attorney Templeton said that the trust which will be created will not provide the income specified in the will. He said that the actual income from the trust will be apportioned among the heirs in the proportions directed by the will.

CAPT. ZIMMER'S FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Funeral services for Capt. Matthew Zimmer, chief of the uniformed forces of the Chicago police department, who died of carbon monoxide poisoning at his home, 8132 South Sangamon street, early yesterday, will be held from a chapel at 318 North Central avenue at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be at Graceland cemetery.

The active pallbearers will be Chief of Detectives William Shoemaker and Supervising Captains John P. Stege, Ira J. McDowell, John C. Prendergast, John Horan, and Thomas Condon. Several hundred policemen are expected to attend the funeral. Capt. Zimmer is survived by his widow, Mary, and a son, Dr. William P. Zimmer, and two brothers, Michael and Peter.

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury which investigated the captain's death.

GERALD W. PECK, SLAIN BROKER, TO BE BURIED FRIDAY

The funeral of Gerald W. Peck, investment broker and sportsman who was slain Monday in Seguin, Tex., will be held at the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest at 2 p. m. Friday. Interment will take place in the Lake Forest cemetery.

Mr. Peck's body will arrive in Libertyville, where he made his home, on Thursday afternoon. It will remain at his home until the funeral. Mr. Peck was killed by a disgruntled ranch owner who charged that his land was damaged by a dam constructed by Mr. Peck's power company.

Funeral Rites Tomorrow for Ray L. Evans, Broker

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at Oakwoods cemetery chapel for Ray L. Evans, for 25 years a Chicago investment security salesman and executive. Mr. Evans, who was 57 years old, died of pneumonia at the Bryson hotel Monday afternoon. He was a graduate of Yale university, class of 1898, and was at one time secretary of the Western Alumni organization. He was a member of the University club of Chicago. In recent years he had been associated with Nichols, Terry & Dickinson, Inc.

Benj. Heggen, 83, Zion Ex-Deacon, Dies Suddenly

Benjamin Heggen, 83 years old, who was for many years a deacon in the Christian Catholic Apostolic church of Zion, died suddenly of heart disease last night while riding in an automobile near his home in Zion. About two years ago Mr. Heggen withdrew from the Zionist church. He is survived by three daughters, one of whom is the wife of A. E. Harenryager, city manager of Zion.

Frank Senkpiel Dies; Chicagoan Since 1871

Frank Senkpiel, 84 years old, who moved to Chicago shortly after the fire in 1871, died yesterday morning at his home, 5639 South Sacramento avenue. The body was discovered by his son, Paul. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 o'clock in the Nazareth church, 60th street and Spaulding avenue. Burial will take place in Concordia cemetery.

TRAVELERS' AID CASES INCREASE 370 PCT. IN YEAR

Boost in Work Told in Annual Meeting.

The increase of 370 per cent in the number of clients served during the last year by the Travelers' Aid society of Chicago, was considered yesterday at the 19th annual luncheon meeting of the organization in Marshall Field's Wedgewood room. Widespread unemployment, resulting in a large "floating" population, and the many visitors to A Century of Progress were the principal causes of the increase, according to the report.

William J. Plunkert, assistant director for transient activities of the federal emergency relief administration, was the principal speaker at the luncheon. Mr. Plunkert asserted that Russia and Germany have far more efficient systems of handling the transient problem.

Seek Greater Coöperation.

In discussing the methods and objectives of the federal transient division, Mr. Plunkert expressed the hope that industry which depends to a large extent on transient labor and the government agency may coöperate more closely and efficiently in the future.

"Wandering is a necessity with some people," he explained. "Our ecomonic stringency makes the transient problem acute, worthy of increased efforts on the part of city, state, and government."

24 Workers on Job.

In the last year 24 Travelers' Aid workers have been on duty in six of the railroad terminals and the Union Bus station. An important phase of the Travelers' Aid has been in giving temporary assistance and hospital care for persons arriving in the city with financial, physical, or mental problems.

MARGARET MANN CROLIUS, VETERAN EDITOR, IS DEAD

Mrs. Margaret Mann Crolius, veteran Chicago newspaper woman, died last night in the Mercy hospital of heart disease after an illness of seven weeks.

Mrs. Crolius was born in Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 29, 1873, and was graduated in the schools there, taking special courses in languages and literature. In 1892 she became assistant society editor of the Chicago Times. During the World's Fair of 1894 she was editor of a magazine, Good Form, and from 1895 to 1900 was exchange editor of the Chicago Record.

In 1900 she joined the staf of the Chicago Daily News and continued this connection until her retirement about a year ago, conducting the women's pages and acting as dramatic section editor. She covered all the Democratic national conventions for the Daily News during the last twenty-four years.

Surviving Mrs. Crolius is her husband, William C. Crolius, former mayor of Joliet, to whom she was married in 1921, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Nixon of Jacksonville, Fla. The Crolius family home is at 1401 Hudson avenue.

He was author of numerous religious and social works and was active in missionary work. During the world war he was director of religious work for the Y. M. C. A. in France.

HERE'S A Happy MENU CHANGE

Is This Too Good for Your Cough?

Creomulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven major helps in one—the best help known to science. It is made for quick relief, for safety. Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist guarantees it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known.

LOUIS STRADER, LIVE STOCK MAN 45 YEARS, DIES

Louis Strader, 65 years old, member of a live stock commission firm which has been operated uninterruptedly in the Union stockyards since 1852, died yesterday. Mr. Strader was stricken with apoplexy while on his way to visit his brother Edward, his partner in the firm of Strader Bros., who is critically ill of pneumonia at the Chicago Memorial hospital. Louis' death occurred soon afterward as he was being taken to the same hospital.

The firm to which the brothers belonged was founded by their father, James Strader. Edward Strader joined the partnership fifty-eight years ago and Louis forty-five years ago.

HENRY G. WEBER, VETERAN N. SIDE DEVELOPER, DIES

Henry G. Weber, 70 years old, real estate dealer and general contractor, who lived all his life in Rogers Park, died yesterday at Menominee, Mich., where he had been visiting for a month. For many years, until he sold his home recently, he lived at 7543 Ridge boulevard. He assisted in the paving of Sheridan road when the district was mostly sand and prairie land. Surviving are three sons, Howard, Orrin and Harold, and three daughters, Mrs. Edna Heicher, Mrs. Olive Long and Mrs. Bernice Bilodeau. Funeral services will be held here Friday.

Mrs. Scudder to Hold Garden Fair at Show

Bruce Lake Camp for Boys to Get Proceeds.

BY JUDITH CASS.

FOLLOWING the example set by her New York and Palm Beach friends, Mrs. Lawrence W. Scudder is going to have a garden fair April 7 to 15 on the Navy Pier. The time and the place give away that it is to be a part of the annual Flower and Garden Show of the Garden Club of Illinois . . . but a distinctly new and interesting part.

A devout gardener, as her Lake Forest residence will testify, Mrs. Scudder was inspired this year to experiment with the garden fair idea which has been tried successfully at the New York Garden show and at the very recent annual flower show in Palm Beach. The fair is in reality a tool house and terrace offering the very newest in garden equipment.

Ralph Milman, the architect and a good friend of Mrs. Scudder, has consented to design the setting "gratis." For equipment Mrs. Scudder is gathering together the very smartest things she can find in the east and in the south . . . trowels and hoes the sprinklers, basket, and lawn and porch furniture. Then, too, she is making plans to have a variety of potted plants that no garden show visitor will be able to pass by.

The idea back of the fair is philanthropic. All of the proceeds are going to the support of the Bruce Lake camp which provides for poor boys and girls and which has been operated these many years past by a group of interested Lake Foresters.

Recall Her Success With Garden Sale.

Four years ago Mrs. Scudder had a garden sale at her home for the sake of the camp that was something of a fair in miniature. But this is the first time that she and her friends on the camp board have attempted it on a grand scale. Some of these other board members who will assist Mrs. Scudder on the Navy Pier in April are Mrs. Kenneth S. Templeton, Miss Ellen Holt, Mrs. Francis S. North, Mrs. David Dangler, Mrs. Frank E. Harkness, and Mrs. Louis E. Laflin Jr.

Mrs. Scudder hopes, too, that Mrs. Templeton's daughter, Miss Josephine Templeton, will be at home from her studies at the University of Arizona in time for the garden show. If so, Miss Templeton will shepherd a group of debutantes and post-debs as salesgirls.

As soon as Mrs. Charles C. Haffner Jr. returns from Palm Beach, where she attended the meetings of the council of the Garden Club of America last week-end, she will round off the plans for the exhibit the Lake Forest Garden club is to have in the Navy Pier show. Mrs. Haffner is the club president.

Advance information reveals that the Lake Forest exhibit this time is to be a green garden 20 by 20 feet and that it is under the capable direction of Mrs. Donald B. Douglas, Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord, and Miss Martha Sarver, who is the first vice president of the Lake Forest Garden club.

Lake Forest Show to Be Held in June.

Incidentally the Lake Forest club has set Saturday and Sunday, June 16 and 17, as the dates for its annual summer flower show. For years, it is remembered, the show was held in the lovely gardens of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick's country home, Villa Turicum, but now that the estate has gone the way of many another as the result of these years of economic relapse the club officers have to scout around every spring to find a location for the show.

As yet Mrs. John Andrews King, the chairman, has not decided the place for this year. On her departure yesterday with Mr. King for a holiday in Jamaica as the guests of Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson she said, however, that she would make this decision immediately upon her return in April.

The Lake Forest Garden Study class, which represents in its membership the younger marrieds of the village, are devoting their time these days to living room bouquet arrangements. These will be the class' contribution to the Navy Pier show. Mrs. Robert S. Pirie has been made the exhibit chairman.

No flower show of the Illinois Garden club would be complete without the beautiful entries made very year by Mrs. J. Ogden Armour and her daughter, Mrs. John J. Mitchell. Mrs. Armour has her Lake Forest gardener at work now on the Shasta daisies, phlox, and verbenas that always make her exhibit a glorious rainbow of color. Mrs. Mitchell's entry this time is to be a Japanese garden, and some of it is to be brought all the way from her Montecito, Cal., estate, where her Japanese gardener is already at work on it.

Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen and Warren Wright are new entrants in the flower show this year. Mrs. Walgreen has consented to set a buffet hunt breakfast on the Navy pier, while Mr. Wright will create a garden of some new and interesting variety.

Howard C. Phillips to Go to California.

Another confirmed gardener, Mrs. Howard C. Phillips of Winnetka, who is a past president of the Lake Forest Garden club, will leave today for California with Mr. Phillips and her son, Talcott Griswold. Mr. and Mrs. Phillip and young Mr. Griswold are going directly to Santa Barbara, where they have a stretch of beautiful land just outside the town in the Montecito valley. They will make their headquarters during their month's holiday at the Biltmore in Santa Barbara.

Petticoats Will Rustle Under Stylish Frocks

BY RHEA SEEGER.

A lot of new things to make your fashion heart flutter . . . fascinating new flesh colored and white taffeta silk petticoats made with old fashioned ruffles with pinked edges. They will make a nice noise under your pastel tinted new daytime wool dresses as well as the newest dinner and dance dresses.

New flat sailors of a printed material that matches a blouse . . . Kelly green with white or lipstick red and white. . . . The blouses are perfect under a slim spring suit and the hats the flattest, sauciest things you can slant on your head. The same flat, shallow crowned sailors will arrive later in grosgrain silk in all street colors and high shades.

Black patent leather handbags that really show capacity, the pet idea of Elizabeth Hawes, the brilliant young American dress designer. . . . The bag is squarish with plenty of room for everything you could possibly want to carry even on a protracted week-end visit. Across the flat width you can anchor three new dull silver square block letters of your monogram. One of the smartest large sized handbags that has even slipped into town without a lot of ballyhoo!

And there are new pigskin gloves that are simply knockout, washable, creamy white, and fashioned for service on the hand or off. Lots of stunning black kidskin gloves have arrived just in time for a midwinter season—slip-ons with white stitchings, and the same sort of smart street gloves in navy blue with and without the white stitching, for the new navy blue clothes are being unpacked daily.

Crisp, huge printed organdy ascot scarfs and bow ties perk up the dark prospects of a dark wool frock or suit . . . gay feminine trifles done in a grand and generous manner, neckline accents that will keep you busy trying to decide between the fluttering beauty of organdy or the whispering allure of widly striped fringed squares of taffeta that are quite the newest things you can buy to tie around the top of your blouse or dress.

Miss Dickinson, with Crerar Library 39 Years, Retires Today

After 39 years of service, Miss Sarah S. Dickinson, 71 years old, will be retired today from her post in the John Crerar library, 86 East Randolph street. She plans to move to California where she will live with relatives.

MISS DICKINSON.

Miss Dickinson, who has worked in the periodical department of the library for many years, received her library training at Armour institute in Chicago. This library course has since been transferred to the University of Illinois. Born in Lake Forest, Ill., she spent three years at the Brooklyn Tacker Collegiate institute, in Brooklyn, N. Y., before taking up residence in Chicago.

When asked what will be her favorite occupation following her retirement, Miss Dickinson declared it is, and always has been, reading. "I enjoy biography most of all," she said. "Poetry and good fiction books also make stimulating companions," she added.

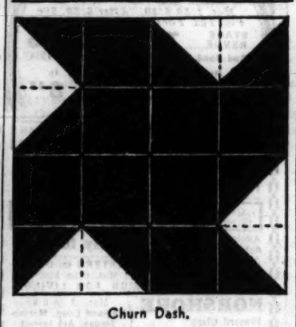
Early American Domesticity Is Theme of Quilt



Churn Dash.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The four patch, pieced block is responsible for any number of star and wreath designs and their variants, yet there are exceptions to these which are most interesting. "Churn Dash" is based on the same principle, and the difference is a matter of color. This is another example of the numerous designs that find their origin in the domesticities of early American life.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn, and Tribune Tower.

Heavy Season for Permanents Is Now at Hand

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It used to be that spring heralded permanent waving time. But now the work goes on merrily the year 'round. Hairdressers do tell me, however, that the spring and early summer are still the rush seasons.

What a joy that invention has been to our sex! And how miraculously improved is the process of artificial waves and curls. Twice, recently, I have seen the most lovely permanents fresh from the hands of skilled operators. Formerly we women often had to say "In a few days or a week, it will look better." Now there is no good reason for the delay.

All of which leads up to what is on our minds about permanents and hair about which planning is being done. Natural, normal hair, which has never been dyed or touched up, offers no problem. But, because there is so much hair tinting done today and many abnormal hair conditions that require pre-permanent treatment, the permanent operator's job becomes a ticklish one on occasions. More reason, we say, for knowing your operator and the salon in which your work is done is of high standard, if your hair has been dyed, or bleached, or otherwise tinted. In the permanent treatment of white hair, too, there must be the same wise judgment used. Because white hair, unless skillfully done, may turn out discolored in spots. Natural platinum shades come under the same regulation. The natural platinum color is too lovely a possession to be experimented with.

The better hairdressers are unanimous in the opinion that they have no right to guess what is necessary in difficult conditions. They should be sure before they take over the whole head for treatment. In a permanent, one noted hairdresser tells, the extra minute, half minute, or second of heat has a great deal to do with the success of the wave. Testing hair, these experts claim, is the important procedure, and preparing hair for permanent waving almost as important. But the test curl should be insisted upon. The reputable operators will demand this themselves, for only by the test curl can it be determined how much time should be permitted under the heat.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Off to Buffalo? Or to Miami? Or maybe just a week-end jaunt to your favorite retreat? Or do you know some one who's about to take off for other climes, thereby putting herself in the market for a going away gift?

We know just the thing—a cunningly compact traveling case fitted with every conceivable beauty aid that can serve as a dressing table in a motor, on a train, or, if space is scarce, right on the home premises.

It's the size and shape of a smallish but efficient week-end case, covered in black or brown leather fabric, as you choose. The mirror top of its interior reflects an imposing array of cosmetics tucked cleverly into all kinds of trays and nooks. As you open the case you find, first of all, a trim little stack of cleansing tissues. Beneath this in the center is a fitted velvet tray with attractive green and silver cases of mascara, eye shadow, lip rouge and cheek rouge, each in its cut out space. On one side are a jar of cleansing cream, a lipstick and a bottle of skin tonic.

Fitted in along the other side of the tray are powder, tissue cream and even a tiny bottle of provocative perfume.

The tray in which the eye makeup stuff is fitted lifts out to reveal a lower section equipped with every conceivable aid to a manicure—file, orangewood sticks, cotton pads, nail polishes, nail white—even a little pad on which to work.

The case destroys completely that old alibi about not looking your best because you've been traveling. You couldn't do much better if you had a beauty salon in your private car.

And, so far as we can discover, this is the least expensive of fitted beauty kits. ELEANOR NANGLE.

School Executives Hear Plea for U. S. Aid for Education

Cleveland, O., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—A demand for a federal appropriation of $400,000,000 to be apportioned next year among schools in all states on "an objective basis" was made tonight by Dean William F. Russel of Teachers' college, Columbia university. He spoke before school executives at the annual conference of the National Education association's department of superintendence. Such a plan of federal aid, he asserted, should become a permanent principle of American school support.

Federal aid in some form some time is bound to come, he declared. Not only is the present situation acute, with closed schools and unpaid teachers, but even in normal times there are certain states which cannot support a respectable educational program.

Moreover, the federal government is absorbing the sources of revenues and should share these with the states and localities. "The government by taxing incomes and imports and by its large sales taxes on automobiles, alcohol and tobacco has removed from the states the only taxes which could be collected," he argued.

Lane Newberry Paintings Tell State History

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

All motor enthusiasts who want new trails not too far from home to explore this spring would do well to go to the exhibit of recent paintings by Lane K. Newberry which opened Monday in the Lord Nelson room, Drake hotel.

The paintings are of spots of historical interest in Illinois. Here is a tavern where Lincoln and Douglas were wont to stay; there is another tavern, Branton's, near Galena, on the site where in August, 1832, Black Hawk held a council of war in the shade of a white oak tree whose stump is now incorporated in the floor of the house.

Memories of the part the Mormons played in the development of Illinois are given new meaning in the light of the homes occupied by leaders of the sect. Here is Joseph Smith's first home, at Nauvoo, and beyond is Brigham Young's home. Rutledge tavern, where Lincoln came to know Ann Rutledge, his first sweetheart, is also represented. Marmech hill goes further back into history and offers us the place where in 1730 the "Foxes" fought the French and Indians. The battle ground is completely marked.

The paintings are well done, intelligently and seriously conceived, and in many of them there is much natural beauty. Mr. Newberry paints simply and strongly, using a modulated palette and letting the picture tell its own story.

The catalog accompanying the paintings is filled with information as to the roads to be followed to get from one of these historical places to another. As was suggested in the opening sentence, the motorist looking for a good week-end trip could scarcely find better material with which to write himself a route than this exhibit offers.

The adventures that fill Illinois history come to life in view of the actual places where the various happenings occurred. Mr. Newberry has done a difficult piece of work well and we owe him a debt of thanks.

The exhibition will continue into March and is worth seeing. Be sure to keep the catalog. When spring comes, and summer, a run over the routes it advises will be the pleasant solution of a few days' holiday.

Arden Shore Camp Receives $1,000 from Chicago Committee

In order to provide 55 undernourished Chicago boys with proper food, recreation, and study facilities, $1,000 was mailed by the Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association to the Arden Shore Boys' camp in Lake Bluff yesterday, it was announced.

The boys were sent to the winter camp in September and will remain until May. A great improvement in the general condition of the campers has been noted. These boys represent a portion of the number who applied at the Board of Education offices for work, and were unable to pass the health examinations.

The cost of the winter camp is estimated at approximately $10,000. The Chicago committee has raised 20 per cent of that amount through a series of weekly parties held in the College inn of the Hotel Sherman. By the end of the party season it is hoped that another $1,000 will have been raised, it was announced by Mrs. Edwin Rogers Fifield, chairman of the committee. The next party for the benefit of Arden Shore will be held tomorrow night at the Hotel Sherman.

Stock Offers Old Standbys of Orchestra

Give Program in Tradition of Symphony.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Sturdy fare it was that Frederick Stock served for the patrons of the Chicago Symphony orchestra yesterday afternoon, a program wherein Brahms' Third Symphony and Richard Strauss' "Ein Heldenleben" were the important items, and Bach's Second Suite had to be removed from its exalted position of antiquity to act as light contrast.

This, however, is the sort of thing that the Chicago Symphony orchestra does uncommonly well. All three works are thoroughly in the tradition of the organization and through long acquaintance and frequent repetition have come to be masterpieces of performance. They are standard items of the répertoire in every sense.

The history of the orchestra shows how thoroughly ingrained they are. All were introduced by Theodore Thomas. The Bach Suite was first played in the third season of the orchestra, 1893-'94, and has received something like twenty-five performances in Chicago alone. The Brahms Symphony was played on the first season and yesterday was its twenty-sixth performance in these concerts. Seldom has a composition stood up better under long familiarity. As a matter of fact it was heard here long before there was a Chicago orchestra. Thomas conducted it in a summer concert at the old Armory building as far back as 1885.

The Strauss work, having fewer years to its credit, has accordingly had fewer performances. Still it was introduced in the orchestra's ninth season, shortly after its composer had finished it, and has now had its thirteenth hearing in these surroundings. Out of such works has been built the glorious répertoire of the orchestra.

Karleton Hackett told the audience at the intermission that $49,561 has now been raised to meet the $70,000 deficit of this season. His speech had a good touch of salesmanship in it, and a considerable group hastened out to add their names to the dotted line. The sum mentioned, he added, came either as contributions or ticket buying from 791 persons, about one-third of the number of season ticket subscribers.

The joint recital of Katherine Hamilton, violinist, and Pauline Manchester, pianist, at Kimball hall last night proved all over again that the Musical Guild, Inc., under whose auspices they appeared, knows how to pick well marked musical talent.

This was particularly the case with Miss Manchester, who possesses both well trained hands and a considerable musical individuality. She concentrated on Brahms, Chopin, and a group of moderns. Miss Hamilton made leading numbers of Chausson's "Poeme," a sonata by Fauré which she played with Alma Birmingham, and a group of the ancients.

IT happened the other morning at Madison and Wells during one of the sessions of the Wells Street Open Air Literary society.

Club member—Viewpoint—History—Helper.

The society is a group of men who have seen better times and who gather regularly, day after day, to receive the newspapers from the hands of elevated train passengers as they descend the stairs. A smiling gentleman, having finished with his paper, folded it, extracted a paper clip from his pocket, and with it attached something to an inner page. The man to whom he gave the paper bowed politely, thanked him, and started to walk away. The paper clip caught his eye. Opening the paper, he found, green and beautiful and snugly held under the little fastener, a crisp new dollar bill.

JAMES TAFT HATFIELD, professor at Northwestern university and author of "A New Life of Longfellow," told Adeline Atwater of an incident that occurred when he was teaching at a southern college. The class was studying the lives of the Roman emperors. A student named Missouri was reciting.

"Galva," began Missouri, looking hopefully for the professor's approval, "Galva succeeded to the throne when he was a week-old baby."

Prof. Hatfield sighed.

"And what is the source of that particular bit of information?" he inquired.

Missouri triumphantly indicated the passage in her history that read "Galva was a weak old tyrant."

THE other day Durand Smith, who was peacefully and appreciatively eating lobster thermidor at a little French restaurant he fancies, played a helpful rôle as interpreter to madame, the proprietor, when the census taker came round. She was a personable young woman. Madame listened to her announce her object, hesitated a moment, then said "Non, merci," and firmly closed the door. The young lady rang again and protested. Whereupon Mr. Smith leaped to the rescue and finally gained admission for the census taker, who got her information.

THE WILD BIRD

By OWEN JOHNSON

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 22, is completely dominated by an adoring though jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Lynwood, their home, is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. Her father scares away any would-be suitors. She contemplates rebellion. Gregory Rance, popular novelist, is visiting her cousin, Laurie Chiswick. They are mutually attracted. Barbara overhears Rance asking Laurie about her. He says she is the sort of girl he'd want to marry. Barbara proposes to Rance. But Rance is divorced and her father hates divorce and uses this as an excuse to oppose their marriage. When Barbara determines to marry Rance, regardless, her father has a stroke. Barbara fears he'll kill himself deliberately. She promises him she won't marry Rance without his consent. Gregory goes away and Barbara strives futilely to put him out of her mind. Disbrough, her father's partner, is a frequent visitor at Lynwood. Barbara goes on a visit to Long Island. Brawne worries himself into a frenzy. When Disbrough calls he sends him to propose to Barbara, knowing that their marriage would be only one of convenience.

INSTALLMENT XXXIX.

AN APPROVED SUITOR.

"You have a career before you," Barbara said nodding. "No one could ever doubt that."

"Yes, I know that," Disbrough said decisively. "That is what I can bring you. It would be an interesting life, an active life, and your home a brilliant one. I am frankly stating the case in this way, because it is quite evident what an assistance your fortune would mean to me."

"That's very candid," she said, "and I am grateful to you for stating it this way." She waited a moment and then said abruptly, "And my side?"

"That is more difficult."

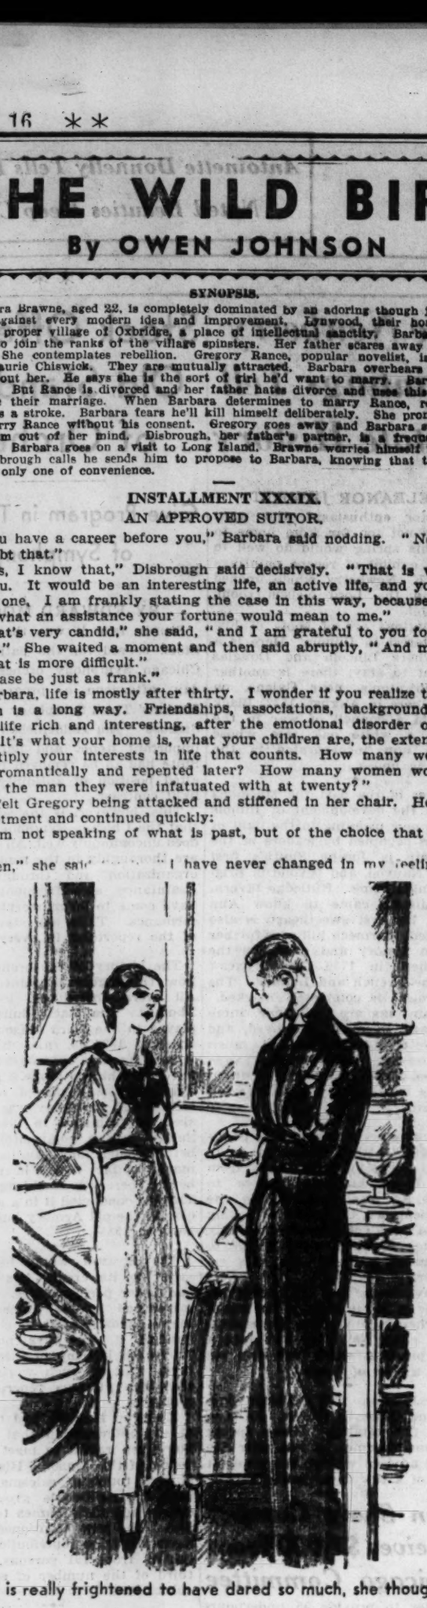
"Please be just as frank."

"Barbara, life is mostly after thirty. I wonder if you realize that? From thirty on is a long way. Friendships, associations, background are what make a life rich and interesting, after the emotional disorder of youth is passed. It's what your home is, what your children are, the extent to which you multiply your interests in life that counts. How many women have married romantically and repented later? How many women would marry at thirty the man they were infatuated with at twenty?"

She felt Gregory being attacked and stiffened in her chair. He perceived her resentment and continued quickly:

"I am not speaking of what is past, but of the choice that lies ahead of you."

"Allen," she said [illegible] I have never changed in my feeling for Mr. Rance. Nothing will ever replace that. It's just as strong now as before. It's something I shall carry with me to the end of my life. If my father would relent I'd marry him tomorrow."



He is really frightened to have dared so much, she thought.

"Your father will never change, Barbara."

"No. I have no illusion on that score."

"I have the greatest admiration for Mr. Rance. I can easily understand all that you feel for him and he for you. If I thought there was the slightest chance of your father listening to reason, for he is utterly unreasonable about him, I shouldn't be talking to you like this."

"Go on, then," she said, relaxing.

"I'm only trying to point out to you that there is a great deal in life that you can look forward to. You are not the first woman, you know, who has had to bury her romance and readjust her life."

She nodded.

"Now what is ahead of you? You are more or less tied down to your father. It is a situation that is forced on you. You cannot help being absorbed by him. He is peculiar, even abnormal, in his attitude toward you. With Mr. Rance the question of divorce was only a pretext. He would have opposed him just as bitterly if it hadn't existed, because his jealousy of you is an obsession."

"That is exactly true," she said involuntarily. "He doesn't want any one else to mean more to me than he does."

"Right. And the same situation will arise again if it is a question of love. You have either to resign yourself to being your father's nurse and companion for the rest of his life or making what the French call a marriage de raison with a man your father would not resent. I am saying this very bluntly, but you must have realized this yourself, haven't you?"

She sat up tensely.

"Allen, do you know why—the one compelling reason that would lead me to do it?"

"I think I do."

"Because in no other way can I put Gregory out of my mind. This present thing is torture, and nothing I do is of any use. But how do I know what I would do afterward? Do you realize the danger to you? For it is a question of temperament. I am not like you. I am not like my father. There is something in me that must have come from my mother; that I think my father fears and hates; that he has never been able to absolutely crush out. All his life he has tried to do it, and yet it may burst out any time, and then, do I know what I would do?"

"You are young, Barbara," he said smiling.

She shook her head.

"If I could have had a year with Gregory Rance I don't think I should have cared what happened afterward. If I married you in the way you suggest, and my father should die soon, and Gregory still wanted me, nothing would keep me from going to him. That's the way I feel. I appreciate your frankness. That's why I am just as frank with you."

"I'm willing to take that risk."

"You are certain of what you are saying?"

"Yes. Absolutely."

"But how do you know my father would ever consent to my marrying you?" she said, her curiosity aroused.

"He will."

"You have discussed it?" she said amazed.

"More than that. Your father himself proposed it. I shouldn't have spoken to you without his permission."

"When?"

"Last week."

"Never before?"

"Never. Of course I am under no illusions. I know his reasons."

"Because he wants me safe from Gregory?"

"Undoubtedly."

She drew back in her chair again, staring blankly at the wall. What an implacable hatred!

"Of course he realizes, too, that if you married me nothing would be changed. He would live with us, and if it were necessary for him to go away as he did last winter you would, of course, go with him. That is a situation which would be hard for any other man to meet."

He rose.

"You have been very generous in listening to me like this. It is a difficult situation to discuss, and the only way I saw was not to evade any issue." He waited a moment, swaying on his heels.

"I want you to take a long time to think it over. Don't decide impulsively, that is all."

She came to her feet and raised her glance to his. Behind the mask of his measured calm she saw, to her amazement, a look of dismay.

"He is really frightened to have dared so much," she thought swiftly. "What a moment for a man with a career."

"You do not wish an answer now, then?"

"No, please."

"I'm glad of that." She inclined her head seriously. "You have said only what I know myself. I shall think it over from your side as well as mine." She checked his exclamation with a gesture. "There is your side, too, you know."

He hesitated.

"It is for you, if you decide favorably, to lay down the terms." He hesitated and blurted out, "And by that I mean any terms."

Before she could reply he had left the room.

Doris Blake Answers

"In Days of Old——"

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a boy. If I love the attention of another fellow my friend has a fight with him. Does this prove he loves me?

"PEGGY."

Fighting for his lady love surely shows he wants you for his own, Peggy. You like it, don't you?

Sounds Encouraging.

"Dear Miss Blake: The girl I like made what might be called advances toward me, but as they were half playful little gestures I took them in fun. Did I do right? MICKEY."

I bet that's her way of encouraging a chap she's taken a liking to. Why not make sure by asking her out?

Movie Couple Fear Rift if They Are Wed

Glenda Farrell Happy the "Way We Are."

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Glenda Farrell and Robert Riskin, writer, have been keeping company for one year and a half. They like each other and don't care who knows it. "When are you two going to get married?" she was asked at Warner studio.

"Why should Bob and I get married when we're happy the way we are?" the blonde star replied, implying she didn't want to run the risk of a Hollywood marriage. She has a child, Tommy, 12, in a military academy. Her first marriage to Thomas Richards, cable splicer and actor, ended in the Los Angeles divorce courts in 1930 after ten years.

Sally Blane, who is Loretta Young's older and not quite so successful sister [from the movie point of view] overcame her inferiority complex about being called "Loretta's sister" by going to England.

Sally, who now is playing the lead in "Stolen Sweets," filmed by Chesterfield at Universal City, says: "English people restored my self-esteem. I won't deny it had been considerably shaken. The English seem to like you for yourself, for naturalness and sincerity. It's different from Hollywood. In Hollywood you have one good month in pictures and maybe you don't work again for a couple of months. They don't actually insult you while you're 'down.' But they almost ignore you. Hollywood is full of success worshipers and if you're not as successful as your younger sister it hurts.

"I found that in England Loretta and I were sisters—I wasn't just Loretta's sister, if you know what I mean. It restored my confidence and made me proud to be Sally Blane."

Since coming back from abroad recently Sally was in "Advice to the Lovelorn" for Twentieth Century and when she completes her present picture will go to England again to carry out a film contract made with her by trans-Atlantic telephone.

Katherine Dougherty [Mrs. Jack Tuomey], publisher of Photoplay magazine, experienced an amazing accident which came close to a fatal ending while driving down Highland avenue, Hollywood. A high school boy piloting another auto plowed into the boulevard traffic and Miss Dougherty's car was completely rolled over once, ending on its side at a fire plug which snapped off. The terrific force of the water pinned Miss Dougherty to the floor of her car and she was drowning, beaten back to the floor every time she tried to rise when her chauffeur finally managed to break into the car and save her. She was treated at police emergency hospital for shock, exposure and bruises on the head but recovered from the physical injuries although still affected by the shock.

The Los Angeles police commission today granted John Barrymore formal permission to establish his own private rifle range in a canyon on his estate.

Leo Carroll, who recently played Trump in the New York stage run of "The Green Bay Tree" and arrived by plane to portray the butler in Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone's "Sadie McKee," is demanding an official census of the Hollywood Leo Carrolls. He has been getting mail intended for [1] Leo Carroll, a Los Angeles radio entertainer; [2] Leo Carroll, a locally known movie hits player; [3] Leo Carrillo, and finds himself so busy forwarding other fellows their letters he doesn't get time to read his own.

There's a funny situation at the Fox lot where George White has had suburban previews of his "Film Scandals" the way White cut and edited the film, and Winfield R. Sheehan, production manager at the studio, has conducted other previews at different theaters of the Sheehan version. I don't know whose version you'll see when the movie musical comedy eventually reaches your showhouse. The two producers differ considerably in what they ordered cut out and left in.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has sent a film director with staf to look over seaside sites for possible filming of "Treasure Island." At present the sites investigated are around Monterey on the central California coast. Next they will go down the Mexican peninsula of Lower California and two other alternatives are Tahiti and Hawaii. This is the adventure story chosen for a renewal of the Wally Beery-Jackie Cooper teamwork.

The next rôle of the gangling, sleepy, colored player, Stepin Fetchit, is described thus by Fox studio publicity: "The inarticulate Negro will portray a dilettante Panamanian bartender in 'Marie Galante.'" "Marie Galante" is a Canal Zone story in which principals will be Spencer Tracy and probably Ketti Gallion, with Siegfried Rumann, European actor, as the heavy.

Director Eddie Sedgwick is carrying his arm in a sling and he might not be around at all if it hadn't been for quick thinking by Lee Tracy on the set of "I'll Tell the World" at Universal. A gust of wind against an expanse of canvas knocked over a huge arc light and Tracy, seeing it was falling, gave it a quick shove. The shove was sufficient to save the heavy steel framework from striking Sedgwick a direct blow.

The Stage

Joe Cook and his "Hold Your Horses" company will end their run at the Grand Opera house next Saturday night and move to Washington. This musical comedy has eight weeks of popularity in Chicago on its record. After its departure the Grand will remain closed until the management can find another booking. A special matinée performance of "Hold Your Horses" will be given tomorrow for the benefit of the Actors' Fund of America.

Cornelia Otis Skinner announces the addition of a Friday matinée to her current week of performances at the Selwyn theater. "Loves of Charles II." will be her offering.

The Oriental theater will add stage entertainment to its cinema programs, beginning next Friday. A bill of seven vaudeville acts will be given four times a day. C. C.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Paul John Alwart of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence Kathryn, to Robert Hutcheson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pettigrew Hutcheson of Chicago. Miss Alwart is a graduate of the Latin School for Girls and attended National Park seminary in Washington and the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Hutcheson attended Lake Forest college. The wedding will take place in the early fall.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dunlap of 549 Pleasant street, Grand Rapids, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Lyle, to Alfred Webber Collier, son of Charles E. Collier of 1320 Lyons street, Evanston. Both Miss Dunlap and Mr. Collier are graduates of Northwestern university.

plicated to talk about, yet simple enough to learn, it gives every one a chance to make a fortune, but, interesting enough, the safe and sane investors are nine times out of ten the winners.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Laflin Jr. were to our knowledge the first to introduce it hereabout. Since then it has spread like wildfire in many circles. Miss Eleanor Jerrems had a "finance" party last week and Arthur Barnhart is debating whether or no to provide it as entertainment Saturday evening when he is entertaining ten guests at dinner at the Tavern.

History Talk Today For Alliance Juniors.

Chicago's history from 1795 up to the Columbian Exposition in 1893 will be reviewed today for the juniors of the Alliance Francais by way of a series of dioramas and a conversation in French. Miss Phyllis Walsh, the capable young curator of the Chicago Historical society, is to do the explanation and the Historical society dioramas are to be her subject.

Last year Miss Walsh spoke in her fluent French before the Juniors who filled the large lecture hall at the Historical society, so this afternoon is being anticipated as a particularly gala occasion. After seeing and hearing about the dioramas Miss Walsh will also show her guests the society's Lincoln collection. Then there will be tea.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Dunham Jr. are on their way for a long vacation in Bermuda. Mrs. Dunham's sister, Mrs. William C. Wellis, and Mr. Wellis have been in Bermuda and the West Indies on their wedding trip and are returning to Chicago the first of next week. Before her marriage to the Dane Mrs. Wellis was Mrs. Louise Taylor Booth. She and Mr. Wellis will be at the Churchill for a month before going abroad to make their home in Paris.

News of Travel and Vacations.

Mrs. Howell B. Erminger and her daughter, Carolyn, have returned from Minneapolis, where they were the guests of the family of John De Laittre, Miss Erminger's fiancé. Mr. De Latittre is planning to return the visit the first week in April. Miss Erminger and Mr. De Laittre plan to be married the afternoon of April 30.

The Hobart P. Youngs have returned to their Winnetka home after a vacation in Chandler, Ariz. They returned home by way of New Orleans, and report "a perfectly lovely trip."

Although their plans are not definit, Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins and Miss Jane Schuttler plan to leave the first of next week for Florida. They may motor in Miss Schuttler's car, and they may go by train. Palm Beach is their destination, and they will stay at a hotel. They had wanted to visit the John Ameses, but Mrs. Hodgkins thinks that Mr. and Mrs. Ames will have returned to Chicago by the time she and Miss Schuttler arrive in the sunny south. They will be away just three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker are not planning to go west this winter, but around the first of May they will be leaving for their home in Santa Barbara, where they will spend the summer. Mr. Meeker Jr. is planning to go to Scotland in June for the meeting of the International P. E. N. club of which he is secretary of the Chicago center.

Miss Joanna Fortune Plans Trip to East.

Miss Joanna Fortune is planning to go east to spend the Easter vacation with her niece, Miss Barbara Fortune, who is a student at Vassar. They wanted to go to Bermuda, but Barbara's vacation is hardly long enough for the trip there, so they will have ten days at the Virginia Hot Springs instead.

Miss Fortune is planning to go to China in the autumn, and since Miss Harriet Monroe and Mrs. Robert H. McCreary also are planning to visit the orient at that time it is possible that the three will take the trip together.

The Ralph R. Richardson family is disappointed that it will not be making an annual spring trip to the Richardsons' lovely Rose Cottage in Gaylord, Va., this spring, but it is unlikely that Mrs. Richardson will go south to open up her southern home. Especially disappointed are her two daughters, Mrs. Walter W. Crawford and Mrs. Frederick L. Spencer, and their husbands, for they always enjoyed so much the family house parties in Virginia during the late winter and early spring.

Miss Dorothy Ranney and Miss Jean Stevens have gone to Florida for a fortnight or longer. They are visiting the Robert Piries on the John T. Pirie estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hellyer, who were staying in Riverside with Mr. Hellyer's parents, the Arthur T. Hellyers, are now in Des Moines visiting Mrs. Hellyer's mother, Mrs. Lewis S. Louer, before they return to Japan. Mr. Hellyer's father had planned to sail with them, but he has decided to wait another six weeks and go with his sister, Mrs. John Liddell, who is arriving in town from New York shortly. She and Arthur Hellyer will leave for Japan the first week in April. Mrs. Liddell has been in Europe with her daughters.

Mrs. I. Newton Perry Will Return in May.

The first of May Mrs. I. Newton Perry will be coming back to Chicago from her long and interesting holiday in Manila. Mrs. Perry is with her younger daughter, Sally, visiting her older daughter, Polly, now Mrs. Harold Kneedler, at her home in Manila. Coming home Mrs. Perry and Sally will stop by the Dutch East Indies.

Six months in Munich with occasional side trips, German lessons, and much fun is in store for Miss Ilma Jane Theurer, daughter of Mrs. Peter S. Theurer, and her cousin, Miss Margaret Osten, daughter of Mrs. Theurer Osten. They are sailing on March 21 on the Deutschland and already plans are completed for a grand sendoff party in New York at which Miss Theurer's brother, John Peter Theurer, and several Princeton classmates including William A. Cremin, his roommate, will be present. Miss Flora Kaiser of New Rochelle, who went to Mount Vernon with Miss Theurer, will attend the party.

Judges at Florida Flower Show

These three winter residents of Palm Beach had the hard task of judging at the flower show given last week by the Palm Beach Garden club, of which Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock (center) of Chicago and Lake Forest is president. The other judges were Mrs. Albert L. Smith (left) of New York and Philadelphia, the former Mrs. Lawrence M. Viles of Chicago and Lake Forest, and Mrs. Persifor Frazer III. (right) of Philadelphia.

At What Age Do Men Decide to Settle Down?

Please Tell Your Opinion, Husbands.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

At what age does a man settle down?

Downhearted would like to know. She's been married to the one she is asking about for a number of years now, and she's been asking that question since the fourth year of marriage.

You tell us, husbands! Please! At what age might you be expected to qualify as fairly well settled in good matrimonial ways?

In the meantime, Downhearted would like to kno , too, how a man who picks up and leaves the house around eight, night after night, and doesn't return until one and two a. m., expects the wife to wear a smile evening after evening?

If you can answer that one, husbands, you ARE bright, brighter than your treatment of the lady, in case you are given to emulating Downhearted's mate's conduct. It's you night hawks whom we're addressing, naturally, not the kind of husband who lets his wife share his company enough to keep her from complaining.

Downhearted, we fear, is up against one of those hurdles before which we feel perfectly helpless. When she married her man she had money. He has managed to go through nearly all of it, with very little spent on attentions to her. He goes around telling his friends he made a mistake ever to marry the woman, and remains only for the sake of his children.

We have our doubts about the great child affection, if he can't see that his perpetual night hawking must have a sad reaction on his offspring. Youngsters are the first to sense that all is not well between the parents, and their suffering is too well knewn to be discussed here. We think the gentleman has not found a better berth for himself and that is why he sticks around. So long as there is any money left in that fund the wife donated, she can probably count on her star boarder. But we wonder how a woman can ever let herself get into the doormat frame of mind and attitude that stands for such treatment. Instead of meeting the gentleman late evenings with a welcoming smile, we'd welcome him with a good, swift——

But maybe we had not better be advocating trouble. And, after all, if a wife is willing to go on taking it, she probably deserves what she gets. Anyway, we think she'd better get her back up and do a little barking out loud about her rights, while there are a few dollars left in the fund.

Fifth Birthday Turning Point in Child's Life

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

It looks as though we'd have to have a special booklet on the five year old.

We have one, written in full, about the in-betweens—the children from six or seven to twelve. The printer is now working on a fully written booklet called "Understanding the Adolescent"—which means our children from about twelve to the late teens. But all our little five year old has had so far is an article off and on and many letters to his various mothers.

The letters from parents who are having trouble with their five year old contain about the same complaints:

"My little girl used to be so sweet and obedient and now she is so different."

"My little boy is getting to be so fresh."

"My little girl is so rough."

"My little boy uses bad words yet he never hears such language at home."

All this goes to show that there is a universal change that takes place around the age of five. If you understand this change and act accordingly you won't have any real trouble with your small boy or girl who is emerging from babyhood.

What is this change?

Your five year old has mastered the two difficult arts of walking and talking. Rapidly he gains a varied muscular skill. He can run and climb and leap and turn somersaults—not with grunts and concentration like a two or three year old but with perfect ease. This means that he is filled with a sense of power and of independence which it is quite natural for him to express. "No more baby"—as an old nurse I know used to say. The docility of babyhood gives way to a vigorous physical freedom.

Spring Coats from Paris Have Crisp Silk Frills

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Spring coats being worn about Paris have dropped their furs and taken on soft collars and frills of crisp silk instead. Coats of light weight, light colored wool with knick-knacks of taffeta around the neck and on the sleeves are the last word in Paris chic.

Women here like coats in the new smoky pastel colors, in beige, and in light gray and they wear them over dark silk frocks. As the new coats meet only part way, if at all, in front the dress always shows.

The Worth coat shown here is an example of the latest style for this kind of a spring wrap. It is made of a smoky turquoise wool and has a jabot ruffle and bow of brown taffeta. This is a fetching color scheme for a coat and the dress worn underneath is also of brown taffeta. The silhouette of this coat is slim and fitted and it buttons down the center front to the waistline on turquoise bone buttons. There is no belt, but the side gores of the coat skirt extend into bands that suggest a belt across the front. The sleeves are long and closely fitted.

BY MARY MEADE.

If we're to believe the reports that the first lady of the land was Eve, then we'll have to give her a good deal of credit for having made popular that seedy eastern delicacy, the fig. Dresses, we hear, she made of fig leaves, but how much of the fruit itself she ate the accounts don't tell us.

But we bet they were plenty. And it's also two to one that she would have eaten even more if they had been encased in the neat cookie sides which nowadays glorify tons of our figs, making them into the fig filled bars we dash for whenever we think our waistlines will allow. Which brings up a question. How are you supplied with ideas for employing these fruit cookies to help along the family joy? We've been offering them up with ice cream, sherbet, and custards and likewise parading them with glasses of milk as snacks for before bedtime hungers, but what about fig bar pies, fig bars à la mode, Smyrna Charlotte, and still other fig inspired desserts?

The pie is simplicity itself:

FIG BAR PIE.
Pastry for one crust
2 egg whites, beaten stiff
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
15 fig filled bars

Neatly line a pie plate with pastry and bake it in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) for twelve minutes. Fold the sugar and vanilla into the stiffly beaten egg whites, and break in the fig bars in small pieces. Blend and fill the pie shell with the mixture. Slide it back into your oven, which has been cooled down to low heat (350 degrees F.), and bake for twenty minutes. Chill and serve this fig pie with a topping of whipped cream if you wish.

For those figs à la mode simply tuck two filled fig cookies onto each plate and cover with a slice or a spooned-out serving of vanilla ice cream. Luscious!

Or that business of the Charlotte. Here's the way of it:

SMYRNA CHARLOTTE.
18 fig filled bars
1½ cups whipping cream
6 maraschino cherries or
¼ cup chopped nut meats

Into the bottom of each sherbet glass goes a fig bar. The rest of the bars must be cut each in three lengthwise strips. Stand these strips upright around the inside of the sherbet glasses and fill each center with sweetened whipped cream, to which a few drops of vanilla have been added. Top with chopped nuts or a cherry and serve.

But maybe you're all agog for simple foods this season. Then try this uncomplicated little number. Merely place your fig filled cookies in a covered casserole and heat them in a hot oven (425 degrees F.). Serve them hot with sweet, unwhipped cream.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt left this afternoon for New York accompanied by her secretary, Mrs. Malvina Thompson Scheider. She will return Sunday morning to spend the first anniversary of her husband's inauguration with him, and to attend the dinner being given him by the members of the cabinet and their wives, next Sunday. While away she will visit her two sons, Franklin D. Jr., at Harvard, and John, at Groton.

Mrs. Albert B. Dewey Jr. of Chicago has sailed for Corsica, to go to her mother, Mme. Marcel Levie, who is very ill. Mrs. Philip Maher of Chicago sailed with Mrs. Dewey.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He was captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, now disbanded, and has won twenty-four national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

THE NO TRUMP BID AND A SQUEEZE PLAY.

THE no trump bid always denotes solid, protective, defensive holdings that can reasonably be expected to take tricks if the opponents play the hand. Usually they are made up of primary tricks and tenace positions: a hand that invites the opening lead in preference to being immediately led through.

No trump distributions are as follows:

1. Four, three three, three.
2. Four, four, three, two.
3. Five, three, three, two.
4. In rare instances five, four, two and two.

In the case of No. 1, the hand contains no ruffing ability and, unless the partner has a long suit, usually will play better in no trumps than in a suit.

It is with No. 2 that I intend to deal today.

With primary tricks in three suits queen x is considered a sufficient stopper in the other suit. Take the following hand:

	♠ 10-9-4-3 ♥ K-9-7-5 ♦ K-Q-2 ♣ J-2
♠ K-J ♥ Q-10-4-2 ♦ 9-8-7 ♣ A-K-10-3	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠ A-8-5-2 ♥ A-8-3 ♦ A-J-10-3 ♣ Q-8
	♠ Q-7-6 ♥ J-6 ♦ 6-5-4 ♣ 9-7-6-5-4

The bidding:

E and W VULNERABLE.

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 N. T. [1]	Pass	2 N. T. [2]
Pass	3 N. T. [3]	Pass	Pass
Pass

1. The doubleton club headed by the queen is provisionally considered a stopper. The four card diamond suit could be bid, but would not picture the hand correctly.

2. This is an urgent request to the opener to continue if he holds any excess values, whether in primary or in secondary form.

Raising one no trump to two is a strong game invitation in the Sims system. Two clubs would be too weak a bid; three clubs might lead to a bad slam contract with no long suit on which to base the play.

3. The queen of clubs and jack, ten of diamonds justify the rebid.

The play:

[*Indicates card taking trick.]

Trick	South	West	North	East
1.	♥ J [1]	♥ Q	♥ K*	♥ 3
2.	♦ 4	♦ 7	♦ K	♦ A*
3.	♠ 6	♠ J*	♠ 3	♠ 2
4.	♣ 4	♣ 3	♣ 2	♣ Q
5.	♣ 9 [2]	♣ K	♣ J	♣ 8
6.	♣ 5	♣ A*	♦ 2	♦ 3
7.	♣ 6	♣ 10*	♦ 4	♦ 10
8.	♠ 7	♠ K*	♠ 9	♠ 5
9.	♥ 6	♥ 2	♥ 5	♥ A*
10.	♠ Q	♦ 8	♠ 10	♠ A*
11.	♠ 7	♦ 9	Squeeze	♠ 8

On the lead of the spade eight by East at trick eleven, North is squeezed.

North holds ♥ 9-7 ♦ -Q.
East holds ♦ J ♥ 8.
West holds ♥ 10-4.

Should North discard the ♦-Q, East's J will be made good and should he discard a heart, then West's two hearts will be good.

Comments on Play.

1. The jack of hearts was obviously a short lead, but there was no way of placing the nine spot. East decided that if he wins the spade finesse and North holds four spades and four hearts and also the king and queen of diamonds, there would be a squeeze play on him. He therefore allowed him to hold the first trick with the king of hearts.

2. The play of the club nine was an attempt to induce declarer to finesse. This is a most unusual squeeze play as North held all the material cards. First he had to let one suit go to protect the other two. Then he had to make a fatal discard from the other two suits at trick eleven. Extra tricks gained by fine play may not mean much in rubber play—unless you compute their total at the end of the year; but they decide the tournaments where each hand is scored on a match point basis—one point for each pair that you beat on the hand, playing the same way of the table.

Graceful Bodice and Skirt Lend Slenderness to Heavier Figures

WOMAN'S DRESS.

This graceful dress is a very becoming style for the normal or larger size figure. The bodice is cut in one, with the front skirt panel, and is very easy to put together. Bias seaming cuts the breadth through the lower bodice, while the softly falling revers conceal the full bust. Challis, silk crêpes, and satins are lovely materials for this dress.

The pattern, No. 3488, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin [coin preferred; wrap it carefully] for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, New York City.

Note—Clotilde patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE. They are perfect in fit, up to date in style, and the easiest of all patterns to use.

Whose Fault?

When Little Girls Show Temper

A quarrelsome child is a sick child, mothers! A bad bowel condition means bad behavior. And it doesn't help matters to give bilious boys and girls some powerful cathartic that upsets them for days. When you see a coated tongue, dull or yellowed eyes, or other signs of sluggishness, there's always a way to cleanse and sweeten that little system without violence; next day you have a happy, contented child. This common-sense treatment is explained on the right:

Good health and good behavior go hand in hand. With inner health, come smiling faces and sunny dispositions. And it's really so simple a matter to keep children's bowels regular. The only "medicine" most youngsters ever need to promote thorough bowel action is pure California Syrup of Figs. The senna in this fine, fruity laxative never weakens them, or takes away their appetite. But get real California Syrup of Figs; you can get it anywhere; it isn't expensive.

"AN EYE TO THE FUTURE — AN EAR TO THE GROUND"

—this describes General Motors' policy: a policy by which the public is given what it wants in better cars year after year, and yet is safely protected against ill-timed or dubious experiments

BULL'S-EYE!

. . . thanks to you!

On the dotted lines of dealers' order books is being written the public's notion of the fashionable 1934 motor car.

From where we stand it certainly looks as if General Motors had scored another bull's-eye.

If our 1934 streamline designs have hit the very centerpoint of public favor, as seems clear, we are glad and grateful.

And we want to give credit where credit is due.

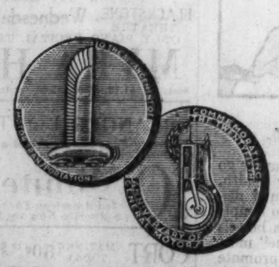
The truth is, the people of America helpfully told us well in advance just about what they wanted.

Through the world's largest automotive dealer organization, through replies to more than a million letters of inquiry we sent last year to motorists, we got the story.

It was priceless guidance in shaping into mature and beautiful form the lessons we had learned in streamlining over a period of years.

And it enabled us to hit the target on streamlining in our 1934 cars as we hit it on No-Draft Ventilation and Knee-Action Wheels.

The three outstanding advancements in modern automobiles—NO-DRAFT VENTILATION, KNEE-ACTION WHEELS, STREAMLINE DESIGN—are each and all General Motors contributions!



This medallion commemorates the twenty-fifth anniversary of General Motors and of its public-minded interest in the advancement of motor transportation

CARNERA DEFENDS TITLE AGAINST LOUGHRAN TONIGHT

FIGHT WILL SET NEW LOW FOR MODERN BOUTS

Gate Not Likely to Reach $75,000.

Fight Facts

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Facts on the Primo Carnera-Tommy Loughran 15 round fight here tomorrow night follow:

Purse—Carnera, 37½ per cent of gate receipts, less tax; Loughran, 12½ per cent.

Time of bout—About 9 o'clock Chicago time.

Weather forecast—Partly cloudy, with rising temperature.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 27.—Primo Carnera of Italy and Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia have finished their active training for tomorrow night's 15 round contest in the Madison Square Garden arena, originally built here for the Jack Sharkey-Phil Scott battle in 1930. Those 15 rounds or less will determine whether the Italian man mountain, in pugilistic lingo, retains the title won from Jack Sharkey, or whether the Philadelphia dancing master, also fistic lingo, realizes his ambition of 15 fighting years.

Whatever else may be said of the encounter, it ranks as the most unusual in heavyweight annals. In physical disparity between the principals, in negative public estimates of the challenger's chances, outside of Philadelphia, and in public indifference, it holds the palm. It also will establish a world's record for low gate receipts in modern title bouts.

Waiting for the Sun.

Advance sales of admission tickets have reached a total still under $35,000. This is partly due to rainy weather of the last two days. Prospective customers are waiting for sun. If that comes, there may be a last minute rush, which would send the financial scales balancing to $75,000. A week ago writers were told the advance sale already was $40,000. It seems that estimate was based on reservations, many of which have not yet been picked up. Reservations are money only after they have been paid for.

Betting on the bout is light. It is not the kind of an affair on which sports like to wager. There are too many uncertainties. Current odds are quoted at 3 to 1, with Carnera favorite. A week ago they were 5 to 1. Yet only one bet of matured money, $4,000 to $1,000, has been reported.

Might Enliven Boxing.

Despite these adverse factors, there are keen judges of boxing who profess to believe it will yield a result which will make those present glad they were there to tell about it afterward. In the first place, it is a championship fight. If Loughran should perform the miraculous, escape Carnera for 15 rounds and outpoint him for the decision, it will enliven the moribund heavyweight situation. Tommy will find plenty of opponents anxious to dispute his claims.

On the other hand, Carnera will be given opportunity to prove whether or not he is a fighter. Even his six round knockout of Sharkey for the championship last July did not convince all skeptics. Boston Jack's subsequent decision defeats by King Levinsky and Tommy Loughran proved he has gone back.

Still Must Prove Self.

Yet this huge Italian has so many physical advantages that he does not have to be the best boxer or the greatest fighter in the world to retain his position among the present crop of heavyweights. What wares he has will be displayed against a master workman, a veteran who will make no mistakes in the ring.

These factors contribute one of the unusual features—a fighter in possession of the highest honors actually being asked to prove himself.

Carnera has improved greatly since he was brought to this country from a traveling show in Europe, where he was the strong man. He has learned a fair amount of boxing, and he is fast for his size.

Just because this writer hasn't been able to become serious, although expecting a really entertaining evening, we base our estimate of Carnera's speed more on his ballroom dancing than on his work against sparring

BOSTON HANDS BLACKHAWKS 3 TO 1 DEFEAT

Barry Scores Two Goals for Bruins.

Hawks vs. Boston

BOSTON [3].		CHICAGO [1].
C. Thompson	G.	Gardiner
Wilcox	L. D.	Jenkins
Shore	R. D.	Conacher
Barry	C.	Romnes
Siebert	L. W.	P. Thompson
Clapper	R. W.	March

SPARES.
Chicago—Couture, Abel, Cook, F. Thompson, Gottselig, Sheppard, MacFadyen, Coulter, Trudel, Goldsworthy.

FIRST PERIOD.
Scoring—Stewart [Lamb and Beattie], 2:42.
Penalties—Lamb and Cook.

SECOND PERIOD.
Scoring—Barry [Wilcox], 3:00; Goldsworthy [Conacher], 14:10; Barry [unassisted], 19:49.
Penalties—Siebert, tripping.

THIRD PERIOD.
Scoring—None. Penalties—Stewart and Coulter [major].

Boston, Mass., Feb. 27. — (AP) — Marty Barry, captain and leading scorer of the Boston Bruins, scored two goals in the second period tonight to lead the Bruins to a 3 to 1 victory over the Chicago Blackhawks, before a crowd of 4,000.

It was the first victory for the Bruins since Feb. 4, when they scored a 2 to 1 overtime decision over these same Hawks, in Chicago. It gave the Bruins the edge in the season's competition with three victories, a tie and two defeats. The setback prevented the Hawks from taking possession of second place in the American division of the National Hocky league, and left them seven points behind the leading Detroit Red Wings, who tonight beat the New York Rangers.

Scores in First Three Minutes.

The Hawks trailed the Bruins after the third minute of play, when Nels Stewart scored on assists by Joe Lamb and Red Beattie. In the second period Barry made his first goal on Archie Wilcox's pass and then, after Leroy Goldsworthy had converted Lionel Conacher's assist, Barry stole the puck from Conacher and clinched the game.

The game started with neither side able to do much, although Clapper had a shot from the right and Romnes brought Tiny Thompson to his knees. With the changing of lines after two minutes of play, however, the Bruins were in on Gardiner. Beattie had one chance and could not collect, but then Lamb carried down the right, passed forward to Beattie, who was on the same side, and Beattie passed to Stewart, who had coasted over toward the nets and scored at 2:42.

Barry Scores for Boston.

The teams opened the second period at full strength, with March having an opening at one end and Siebert testing Gardiner at the other. The Hawks sent a three-man attack down into Boston territory, and Wilcox, breaking up the rush, jumped down the left center with Barry on his left. As they reached the Chicago defense Wilcox passed to Barry, who shot and found the far corner at 3:00.

There was no further business and it looked as if the Bruins were playing the game too cozily for the Hawks and there was nothing really dangerous when Conacher started down the ice and then passed to Goldsworthy in the middle zone. But Goldsworthy stick-handled nicely and swept across the net as Thompson dived and scored at 14:10.

Barry Counts Again.

The Bruins refused to take any more chances and covered closely, their back checking being too much for the Hawks, who could not break away for a clear shot. In fact, by jumping opportunely, the Bruins had the better chances, one from Barry to Clapper and the other by Clapper himself. Another rush was seemingly stopped and Conacher had the puck. He either was going to carry or pass to a forward, but Barry stole the puck from him and scored at 19:49.

THEY'RE FOREVER THROWING PUNCHES

PONZI MAINTAINS CUE LEAD OVER RUDOLPH, 503-322

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia maintained a commanding lead at the end of the second day's play in his challenge match with Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland for the world's pocket billiard championship, with a margin of 503 to 322.

The challenger thus established himself as the favorite going into the final day's tests with two blocks remaining in their 750 point match of continuous count that closes tomorrow evening.

While the titleholder was able to obtain only twenty-four points tonight, Ponzi rolled up 116, including in this a high run of 45 and ending with an unfinished run of 27, that gives him an opportunity of continuing at the table when play is resumed at 3 o'clock.

HOLD FUNERAL SERVICES TODAY FOR JOHN M'GRAW

McQuade-Stoneham Deal Involved in Death.

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Many of the nation's leading figures in sports, the theatre and the newspaper world will gather at St. Patrick's cathedral tomorrow to pay their last respects to John J. McGraw, one of baseball's most colorful and brilliant leaders.

A solemn requiem high mass will be celebrated for McGraw at the cathedral at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The Rev. Vincent de Paul Mulry, pastor of St. Catherine's Roman Catholic church of Pelham, in Westchester county, of which McGraw was a communicant, will celebrate the mass.

Ruppert, Terry Pallbearers.

Then the body will be taken to Baltimore, where McGraw once played with the Baltimore Orioles before coming to New York to manage the Giants, and will be placed in a vault in Bonnie Brae cemetery.

Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees; Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, and Bill Terry, who succeeded Mr. McGraw as the Giants' manager, will be among the honorary pallbearers.

McGraw, who was 60, died Sunday in New Rochelle hospital of uremia.

Speculation was rife as to the effect McGraw's death will have on the tripartite ownership agreement which has engendered many heated legal skirmishes since Francis X. McQuade, erstwhile city magistrate, was ousted as treasurer of the National Exhibition company in May of 1928.

McQuade, Stoneham, and McGraw purchased the Giants in the winter of 1918-19 from Harry N. Hempstead.

At that time there were 1,306 shares of stock, of which McQuade and McGraw each purchased seventy shares from Stoneham, McQuade paying $50,338.10 for his block. When the transaction was consummated it was reported that an ironclad agreement had been reached by the new owners, whereby none of the three stockholders could dispose of his holdings without the consent of the others.

Involves McGraw Heirs.

The question now being raised concerns the possibility of the three-fold agreement being binding upon McGraw's heirs. The question also has been asked if McGraw's death invalidates the agreement, and will permit either Stoneham or McQuade to dispose of his holdings without consent of the other.

There is little likelihood of Stoneham or McQuade burying the hatchet, many think. Nor is it considered likely that the appointment of a vice president will occur in the near future. When this business is disposed of, it is safe to assume that McGraw's successor will not be inimical to the interests which have been lined up against McQuade in the bitter litigation of the last five years.

HEAVIER BOYS ATTRACT 10,524; CASERIO WINS

Decide Eight Best in Novice Class.

Tonight's Program

FOLLOWING are the facts concerning the seventh annual Tournament of Champions tonight:

Place—Chicago Stadium, 1800 West Madison street.

Time—First bout at 7:30 p. m.

Admission—25 cents, 40 cents, 66 cents, $1.10.

Number of teams—Thirty-nine from eight states.

Number of bouts—Thirty-two quarter finals in all eight divisions.

Boxers—Report for physical examination between 4 and 6 p. m.

Pairings—By lot at 6 p. m.

Where to buy tickets—Tribune Tower, Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, and Chicago Stadium boxoffice.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The big and husky warriors in the Chicagoland Golden Gloves army passed in review before a crowd of 10,524 at Chicago Stadium last night.

For nearly five hours they marched into the two rings. There they waged spectacular battles and finally marched out again. Shortly before midnight there were only eight survivors left in each of the four heavier classes—welterweights, middleweights, light heavyweights and heavyweights.

Twice in as many nights the invading forces from the cities surrounding Chicago gave our Chicago boys quite a boisterous thumping. A big majority of the winners hailed from out of town and a similar situation developed during the fighting in the four lighter classes 24 hours earlier.

All in Action Tonight.

While the big fellows mowed one another down and had the crowd screaming in the excitement, most of the lighter boys were resting. A few them, however, were called on to fight again last night.

These fighters will go back into action tonight and so will the boys in the heavier divisions who came out of last night's skirmishes victorious. When tonight's fighting ends only 32 boys from an original army of more than 8,000 will be undefeated. They will return to the Stadium ring on March 9 to scrap for the championships.

Two former champions came through the wild fighting with colors flying. They were Fred Caserio, middleweight crown wearer of last season, and Max Marek, the 1933 light heavyweight champion. Caserio whipped Harold Watt of Indianapolis and seemed to be well on his way to a successful defense of his title.

Wins as Heavyweight.

Marek was not seeking the light heavyweight crown. He was associating with the heavyweights, and his first victim was Charley Grimm of Rockford. He got the decision after three rounds of fighting. Marek's army of followers, who gave him a noisy welcome when he climbed through the ropes, were of the opinion he is a much better fighter this year than he was a year ago.

Marek's second victim was Eddie Seidlin of the Joliet Spectator's team. Seidlin was on even terms with Marek in the first round. A minute after the second session opened Marek landed a terrific right to Seidlin's chin. The Joliet boy went down face forward and was counted out.

The big sensation of the night was Joe Louis, Detroit Negro, who fought in the light heavyweight division. To win the crowd's approval Louis gave Ray Wozniak, Catholic Youth organization light heavyweight champion, a bad beating. Louis knocked Wozniak down in the first round and again in the second session. A left hook to the chin finished Wozniak in the third.

Caserio Scores K. O.

Other favorites to fall by the wayside were Nester Bruggman, C. Y. O., welterweight; King Wyatt, the cab

Remember Jack Dempsey?

Well, the old Mauler, at his mightiest, put no more action into his championship fights than the scores of young battlers who will appear tonight in the final night's bouts of the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions at the Chicago Stadium.

Every one of the 64 who will appear in the 32 bouts has proved his skill, endurance and fighting spirit in the two preceding nights' eliminations. Every one a potential champion.

The prices? You'll be surprised. There are 7,000 seats at 25 cents. Ringside seats are $1.10, 66 cents, and 40 cents. You may avoid the crowd at the gates by buying your tickets today at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, or at Tribune Tower.

While you're at it, you'd better make sure of reserved seats for the finals on March 9. The prices are $3.30, $2.20, $1.65, $1.10, and 55 cents.

LONDOS NAMED TO WRESTLE AT STADIUM MAR. 21

Shift Boxing Show Date to April 5.

The Chicago Stadium Operating company which had announced a boxing and wrestling show to be held at the Stadium on the same night, March 21, yesterday rearranged the schedule. On March 21 a wrestling card will be presented and on April 5 a boxing program is to be held.

Joe Savoldi, heavyweight wrestler, has informed Stadium officials that he would be unable to face Jim Londos in a contemplated wrestling bout next month. Another opponent will be chosen for Londos.

The scheduled 10 rounder between Henry Rothier, last year's Golden Gloves welterweight titleholder, and Lou Avery of Arkansas at Quincy, Ill., March 8 has been postponed for two weeks. Russell Gross, promoter, will present a wrestling bill instead on March 8.

Three matches at 10 rounds are planned at Pittsburgh March 5. They are:

Charley Massera vs. Red Barry, heavyweights.

Kid Leonard vs. Anson Green, middleweights.

Karl Ogren, middleweight, will leave today for Kenosha, Wis., en route to Milwaukee, where he meets Tait Littman Friday. . . . Jackie Wilson, Pittsburgh 126 pounder, will leave for New York Saturday to compete in the featherweight elimination tournament there late next month. . . . The New York athletic commission, which refuses to recognize Freddy Miller as champion, has announced that Frank Klick, Vittorio Tanagnini, Vernon Cormier, and Frankie Grahame also have entered.

Barney Ross, lightweight champion, will defend his junior welterweight title against Tony Herrera at Fort Worth, Tex., April 20. Ross is at San Francisco where he engages Frankie Klick, junior lightweight king, in a 140 pound title bout Monday. Ross and his handlers are to leave California for Chicago immediately after a match at Sacramento on March 27.

A blow by blow description of the heavyweight championship bout between Champion Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran at Miami, Fla., tonight will be heard at 24 South Dearborn street. . . . Paul Dazzo, west side, weighed 137½ pounds after a workout yesterday for a match with Leo Rodak on the south side March 12. F. M.

Carnera Risks Title Tonight in 15 Rounds

partners. It commanded our unbounded admiration.

If Carnera forces the attack, as he is expected to do, it will be a good fight to watch. If he should elect to go on the defense, it will be dull, because his height and reach make him difficult to hit. Preliminary training has indicated Primo intends to attack. In sparring he has paid particular attention to blocking straight lefts, holding his right guard high and brushing those blows aside while countering to the body with his own left.

Methods of the two boxers in training have differed widely. Loughran worked in comparative obscurity at Palm Beach, earnestly and seriously. Carnera was used for ballyhoo purposes in local appearances. His sparring partners were not boxers of wide experience. Yet, so far as actual work was concerned, Primo was earnest and did no loafing except as he pulled his punches to spare his opponents. So far as physical condition is concerned he looks at a peak.

The champion took a long walk this morning and then lolled around his cottage most of the day while rain was falling outside. He will take only light exercise tomorrow because his present weight of around 260 pounds is the notch at which he wishes to appear.

The challenger, on the other hand, engaged in a full day's work at West Palm Beach, sparring six rounds, shadow boxing, rope skipping, bag punching and calisthenics. In thoroughness of preparation Loughran has left nothing undone.

Weather Doubtful Factor.

Loughran and his camp entourage will motor from his training quarters tomorrow morning with a Miami police motorcycle escort meeting him at Hollywood and taking him to the hotel where he will pass the night after the battle.

Weather is still a doubtful factor. An official forecast of somewhat cloudy and rising temperature leaves much uncertainty in this section of sudden storms which go just as quickly as they come. If there is morning rain which soaks the seats, the bout would be called off early enough to notify prospective spectators by radio.

Matchmaker Jimmy Johnston tonight still sticks to his advance estimate of a $75,000 gate. The Garden corporation would show a small profit at $50,000, according to officials.

Schmidt to Confer on Ohio State Coaching Job

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Coach Francis A. Schmidt of Texas Christian university, said to be under consideration as the next football coach of Ohio State, left today for Columbus for an interview with Buckeye athletic officials Wednesday night. Athletic Director L. W. St. John of Ohio State has been negotiating with Schmidt several days and Schmidt was invited to Columbus to discuss the coaching situation.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Singing Wood, which was retired after winning the Belmont Futurity, may start in the Kentucky Derby. This was announced today by Jim Healey, trainer of the Whitney stable. The announcement followed a statement issued last Saturday that the horse would not compete in the Blue Grass classic at Louisville.

Healey's latest announcement was made during the races at Hialeah Park this afternoon. The Ormond purse, feature of the program, went to Fire Mask, owned by Colnstream stable, and a Florida Derby candidate. Six other three year olds ran in the mile event.

The stands were well filled despite showers during the day. Fire Mask had no difficulty over the heavy track and covered the distance in 1:39 2-5. He paid $15.80 for $2 straight tickets. Bittybit finished second and Flight was third.

Earl Porter rode the winner for his 25th victory of the meeting. Porter shot Fire Mask into the lead in the stretch and won going away. Bittybit, the favorite, took the lead at the break and held it safe until they reached the last furlong, when Fire Mask went past him.

CUBS ASSEMBLE FOR JOURNEY TO TRAINING CAMP

Squad Starts Westward Tomorrow Night.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Positive indications of the Cubs' impending spring training jaunt appeared yesterday in the persons of Lon Warneke, the expert gunner of Grimm's pitching staff, and Bill Jurges, custodian of the shortstop berth, who is breathing easy because nobody as yet has threatened to make a serious bid for his regular job.

Warneke, accompanied by Mrs. Warneke, came in from Mount Ida, which is in Arkansas. The big boy took a good look at the new baseball which the league will use this summer and declared he thought it might help him in his chosen line of endeavor. Then he went on to tell that the winter hadn't been overly exciting. He shot some quail, went looking for some wild geese which didn't show up, and the rest of the time watched his pet herd of stockers and feeders eat up more than they'll ever bring in the open market. Warneke also served a brief stretch as instructor in the baseball school at Hot Springs, Ark.

Jurges had nothing to report except that he had paid a visit during the winter to Billy Herman, who leased a ranch in Texas and purchased a hundred head of cattle so as to get for himself first hand information about the disappointments of that particular business.

Herman incidentally is one of the three Cubs unsigned. He has an appointment with William Walker, Cub president, at the Biltmore hotel, Los Angeles, next Sunday. Charley Root and Babe Herman, who also have voiced objection to submitted terms, will be given a hearing at the same time. The trio will not be permitted to go to camp until their documents have been signed. If they sign up Sunday, however, they'll not miss any training because the squad will not begin work until Monday, although arriving at the island next Sunday noon.

Galan Considered Promising.

The failure of the Cub officials to display any concern over Billy Herman's aloof attitude is easily understood after a talk with Clarence Rowland and Jack Doyle, the club scouts. Both were assigned to the job of watching August Galan of the Frisco club last season. Both recommended the lad so highly that he was purchased.

Galan is a rangy kid who can play second, short or third but is at his best as a second baseman and will be tried there first. He is fast, covers ground to either side and had an impressive .356 batting mark last year. Neither scout would be surprised if the peppery youngster won a regular berth, either at second or third.

Close to forty people will be listed in the Cub party starting from here tomorrow night on the Golden State Limited. The athletic portion of this troupe will be made up of Manager Grimm, Trainer Andy Lotshaw, Coaches Corriden and Kelly and Players Cuyler, Conrads, English, Hartnett, Jurges, Klein, Phelps, Tate, and Warneke. Goebel, Nelson, Rice, and Seebold will join the party at Kansas City. The other Cubs will appear at the island.

Sox Leave Tonight.

The main squad of the White Sox will depart for Pasadena on tonight's Golden State limited. There will be only three athletes, but they'll be well guarded. The three players starting from here are George Earnshaw, the ex-Mack star, old Sam Jones, and speedy Evar Swanson. They'll reach the Pasadena camp Saturday morning and be put to work the same day.

Those accompanying the Sox trio from here will be J. Louis Comiskey, president of the club; Joe Barry, traveling secretary, and Max Alexander, Bob Elson, and John O'Hara.

WINSTON GUEST TO ENTER TEAM IN INDOOR MEET

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Winston F. C. Guest, who is the only man in the history of indoor polo with a top rating of ten goals, will have an optimist trio in this year's national indoor tournament to defend the title won in last year's meet at Chicago, according to word today from the Indoor Polo association of America.

The executive committee of that body also announced the awarding to New York City of the eastern tournament. These will decide the east's representatives in the national tournament.

Guest will have a different line-up from the one of Michael Phipps, Stewart Iglehart and himself, which last year won the open championship at Chicago. Guest is expected to play this year with Michael Phipps, recently lowered from 8 to 7 goals, and his brother, J. H. Phipps, who is at present at 1 goal. This would just make the 18-goal limit set for the class.

Wildcats Honor Tom Robinson at Banquet Tonight

Tom Robinson's 25 years as swimming coach at Northwestern university will be celebrated at a silver anniversary banquet to be given the veteran coach by the university and the townspeople of Evanston at the North Shore hotel this evening.

Several hundred former members of Northwestern swimming teams now residing in Chicago and vicinity will attend the dinner in a group. This body, known as the Sons of Neptune, has been active in swimming work and will be on hand to honor their former coach and teacher. Tableaux portraying highlights in the career of Coach Robinson and the development of swimming in the last 25 years will be a feature of the program.

Robinson's teams have won 10 Big Ten championships and five national intercollegiate titles. Seven of his protégés have won places on the United States Olympic teams.

Two Rookie Pitchers Draw Lew Fonseca's Attention

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., Feb. 27.—Manager Lew Fonseca of the White Sox, who is reported to have worn a long chin all winter over his pitching prospects, cheered up considerably today after watching Pitcher Lee Elbert Stine do his stuff in the second workout of the training season.

Stine has been playing winter ball and was able to cut loose ahead of the rest of the hands, showing Boss Lew his whole assortment. Most of the enthusiasm was over the young man's hard one, though Fonseca also had kind words anent his curve ball.

Formerly a Seal.

Though Stine was not out of his teens until last November, he is a big, strong kid, with five years' experience in professional baseball. The Sox got him from San Francisco. Last year he took part in 47 games for the Seals, winning 12 and losing 13. He worked 245 innings and struck out 128 batsmen.

Next to Stine, John Leon Pomorski drew the most favorable comment from the Sox manager. Unlike Stine, Pomorski has not been playing winter baseball—he lives in Montreal, where winter baseball never seemed to catch on. Pomorski was not able to open up, of course, but Fonseca said he was pleased with the man's style.

Today's practice was witnessed by the reticent Babe Herman, who had been a recluse since stories were printed six weeks ago quoting him as saying the Cubs had used a cleaver to his salary and that he was a holdout.

Herman Watches Pitchers.

Babe had nothing to say about his status with the Cubs other than to make the obvious statement that he is in excellent physical condition and eager for spring training to start at Avalon.

Herman watched the rookie pitchers carefully, having in mind, perhaps, that he will face some of them in the Sox-Cub spring series, the first game of which will be played on March 17. In the city series last fall the Babe made only two singles in 16 times at bat, did not draw a pass, score or drive in a run. His interest in Sox pitchers is therefore quite natural.

Simmons, Dykes, and Haas continued to startle observers with their zeal. All three again put in extra-strenuous sessions, although they were listed with the second squad, which will work out next Saturday for the first time.

Plans Batting Practice.

Fonseca has been so pleased with the attitude of the trio that he has promised to get enough pitchers ready by Thursday to give them all the batting practice they can take Thursday and Friday.

Manager Fonseca did some training on his own today. He says he expects Zeke Bonura to be the regular first baseman, but that he wants to get in shape himself so that he can give Zeke occasional layoffs. Fonseca also expects to do more batting than he could last year after injuring his ankle.

Today's practice was conducted under great weather conditions, the day producing the first bright sunshine this section has enjoyed in more than a week. Climate boosters insisted that the signs indicate that the showers that have fallen daily have exhausted the rain supply and that the team is assured of a stretch of warm weather.

Maroons Beat Loyola Track Team, 71-24

Jay Berwanger, University of Chicago football star and decathlon prospect, led the Maroon track team to a 71 to 24 victory over Loyola at the Midway fieldhouse yesterday. The Dubuque boy won the 60 yard dash in :06.4, beating Colletti, Loyola star, the 70 yard low hurdles at :07.8 and the shotput at 43 feet 10½ inches, and placed second in the high hurdles.

The Maroons took nine of the eleven events. Starrett of Loyola beat Berwanger in the high hurdles and Schott of the north side squad won the mile run. The best performance of the afternoon was made after the meet was over when John Roberts of Chicago cleared 6 feet 3 inches in the high jump. Summaries:

60 YARD DASH—Won by Berwanger, Chicago; Colletti, Loyola, second; Rafferty, Loyola, third. Time, :06.4.

TWO MILE RUN—Won by Milow, Chicago; Brennan, Loyola, second; Varkala, Chicago, third. Time, :9:56.2.

440 YARD RUN—Won by Sills, Chicago; Watson, Chicago, second; McGinnis, Loyola, third. Time, :52.3.

880 YARD RUN—Won by Fairbank, Chicago; Nicholson, Chicago, second; Dystrup, Chicago, third. Time, 2:01.

ONE MILE RUN—Won by Schott, Loyola; Fortess, Chicago, second; Rapp, Chicago, third. Time, 4:41.

70 YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Starrett, Loyola; Berwanger, Chicago, second; Roberts, Chicago, third. Time, :09.1.

70 YARD LOW HURDLES—Won by Berwanger, Chicago; Smith, Chicago, second; Starrett, Loyola, third. Time, :07.8.

POLE VAULT—Won by Roberts, Chicago; Rafferty, Loyola, second; Chittenden, Loyola, third. Height, 11 feet 9 inches.

SHOT PUT—Won by Berwanger, Chicago; Orson, Chicago, second; Reimann, Loyola, third. Distance, 43 feet 10½ inches.

EVERS FAILS TO WIN REDUCTION IN HIS ALIMONY

Troy, N. Y., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Johnny Evers of the famous "Tinker to Evers to Chance" baseball combination lost an umpire's decision in Supreme court here today.

Evers, who has been separated from his wife, petitioned for a reduction of his alimony payments of $1,020 a year. The petition was denied by Justice Pierce J. Russell. Evers declared that he now has no contract with any baseball team and no source of income.

Mrs. Evers alleged the alimony had not been paid in full and that since May of last year the payments totaled only $250.

GLEDHILL, CHAPIN BECOME MEMBERS OF PRO TROUPE

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Keith Gledhill, ninth ranking amateur of the United States, and Alfred H. Chapin Jr., rated seventh in 1926, have accepted terms for a professional tennis tour, it was announced today by Bill O'Brien, who is associated with William T. Tilden.

Gledhill and Chapin will join Tilden and Ellsworth Vines Jr., former national champion, March 21, in a series in New Haven, Conn., which will start a nation-wide tour. Gledhill will play with Vines in the doubles against Tilden and Chapin and the four will rotate in singles against each other.

Tilden and Vines are now on tour with Henri Cochet and Martin Plaa, French professionals. When they end their present trip on March 20 they will split up. Cochet and Plaa will be joined by Bruce Barnes and Vincent Richards to make up another touring unit.

N. U. AND CHICAGO MAT TEAMS TO MEET TONIGHT

Northwestern and Chicago wrestling teams will settle their local rivalry in a dual meet tonight at Bartlett gymnasium with the Maroons the favorites. The south side grapplers won an earlier meet at Evanston, five bouts to three, when Giles of Chicago got a minimum time advantage over Horstings of the Purple in the 165 pound class. Chicago will be stronger tonight, however, with Ed Bedrava, who did not compete at Evanston, capable of winning in any weight above 155 in which the coach chooses to use him.

Schurz Lights Whip Crane to Enter Title Play

Schurz High school's lightweight basketball team advanced to the quarter-final round of play for the Chicago Public High School league championship by defeating Crane Tech, 28 to 25, in overtime, in a playoff for second place in the west section yesterday. Schurz now will meet Roosevelt, the site of the contest to be determined today.

The score was tied, 21 to 21, at the end of the regulation time. In the first three minutes of the extra session each team scored a free throw, but in the following minutes Schurz added six points, while Crane could get only three.

Lane Tech and Tuley will meet tomorrow afternoon in the opening quarter-final game in the heavyweight division at Roosevelt gymnasium. The contest will start at 4 o'clock. Other quarter-final games will be played Friday and Saturday.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

GEORGE WASHINGTON GRANT, for many years prior to 1924 the owner of the Boston Braves, never misses a daylight baseball game in Los Angeles, but refuses to attend at night . . . Incidentally, Mr. Grant never touched a golf club until he had passed 60 . . . Now he plays four mornings a week and his whole day is ruined if he doesn't bust ninety . . . Purdue and the University of California have opened negotiations for a two year football series starting in 1936 . . . The Boilermakers, who take on Fordham for the first time next season, expect to make an annual trip to New York for several years.

Mule Haas and Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox have become steamer minded . . . They went to California from New York via Panama canal aboard the President Pierce . . . Haas stayed in Los Angeles the day the boat docked and then continued to San Francisco, where he was the house guest of Chief Engineer Curler of the President Pierce . . . Dykes remained in Los Angeles three days, then sailed on the President Coolidge for San Francisco . . . Jackie Fields of Chicago, former welterweight champion, has been a technical director on a Hollywood movie lot . . . Among his chores recently has been the coaching of Pat O'Brien, Milwaukee's gift to the movies, who is making a fight picture . . . Jackie is trying to show Pat how to get knocked stiff without minding it.

Al Simmons says that one of the financial crises of his life developed on the night of the Wilson-Hughes election of 1916 . . . Al bought 65 copies of a Milwaukee newspaper and though he cried his wares until almost dawn, sold only four . . . And the 61 unsold copies were not returnable, a dead loss to the Polish boy who now is the second highest paid player in baseball . . . Joe Schoeninger of Evanston, formerly a track man at Wisconsin, is now a varsity hurdler at Illinois . . . The dislocated shoulder Al Kawal sustained in the Northwestern-Illinois basketball game is a chronic injury . . . It bobbed out of place twice last football season.

Arnold Statz, former Cub outfielder who last season was awarded the Sporting News trophy as the most valuable player in the Coast league, this winter has played in all the major pro-amateur golf tournaments in southern California . . . Statz says he will become a professional and try to make his money out of golf when the Coast league doesn't want him any longer . . . Bill Jennings, 190 pound son of the athletic director, is a guard prospect for Marquette's 1934 football team . . . Johnny Fellows, former University of Wisconsin track star who has been burning up eastern tracks in the two mile event this winter, attended Oxford on a Rhodes scholarship. . . . He plans to enter the diplomatic field. . . . He pulled rickshas at A Century of Progress Exposition last summer with Bob Clarke, former Badger teammate.

Charlie Root is eight pounds overweight but he isn't worrying . . . He and Pat Malone are training together daily on Los Angeles golf courses . . . Frank Boucher of the New York Rangers has been awarded the Lady Byng clean play trophy five times . . . The situation is becoming acute . . . Tex Robertson, Michigan sophomore swimmer, who works at any distance from 50 to 440 yards, was a member of the American Olympic water polo team in 1932 . . . Cecil Howard of Chicago, son of the countess of Suffolk, whom he is visiting in Florida, recently caught a muttonfish weighing 15½ pounds, the largest of the species to be taken at Long Key this winter.

Ten Years Ago Today—The Chicago Maroons defeated Northwestern, 42 to 26, and regained first place in the Big Ten basketball race . . . Thomas J. Lynch, former president of the National league, died . . . Battling Siki was taken to a hospital in Florida suffering from bronchial pneumonia. Jack Dempsey was resting well after a minor operation . . . Work was started on Chicago's million dollar Riding club to be located at East Erie street, Ontario street and McClurg court . . . Joe Moore won the international indoor speed skating championship at St. John, N. B. . . . Pinkey Mitchell and Pal Moran were suspended by the Wisconsin ring board for infractions of the rules.

THREE TIE FOR LEAD WITH 69 AT ST. PETERSBURG

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee, Wis., Frank Walsh of Chicago, and Paul Runyan of Westchester, N. Y., each shot 69 today to tie for the lead as the St. Petersburg open golf tournament began. Par is 72.

Revolta, Walsh and Runyan led a field of 74 pros and amateurs, but a wide open battle for first money was in prospect tomorrow as 16 golfers were within five strokes of the three pace-setters. There is a total of $1,000 in prizes.

Harry Cooper of Chicago trailed the three leaders by one stroke with a 70. Jimmy Hines of the Timber Point club of Long Island, posted a 71 after putting his tee shot on the 18th hole in a water hazard.

Five were bracketed at 72. They included Dick Metz of Deal, N. J.; Robert Shave of St. Petersburg and Cleveland, O.; Al Watrous of Detroit; Bill Mehlhorn of Louisville, Ky., and Denny Shute of Miami. Shute, British open champion, won the Gasparilla open tournament at Tampa yesterday, defeating Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., in an 18 hole playoff.

Smith posted a 73 today while Joe Turnesa of Long Island, N. Y.; Charles Lacey of Long Island City, N. Y.; Craig Wood of Deal, N. J.; Ky Laffoon of Denver; Art Smith of Covington, Ky.; Abe Espinosa of Chicago; Walter Hagen of Detroit, and Willie MacFarlane of Tuckahoe, N. Y., had 74's.

OLESON BEATEN BY GOLDENBERG'S FLYING TACKLE

Buckets Goldenberg defeated Ollie Oleson, Milwaukee heavyweight wrestler, in the windup of the professional show at the Arcadia Gardens, 4444 Broadway, last night. Goldenberg pinned his opponent with a flying tackle in 23 minutes and 46 seconds.

Clem Savoldi and Count Zarynoff won decisions in the preliminaries. Savoldi beat Al Woznica and Zarynoff triumphed over Victor Soldat. In other bouts George Mack threw Jack Zeravich in 12 minutes and 46 seconds, Charles Peterson won from George Ucek in 17 minutes and 35 seconds, and Rudy Hoffman beat Chuck Wuthrick in 17 minutes and 23 seconds.

Cohen, Silver Quit Bike Race; 3 Tie for Lead

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Another withdrawal reduced the field in the six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden to thirteen teams tonight. Louis Cohen and Bobby Silver, finding themselves hopelessly trailing the leaders by eighteen laps, elected to quit just before the crowd of 10,000 appeared for the evening's program of racing.

The remaining riders continued to adhere to the mad pace that has characterized the race since it started on Sunday night. The lead changed constantly and the riders, showing no signs of weariness, fought one another for advantageous positions.

The Italian-French combination of Paul Brocardo and Marcel Guimbretiere continued to win the fans' acclaim by their fine riding in the night sprints. They remained at the head of the procession continually. Brocardo and Gtuimbretiere were tied with the teams of McNamara-Lands and Spencer-Schaller in the standing.

LOYOLA QUINTET IS DEFEATED BY DRAKE, 30 TO 25

Bulldogs Take Early Lead and Hold It.

Although within striking distance several times in the closing minutes of play, Loyola was unable to overcome the five point lead which Drake acquired in the first half. Loyola took an 8 to 4 lead in the first five minutes but Drake took an 11 to 8 lead midway in the period. The visitors increased this margin to 17 to 12 at the intermission.

Loyola was held without a field goal for the first ten minutes of the second half, while the Bulldogs built up a 22 to 16 lead. Schuessler and Hogan were the only Loyolans to score from the field in this period.

56 ROADS REPORT 190 PCT. RISE IN OPERATING NET

January Witnesses Sharp Improvement.

The first 56 railroads to report January earnings had net operating income of $20,639,000, compared with $7,110,000 in the same month a year ago, an increase of 190 per cent. In January, 1932, the same roads reported net operating income of only $6,708,000.

In December, 1933, the roads reported $28,972,000, an increase of nearly 19 per cent over the $24,411,000 reported in the same month in 1932.

Pennsy Reports Gain.

The Pennsylvania railroad reported yesterday that its January net operating income was $4,667,321, compared with $3,517,359 in January, 1933. Gross stood at $27,221,778, compared with $24,242,155 last year.

The New York Central reported that its January net operating income was $2,454,237, as compared with $1,455,828 for the like month of 1933. Gross last month totaled $24,284,542, compared with $24,978,923 in January, 1933.

The Chicago Great Western reported a deficit for January of $10,702, compared with a deficit of $107,305 last January.

Union Pacific Has Sharp Gain.

Net operating income of the Union Pacific for January amounted to $935,084, compared with $176,701 in January, 1933. Gross for the month stood at $9,056,262, compared with $7,167,484 for January, 1933.

Net income of the Burlington for January amounted to $205,137, after charges and taxes, compared with a net loss of $507,282 in January, 1933. January gross stood at $6,214,147, compared with $5,245,152 in the same month last year.

Wrigley Reports Profit Rises to $3.76 a Share on Common

The William Wrigley Jr. company made a slightly larger profit in 1933 than it did in the preceding year, Philip K. Wrigley, president, reported yesterday to stockholders. The company earned $7,528,678 net profit, the report showed, equivalent to $3.76 a share on the 2,000,000 shares of capital stock outstanding. In 1932 the company earned $7,095,667, or $3.55 a share.

The company ended the year with quick assets, $40,125,871, as compared with total current liabilities of $3,499,553. The current assets included cash of $9,903,543 and marketable securities carried at $5,428,437. The latter had a market value at the end of the year of $2,763,899.

Bond Holdings Large.

These securities were exclusive of bonds, which were carried at $11,466,136 in the balance sheet. These bonds had a market value of $10,683,416 at the end of the year. At the close of the preceding year the company reported current assets of $39,335,051 and current liabilities of $3,201,173.

Net income for the year, Mr. Wrigley pointed out, was $1,561,726 in excess of regular dividends paid. Out of this surplus profit the company authorized the payment of a "recovery" dividend of 50 cents a share, which will be distributed March 16. The remaining excess was transferred to surplus account. Other surplus credits were $30,732 profit on its own stock and restoration of a reserve of $370,722 which had been previously taken from surplus.

Calls Results Gratifying.

"We feel that we have enjoyed a full measure of benefit from the improvement in general business conditions during the last half of 1933, and the results of the current year to date have been most gratifying," Mr. Wrigley told shareholders. "We have also every reason to believe that 1934, with continued application of sound sales methods, will be a year of further improvement and greater expansion to your company."

The company's fourth quarter profit was $1,579,236, a separate report showed. This compared with $2,055,614 in the September quarter.

ILLINOIS PLANS FREIGHT TRAIN OPERATION QUIZ

Acting on a resolution passed by the Illinois legislature on May 15, 1931, the Illinois commerce commission yesterday decided to start an investigation into certain phases of freight train operation throughout Illinois. The commission set March 9 as the date on which taking of testimony is to be started.

Involved in the investigation are the following points: Operation of freight trains one half mile or more in length, cabooses as they relate to the health or safety of railroad employés, and the number of persons assigned to locomotives operating without cars.

J. C. James, attorney for the railroads, asserted that reforms demanded would mean added expenses of $200,000,000 annually to the roads. His request for a continuance to allow the roads more time to secure data was refused. Dennis McCarthy is representing the various railroad brotherhoods.

BELL TELEPHONE IN OHIO SHOWS SMALLER INCOME

Cleveland, O., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—The Ohio Bell Telephone company had 531,426 telephones in service at the end of last year, a loss of 40,014 for the year. Net income last year after all charges was $5,467,995, of which $5,200,000 was paid in dividends at the rate of 4 per cent on the common stock.

In 1932 the net loss in telephones was 123,245. Net income for that year amounted to $6,150,464 and $6,175,000 was paid in dividends at a 5 per cent rate. All of the company's $130,000,000 common stock is owned by the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

SALE OF STOCK TO RFC VOTED BY CHASE BANK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 27.—Stockholders of the Chase National bank today approved the issuance of $50,000,000 in preferred stock, which will be sold to the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and a reduction in the par value of the common stock to $13.55 a share. This will reduce capitalization from $148,000,000 to $100,270,000.

With more than 5,400,000 shares of the 7,200,000 shares outstanding voting in favor of the plan, Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the bank, said that earnings are running at the rate of more than $20,000,000 a year. This, he said, would be ample to pay carrying charges and dividends on the preferred stock and the present dividend on the common stock, and would leave a substantial amount for undivided profits.

Mr. Aldrich said that while the government has made no specific promise not to interfere with the management of the Chase National bank when it becomes a large preferred stockholder, President Roosevelt's letter to Jesse Jones, chairman of the RFC, laid down the policy of "hands off."

He also said that $1,682,000 of the preferred stock has been purchased by bank stockholders and that the management of the bank intends to retire the preferred stock, if possible, within a period of three years.

OFFER 12% WAGE BOOST TO SETTLE OHIO AUTO STRIKE

Toledo, O., Feb. 27.—(AP)—A wage increase of 12 per cent for all employés, advancing the minimum wage of men from $16 to $18 a week, and women from $12.24 to $13.70, was offered tonight by Charles Dana, president of the Spicer Manufacturing corporation, as a means of settling the automotive workers strike here.

The offer was made at a meeting attended by representatives of employers and workers, along with Philip C. Nash, chairman of the sub-regional labor board, and H. D. Friel, mediator for the United States department of labor. Friel indicated he would attend a mass meeting of the Automotive parts workers and urge acceptance.

Thomas Ramsey, executive secretary of the Automotive Workers union, declined to comment until the proposal is studied by the union's executive committee. Dana's proposal embodies a reclassification of positions which will automatically give workers an average increase of 12 per cent, including the five per cent increase proposed previously.

STORE GROUP REVEALS SHARP INCREASES IN EMPLOYMENT, WAGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 27.—Business is on the upswing in dry goods department, and women's specialty stores! Since last year such shops in various parts of the country have added 90,952 additional employés, the store management group of the National Retail Dry Goods association reported today.

Compared with Jan. 16, 1933, an average boost of 16½ per cent in the number of employés was found in stores doing $200,000 a year or more, and 9.4 per cent in smaller stores. Payroll costs in these stores have climbed 14 per cent.

"In other words," said L. S. Bitner, chairman of the group, "these stores have put back to work 22,535 more employés than were dropped during the depression years." Group spokesmen went to Washington to show with figures that the stores have done their part in carrying out the recovery program of the National Recovery Act.

BUTTER UNCHANGED; EGGS AND POTATOES IRREGULAR

Futures were quiet and steady on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Butter closed unchanged and eggs ½c lower to ¼c higher. Potatoes were unchanged to 3c higher.

Butter reports favored buyers, weekly storage figures showing 10,000,000 pounds of butter moved out of storage last week in 35 cities. This was one of the heaviest movements on record and exceeded the year ago movement by 9,000,000 pounds.

Eggs were without feature. Receipts showed a gain of 13,000 cases over last year in Chicago and New York. Selling was restricted and the markets held within a narrow range.

Sales: Butter, 39 cars; eggs, 25 cars; potatoes, 9 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 13 cars; eggs, 2 cars. Prices:

FRANCE, BRITAIN NEGOTIATING TO END TRADE WAR

PARIS, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Negotiations to end the Franco-British trade war and establish a new French economic policy will begin in London within ten days, it was announced today. Lucien Lamoureux, minister of commerce, will head the delegation to London, which he said has "fair chances of success."

A British note today asked a trade treaty between the two countries to réplace those denounced by France on Feb. 13, opening the economic "war" between them. A flexible bargaining tariff will be the feature of France's new policy.

Within a few days Premier Gaston Doumergue is expected to have full powers to change tariffs, an authority similar to that recently granted him to make government economies by decree, without securing approval of parliament. Such authority was voted the government by the tariff committee of the chamber of deputies at the request of Lamoureux.

France and Spain, it was announced today, have reached a new commercial agreement. The accord has been initialed by representatives of the two governments and becomes effective after its ratification by the parliaments.

GOLD BOND O. K. BY BRITAIN FAILS TO COVER ITS OWN

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, told a questioner in the house of commons today that the recent decision of the house of lords, upholding the gold clause in the case of Belgian bonds, did not apply to United Kingdom gold bonds issued in New York.

"That matter," said Mr. Chamberlain, "is governed by United States law."

On Dec. 15 the house of lords in its high legal capacity upheld the right of British holders of bonds of the Societe Intercommunale Belge D'Electricite to receive capital and interest payments in gold pounds, rather than paper pounds, in accordance with a gold clause in the bonds. The London Times, commenting on the decision at the time, said:

"At present, when default is stalking naked and unashamed throughout the world, it is of the utmost importance that debtors should at least acknowledge their rightful obligations."

NATIONAL STEEL HEAD RAPS PLAN OF 30 HOUR WEEK

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 27. — (AP) — Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel corporation, tonight expressed opposition to the 30 hour week because he doubts that it "will enable the American workman to attain the standard of living which he wants."

"I think our efforts should be toward enabling people to buy more, to consume more, rather than to produce less," he said.

Weir declared he is a supported of the NRA as a temporary measure, but believes permanent future welfare depends upon the solution of these problems by industry itself and not by government regulation. The steel man, whose fight with the National Labor board over the election of employé representatives in his Weirton, W. Va., steel plant, has brought threats of court action, addressed the annual banquet of the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania.

COTTON TRADE IS ACTIVE; CLOSE SLIGHTLY HIGHER

A lower opening in cotton was taken advantage of by spectators to buy freely. The close was around the best prices of the day to a shade under. Futures in Chicago closed 7 points higher to 2 points net lower. New York was unchanged to 6 points higher on futures and 5 points up on spots, reaching 12.15 cents. New Orleans gained 5 points on spots, being 11.95 cents, while futures were unchanged to 8 points higher. Galveston and Houston gained 10 points at 12 cents.

Reports from Washington also say that the cotton pool's holdings of 56,400 bales of spot cotton would be converted into futures. Prices:

RETURN $737,802 OF STATE GAS TAX TO 1,200 TOWNS

Largest Sum, $396,294, Chicago's Share.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Approximately 1,200 Illinois municipalities are to get an average of $615 each as their share of motor fuel tax collections during January. Finance Director Ames today announced the basis of which the gasoline tax is to be distributed among the cities and villages under the law, effective this year, giving them a third of monthly collections.

During January $2,364,099 was received from the gas tax, of which $737,808 is being allocated to the cities, to be used for road building projects unless diverted to retirement of the $30,000,000 relief bond issue.

Chicago's Share Largest.

Chicago got the biggest sum, $396,294. The smallest, $5.52, went to Phillipstown, White county, with a population of 47. The new law, part of the Hunter road program, provides that the municipalities are to get their allotments in proportion to their population. Motor fuel funds for the following months will be alloted on the same proportion.

"The per capita allotment in January," Ames announced, "is $0.1173705268. More than $1,000 each was given 66 cities. On the basis of the January allotment and considering that more motor fuel is used during the summer months than in winter the municipalities can look forward to receiving approximately $9,000,000 during the year or more as their share of the gasoline tax. Counties will receive a like amount and the state the remaining third."

Detail Allotments.

January allotments included: Aurora, $5,468; Berwyn, $5,520; Bloomington, $3,630; Blue Island, $1,940; Brookfield, 1,178; Calumet City, 1,443; Champaign, $2,388; Chicago Heights, $2,620; Cicero, $7,817; Danville, $4,315; Decatur, $6,750; Des Plaines, $1,033; Downers Grove, $1,050; East St. Louis, $8,726; Elgin, $4,217; Elmhurst, $1,649; Elmwood Park, $1,322; Evanston, $7,434.

Forest Park, $1,708; Freeport, $2,587; Galesburg, $3,384; Harvey, $1,922; Highland Park, $1,432; Joliet, $5,046; Kankakee, $2,420; Kewanee, $2,006; La Grange, $1,186; Maywood, 3,032; Moline, $3,784; Oak Park, $7,510; Ottawa, $1,772; Park Ridge, $1,223; Peoria, $12,320; Quincy, $4,606; River Forest, $1,036; Rockford, $10,078; Rock Island, $4,455; Springfield, $8,435; Spring Sterling, $1,175; Streator, $1,729; Urbana, $1,533; Waukegan, $3,932; Wilmette, $1,788, and Winnetka, $1,428.

PONDER FEDERAL CREDIT BANKS TO HELP INDUSTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—The administration will reach a decision later in the week as to what recommendations, if any, will be made to congress relative to the establishment of intermediate credit banks in the twelve federal reserve districts for the extension of loans to business and industry. In official quarters today it was stated that President Roosevelt so far has not made up his mind finally as to what will be proposed.

Gov. Eugene R. Black of the federal reserve board, is making a study of the legislative situation in connection with the credit banks. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau is cooperating with Mr. Black in the matter. It was stated that the plan as now shaping up was to supplement credit extension by the commercial banks and that there was no thought of taking over the banking authority.

Just what method of operation would be proposed was not disclosed. Recently Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the board of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, indicated that he believed loans of not to exceed three years' maturity should be authorized. Loans to small industries are chiefly involved, it is believed.

SIX RAILWAYS SHOW LOADINGS ABOVE YEAR AGO

The Rock Island yesterday reported that its car loadings for the week ended Feb. 24 totaled 18,660, compared with 16,622 over the like week of last year—an increase of 12.3 per cent. Loadings in the preceding week of this year totaled 19,829.

Cars handled by the Wabash totaled 12,045, compared with 10,722 in the like week of 1933. Southern Pacific loadings totaled 17,444 cars, compared with 13,780 in the like week of 1933 and 18,765 a week ago.

Nickel Plate loadings totaled 12,272 cars, compared with 12,470 in the preceding week and 9,711 a year ago. The Missouri Pacific handled 29,423 cars last week, compared with 23,329 a year ago.

Loadings of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy were 19,906 cars, against 20,073 the week before and 16,231 a year ago.

PENNSY BEATS MELLON COAL FIRM'S PLAN FOR RAIL-BARGE OPERATION

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Defeated in numerous court battles to prevent the Mellon controled Pittsburgh Coal company from piecing together a private railroad from the Ohio river to Youngstown, the Pennsylvania railroad made a last stand at Little Beaver creek near here and won.

Judge Reader, sitting in Common Pleas court of Beaver county, has handed down decision that the Pittsburgh Coal company can run its coal barges on Little Beaver creek but it cannot tamper with the bed of the stream. The creek will not be of much use to the coal company unless it can dredge the bottom.

Pittsburgh Coal had intended to construct a large rail-river terminal where coal from its mines in the Pittsburgh area could be unloaded from barges and shipped over the private railroad into the Youngstown industrial area. Its attorneys contended that the mouth of the Little Beaver was navigable and that dredging should be permitted. The Pennsylvania's action was started Dec. 31, 1932. A temporary injunction was granted soon afterward and now is made permanent.

More than five years ago the Pittsburgh Coal company began buying up short rail lines in Ohio and connecting them for the project. Judge Reader's decision practically ruins the plans for an independent rail-river line from the Ohio river to Youngstown.

BOND AND SHARE EARNS 43.7C ON COMMON STOCK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 27.—Net income of Electric Bond and Share company for 1933 amounted to $10,735,6268, equal after preferred dividends to 43.7 cents a share on 5,267,147 common shares, comparing with $13,566,666, or 98.9 cents a share in 1932. Surplus after preferred dividends was $2,301,338 in 1933, comparing with surplus of $3,624,450 after preferred and common stock dividends in 1932.

Gross income was $14,720,672, including stock dividends of $375,772, against $18,896,884, including $452,502 stock dividends in 1932. Expenses and taxes were $3,985,404, compared with $5,330,218 in 1932. Expenses other than taxes were reduced $1,506,900, or 30 per cent during the year.

Total surplus at the end of 1933 was $370,436,558, comparing with $369,986,092 a year before. Current assets amounted to $43,994,128, against $46,521,575. Cash totaled $38,445,439, comparing with $41,630,369, and U. S. government, municipal and other short term securities were $4,496,802, against $3,688,591. Current liabilities were $2,559,025, against $4,591,930.

URGES LOWERING AUTO RAIL RATE TO OCEAN BASIS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—To permit transcontinental railroads to meet Panama canal competition on passenger automobiles, an interstate commerce commission examiner recommended today that the commission authorize a reduction in freight rates from Detroit and other producing centers to California seaports. He proposed, however, that the commission refuse to authorize lower rates on trucks.

The new rates would be lower than those to intermediate points. They would be $4.30 per 100 pounds from Buffalo and Cleveland, $3.82 from Detroit and nearby points, and $3.82 from all points west of Detroit and nearby points. Intermediate rates would be made by adding to the interstate rate to the terminal nearest the destination point 75 per cent of the local rate from the terminal to the destination.

J. Edgar Smith, the examiner, said large numbers of automobiles are shipped from Detroit and other producing points to Baltimore and other north Atlantic ports and taken to the west coast by water at a rate of $3.82 per 100 pounds.

CRUCIBLE STEEL LOSS $354,749; TENTH OF 1932

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The pamphlet report of the Crucible Steel company for 1933 shows net loss of $354,749, compared with net loss of $3,613,615 in 1932. In the last six months of the year, the company showed profit of $670,022 contrasted with a loss of $1,024,772 in the first six months.

H. S. Wilkinson, chairman of the board, stated in a letter to stockholders, that the company was in "excellent" financial condition, and if the increase in business continued during 1934 the company would be in a position to look forward to making payments on the accumulated dividends due on the preferred stock.

The company's surplus account increased $383,350 during the year, due to an increase in the value of securities on hand and profit realized from the sale of securities.

Bankers Find Profit Now Too Small.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 27.—American purchases of gold at London for shipment here ceased today for the first time since the United States restored the gold standard and established a price of $35 an ounce for gold. The cessation of gold purchases came about because the prices of foreign exchanges had advanced to a point where the margin of profit was too small to induce banks to run the risks involved in shipments, particularly the risks of delay in receiving payment from the assay office here.

The result, however, was an immediate reaction in the foreign exchange rates, once the supporting effects of purchases of foreign currencies for purposes of gold transactions was removed. It was expected, accordingly, that the gold movement would quickly be resumed, although possibly at a somewhat slower pace than the record-breaking movement of this month.

Profit on Gold Imports Drops.

The London gold price was equal to $34.71 an ounce today. After allowing for shipping and insurance charges of about 24 cents an ounce, the cost of gold to American banks was estimated at $34.95 an ounce, or only 5 cents less than the official buying price here. This narrow margin of profit apparently was considered insufficient to outweigh the risks of gold imports and, as a consequence, none of the £475,000 gold (roughly $2,375,000) available in the London market was taken for American account.

The Bank of France's selling price for gold also was equal to $34.71 an ounce. Shipping and insurance and other charges from France were calculated at about 22½ cents an ounce, bringing the total cost to American banks there up to about $34.93½.

Franc and Pound Decline.

The responsiveness of the foreign exchanges to a stoppage in gold purchases was quickly disclosed. The pound sterling, which had advanced to $5.08¾, dropped to $5.06⅞ and closed at $5.06½, off 2 cents net. The franc, after having sold at 6.58⅛ cents, fell to 6.56½ cents and closed at 6.57½ cents, off ½ point. In terms of the franc, the value of the dollar on the old gold basis was 59.58 cents, compared with 59.54 cents yesterday.

Other exchanges were irregular, but the majority were somewhat cheaper in terms of the dollar. The Canadian dollar fell to 99.31¼ cents. Dutch florins were off to 67.15 cents, and Swiss francs were down to 32.25 cents.

Meanwhile another $25,000,000 of gold reached here today on two ships, the Scythia and the American Merchant, and about $35,000,000 more is due tomorrow on the Olympic, originally scheduled to arrive today.

U. S. Gold Stock Rises.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—United States gold holdings have climbed $322,000,000 during February to a record figure of $7,340,318,902.

Accompanying the increase in gold assets has been a boost in the dollar profit on devaluation. On Feb. 1 the dollar profit was $2,805,512,000. On Feb. 24, the latest day for which figures were available, the profit stood at $2,807,913,000. The increase of $200,000,000 in the last four days represented final payments on large shipments from abroad between Feb. 10 and Feb. 20.

RUMOR ITALY SELLS FRANCS.

ROME, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The Bank of Italy is disposing of its holdings in French francs, totaling about 200,000,000 [approximately $13,200,000], it was reported in banking circles today. In February and March of 1933, it was pointed out, the bank disposed of large holdings of dollars shortly before the United States went off the gold standard. Thus it lost nothing in the slide of the American currency.

Guido Jung, minister of finance, issued a statement in which he said "It is the determined wish of the government to maintain the lira anchored to the gold standard." His statement followed an attack on the lira in the foreign exchange markets of London and Paris.

Governor of Kansas Asks Mortgage Moratorium

Topeka, Kas., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon tonight urged a year's adoption of the Minnesota mortgage moratorium plan as a step toward relieving the acute mortgage situation in Kansas. He said adoption of the Minnesota law for a year would give federal loan agencies ample time to grant relief in all meritorious cases. The Kansas legislature is scheduled to convene in special session in less than two days to consider enactment of a new moratorium law.

Plan Millions Credit to Cuba to Buy Silver

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—A substantial amount of silver will be sold on credit soon to the Cuban government under plans now being drawn up to establish an export bank similar to the Export-Import bank for promoting trade with the soviet union, it was learned today. A figure somewhat in excess of $20,000,000 has been mentioned in recent meetings of foreign trade advisers as the amount of the silver sale contemplated, but officials today said that the magnitude of the transaction was undecided as yet.

While the Cuban export bank will be designed for the promotion of general export trade, the only deal now in sight is the silver purchase, it was said tonight. The Cuban government, whose cash position is poor, has desired, since last August, to increase the circulation of silver in the island.

Aid for New Government.

The bulk purchase now anticipated will serve, Cuban experts here thought, to ease the Mendieta government's immediate difficulties about paying salaries and other current obligations.

Plans for the formation of the Cuban export institution are still in the hands of the state department. The details of organization are in charge of Sumner Welles, assistant secretary of state and former ambassador to Cuba. Mr. Welles said tonight that he hoped to have the bank in existence by the end of the week.

He said that no intergovernmental loan was involved in the silver transaction. Any advances made by the proposed bank will be made to American silver producers, it was indicated, to enable them to extend the credit desired by the Cuban government. A delegation of Cuban financial experts is expected to arrive here within a few days, at the invitation of the state department, to discuss silver needs and other potentialities of increased trade with this country.

Plan Third Institution.

Meanwhile George N. Peek, who will head the two new additional banks when established, was working on the organization of that for Cuba. A third institution will be set up for dealing with countries other than Cuba and Russia, but Mr. Peek was indefinite as to the time it would be established.

Prevailing restrictions on foreign exchange, which he held to be as much responsible as high tariffs for the loss of world trade, will be one of the first problems attacked by Mr. Peek through the banking institutions he will head. It was learned that while separate books will be kept for each of the three banks they will have a common physical organization and staff.

Due to the general restriction or prohibition of exporting capital from the chief trading nations, the movement of goods ordinarily represented by this medium had been seriously curtailed, said Mr. Peek. He asserted it was his intention to negotiate to the end that these restrictions might be reduced.

CHICAGO CORP. ELECTS THREE NEW DIRECTORS

Three new directors were elected at the annual meeting of the Chicago corporation, held yesterday. They include Floyd B. Odlum, president of the Atlas corporation; C. R. Messinger, president and chairman of the board of the Oliver Farm Equipment company, and James O. McKinsey of James O. McKinsey & Co., public accountants.

Minority stockholders expressed some objection to the election of Mr. Odlum, saying that his connection with the Atlas corporation might work against the best interests of the Chicago corporation. Replying to this Charles F. Glore, president of the Chicago corporation, said it was the opinion of the executive committee that the interests of the company would be served by Mr. Odlum's election.

It was disclosed at the meeting that the Atlas corporation now owns 481,012 shares of common stock of the Chicago corporation.

Standard Brands Earns $1.15 a Share on Common

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 27.—Operating results of Standard Brands, Inc., in 1933 improved slightly over 1932, according to the annual report issued today. Net income after all charges, was $15,048,795, compared with $15,001,491 the year before. The earnings in 1933, after preferred dividends, were equivalent to $1.15 a share on 12,645,374 common shares, compared with $1.14 a share on 12,575,866 common shares in 1932.

TELLS SENATE MOVE TO MODIFY STOCK CONTROL

Aid of RFC Reveals Proposals Weighed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—Important amendatory action, involving the Fletcher-Rayburn stock exchange regulation bill, will probably be taken by the senate banking and currency committee before the bill is reported to the floor of the senate for final action.

This was indicated today by Thomas G. Corcoran, counsel for the Reconstruction Finance corporation, one of the authors of the bill, who as a witness revealed, with the sanction of the committee, the probable changes.

While the senate group was speeding up the hearings in order to bring the legislation before the senate in the next ten days or two weeks, the house committee on interstate commerce, which has jurisdiction over legislation in the house, heard Michael J. O'Brien, president of the Chicago exchange; Charles A. Collins, president of the Boston exchange, and G. Hermann Kinnicott, representing eighteen New York investment houses.

Ask Supervision, Not Regulation.

Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Kinnicott asked in effect for federal supervision rather than regulation. Mr. O'Brien explained to the committee how the Chicago stock exchange has moved to create for itself what it regards as ironclad regulations to protect the investor and the brokers.

The amendments which the senate committee has under consideration include modification of the marginal provisions insofar as they affect the banks; exclusion of government bonds from the category of securities detailed in the bill as now written, and amendment of the sections prohibiting fictitious transactions through the use of the mails or other means of interstate commerce to include unlisted as well as listed securities.

Bar Tipster Sheets.

Other amendments under consideration make "tipster sheets" an illegal means of disseminating information as to any security registered on a stock exchange, give exchange membership privileges to odd lot dealers, clarify the provisions setting up a uniform system of accounting for corporations and make periodical audit of the books of such corporations mandatory. Objections to the rigidity of the option provisions has also been voiced by the New York Stock exchange and those objections, it was stated, will be given consideration by the committee.

Mr. Corcoran, at the request of the committee, submitted a statement showing how the much debated marginal provisions of the bill will operate in the event those provisions are retained and the bill is enacted. He admitted that under the bill, as it now stands, the borrowing maximum of a $1,000 bond which is at par today, but which in the last three years reached a low of $800, would be governed by the low of $800 and not the current par value.

"On such a bond," he explained, "the borrower can get 80 per cent of $800, or $640, but if he borrows on the current price of $1,000 he can only get $400 or 40 per cent. The proposed law puts a very definite premium on securities which have maintained stability over a period of three years, although such a situation as pictured in the case of the $1,000 bond is possible."

O'Brien Warns of Extremes.

Mr. O'Brien warned the house interstate commerce committee against "going to extremes" in its effort to correct speculative abuses by legislation.

"Unscrupulous persons use the exchanges just as they use every other human agency to attain their ends," Mr. O'Brien declared. "We welcome whatever assistance congress can give us to eliminate unfair practices. All that we ask is that in helping us to correct our abuses, you do not go to such extremes that you put us out of business. "I would emphasize the need to keep our securities exchanges free to function as markets that insure a reasonable degree of liquidity for investments."

"Ten Simple Principles."

As an evidence of the Chicago exchange's desire to regulate itself, Mr. O'Brien outlined the "ten simple principles" which have already been adopted. Most important of these were:

"Clear and informative financial statements, certified by independent public accountants before listing.

"Securities will not be listed coincident with a public offering. Applications will only be considered when the company demonstrates that the securities to be listed are sufficiently distributed to the public to assure a free and open market.

"Applicant companies shall agree to mail to the exchange and to their stockholders with the notice of the annual meeting a clear, complete, and informative report of the operations for the preceding fiscal year, certified by independent public accountants.

"The Chicago Stock Exchange favors a policy of full publicity; after a security has been listed, the public and the press will be given access to listing applications and to reports filed with the exchange."

E. F. WILSON IS NAMED PACKERS' PRESIDENT TO SUCCEED FATHER

E. F. WILSON. [Blank & Stoller Photo.]

The elder Mr. Wilson had been president since 1916. He was president of Morris & Co. before taking over the concern which now bears his name. The younger Mr. Wilson is a graduate of Princeton university and has served in all departments of the packing company.

It was stated that Mr. Wilson senior will not relinquish any of his duties under the change, but will continue as an active executive. He was the first president of the Institute of American Meat Packers, which he was largely responsible for organizing.

Directors of the company yesterday also declared a dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock. A similar disbursement was authorized three months ago. Dividend arrearages on the issue amount to $26.25 a share.

SEVERAL FIRMS TAKE FAVORABLE DIVIDEND ACTION

Cheering news for stockholders was provided by directors of several corporations yesterday who declared extra dividends, ordered payments on arrearages or increased rates.

United Carr Fastener corporation approved a disbursement of 15 cents a share, against 10 cents paid Jan. 15 last. Imperial Tobacco company of Canada, Ltd., authorized an extra of 17½ cents on common stock. Virginia Fire and Marine Insurance company declared 75 cents a share on common, the first distribution since January, 1932, while Raphael Weill & Co., resumed disbursements on common after a lapse since February 1932, with a declaration of $3 a common share.

Two concerns authorized dividends to apply on accumulations. They were the Lehigh Portland Cement company which declared 87½ cents on preferred, reducing arrearage to $5.25, and the Meyer-Blanke company, which cut accumulations to $3.50 by declaring $1.75 on preferred. Unfavorable action appeared from only one source. Consolidated Car Heating Company, Inc., omitted its common stock dividend now due.

Herrin Coal Area Sets New Daily Shipment Record

Herrin, Ill., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—The Herrin coal area broke all daily shipping records yesterday when 1,611 cars of coal were shipped. Of the total 689 were carried on the Burlington, 515 on the Missouri Pacific, and 407 on the Illinois Central. For the week ending yesterday 6,405 cars were shipped. At Carbondale it was announced that shipments on the St. Louis division of the Illinois Central had totaled 956 cars in the last 24 hours, the heaviest in six years.

Suspend Two Brokers for Butter Deal

Two members of the Chicago Mercantile exchange have been suspended as an outgrowth of charges that the butter prices were being manipulated.

W. J. Cline, indentified with the Chicago office of the Borden companies, was given a 30 day suspension. Samuel A. Sugar, associated with the brokerage firm of John F. Clark & Co., was given a 60 day suspension. The official announcement of the exchange gave no explanation of the grounds for the suspensions. L. D. Schreiber, president, explained, however, that the action was the outgrowth of a transaction in which Cline participated on Jan. 27.

Bought Butter for Government.

Cline's company had a contract to supply the government with 400,000 pounds of butter weekly for a ten week period, or a total of 4,000,000 pounds. The price received by his company from the government was the average of the market price for the week.

A trader offering a small quantity of spot butter to Cline was asking a price of 20¾ cents a pound. Cline was purchasing all the butter coming into the market at 21 cents a pound and told the seller that he would pay the higher price. The transaction was completed at that figure.

Held Infraction of Rules.

Mr. Schreiber declared that the transaction was technical manipulation, but constituted an infraction of the rules. Other traders explained that the practice is common and that Cline was merely trying to save the other trader from making a mistake through ignorance.

Sugar's suspension was based on the construction he placed on the transaction and the resulting publicity, which was detrimental to the exchange, Mr. Schreiber said. He was said to have inspired an article in a Chicago newspaper which by implication gave the impression that the exchange was countenancing manipulation. Sugar indicated that he would appeal the suspension order.

FEDERAL CROP LOANS DOUBLE COLLECTIONS; EXCESS 122 MILLIONS

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Farm administration payments for reducing production were disclosed today to have exceeded by $122,431,666 collections from processing, import and compensating taxes. The government had collected $102,522,635 up to Jan. 31 from such levies but had dispersed $224,954,301 in rental and benefit payments to wheat, cotton, tobacco and corn-hog farmers.

The cotton program had paid $112,129,617 to 1,028,088 farmers in rental and benefit payments, and $35,316,688 in profits on options on government-held cotton. It had collected $39,194,013 from the taxes on cotton and competing paper and jute. In the wheat program the government collected $48,773,563 and paid out only $45,318,720 to 531,967 farmers. Collections in the tobacco campaign were $5,506,623 while payments of $1,546,175 were made to 30,644 southern farmers. A total of $9,048,426 was collected on corn and hogs and $30,643,101 paid out in the emergency pig-buying campaign.

Brown, Ranney Join Board of Peoples Gas

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Edward E. Brown, president of the First National bank, and George A. Ranney were added to the board of directors of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company yesterday at the annual meeting of stockholders. Mr. Brown succeeds the late Melvin A. Traylor and Mr. Ranney, vice chairman of the company, replaces President George F. Mitchell, who retires from the board.

About 250 stockholders attended the meeting, which was held in the basement of the Peoples Gas building at 122 South Michigan avenue. Only 3,547 shares of the company's stock, however, were represented in person at the meeting. Last year, when the wave of public indignation against Samuel Insull was at its peak, more than three times that amount of stock was held by persons at the meeting.

Insull Pension Discontinued.

The critical questioning to which the management was subjected at last year's meeting was entirely lacking yesterday. Only one question was addressed to Chairman James Simpson. It concerned the pension formerly paid to Samuel Insull. Mr. Simpson stated that all payments to Insull were discontinued at the close of 1933.

At the close of the meeting a stockholder moved a vote of thanks to the management for "putting the company back on its feet." The resolution was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Mr. Simpson reviewed the operations of the company in 1933 at some length and explained the events leading up to the omission of dividends. The prospects for 1934 are distinctly better than a year ago, he told stockholders.

"You may be assured," he said, "that your directors will resume dividends as soon as they feel conditions justify doing so."

Investments Are Shown.

A schedule of the investments in and advances to affiliated companies was handed to stockholders at the meeting. Nearly 52 per cent of the total of such investments, carried on the books at $19,402,150, is represented by natural gas holdings. The company owns $14,424,000 first mortgage pipe line and collateral 6 per cent bonds of the Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America and 399,435 shares of its capital stock, which is carried at $692,129. Both figures represent cost prices. The pipeline company transports gas from the Texas fields and is jointly owned by the Peoples Gas company and other large utility interests.

The regular "organization" meetings of the three big Chicago utilities are expected to be held today and tomorrow, when officers will be chosen.

Equitable Trust to Pay 5 Per Cent to Depositors

State Auditor Barrett has authorized a disbursement of 5 per cent, amounting to $25,000, to depositors of the Equitable Trust company. This is the initial payment of this bank.

STOCKHOLDERS JEER INSULL, 'L' OFFICIALS

March on Mayor Asking 'Justice.'

Minority stockholders of the Chicago Rapid Transit company—the elevated lines—raised an uproar at the annual meeting of the company held yesterday in the Edison building, and at its conclusion a group of them headed by Patrick J. Quinn, a retired policeman, marched to the office of Mayor Kelly to demand "justice." The mayor addressed the group briefly, saying he would see what could be done.

M. J. O'BRIEN. [Moffett-Russell Photo.]

Some 300 stockholders jammed the room in which the meeting was held and a considerable number was unable to gain admittance. Mention of the name Samuel Insull aroused the shouts and jeers of a number of stockholders during questioning of Bernard J. Fallon, vice president in charge of operations, who presided at the session.

Heckling stockholders of both sexes blamed Insull for their losses and demanded why any one bearing the Insull stamp was allowed to remain in the management of the company. Mr. Fallon replied that he and other officers had held responsible positions with the company long before Insull was connected with it.

Traffic Down 1.7 Per Cent.

Fallon told how traffic on the elevated lines had declined to 124,855,354 passengers in 1933—a decrease of 1.7 per cent as compared with 1932—and he attributed the decline to the general effects of the depression which has reduced the number of riders. Operations of the company resulted in a deficit of $2,695,851 for the year. Earnings available for fixed charges, etc., of $2,695,851 were $581,399, compared with $118,283 available for interest charges in 1932.

The annual report of Receivers A. A. Sprague and Britton I. Budd disclosed that gross revenues for 1933 totaled $13,076,801, compared with $13,656,312 in 1932. Operating expenses, taxes, rentals, etc., for 1933 stood at $12,495,402, compared with $13,538,078 in 1932. Current assets as of Dec. 31, 1933, stood at $995,481, compared with current and accrued liabilities of $4,642,270.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 27.—Bond prices stiffened slightly on the Stock Exchange today, although the volume of trading was light, amounting to only $12,793,000. A number of domestic corporation bonds rallied a point or two, while in the case of leading foreign loans prices were a shade lower on the average.

The hesitancy of the market was attributed to the familiar influences of recent sessions which included sporadic labor troubles, a mild lag in business due to unusual weather conditions and the thought that further curtailment of Civil Works administration forces may affect earnings of some corporations.

Federal Issues Irregular.

United States government bonds finished up 9-32 to down 3-32 point. Followers of this department seemingly were waiting for treasury indications as to March financing.

Most of the domestic industrial, railroad and utility issues which were at all active today closed higher. On the average the industrial issues made the best showing. The gains, however, failed to offset the losses of the previous day. Western Pacific first 5s lost 3¾ points on a relatively heavy turnover following announcement that the company had requested bondholders to agree to the deferment of interest payments for three years in order to avoid a reorganization.

Foreign Liens Fluctuate.

Prices in the foreign bond group generally fluctuated within narrow limits. French government and municipal loans, kingdom of Belgium and German government issues were slightly higher on the day, while the obligations of the United Kingdom, kingdom of Denmark, Switzerland, and Norway were slightly easier. Latin American loans were irregularly higher in quiet dealings.

On the curb exchange, domestic bond prices drifted slightly higher with recoveries amounting to a point or two. Foreign loans exhibited fair strength, notably German issues which have been under pressure recently.

Continental Steel.

Investors' Guide: I would very much appreciate receiving information on Continental Steel stock.—P. H.

Answer: Continental Steel corporation is a 12 million dollar organization engaged in production of steel. Some of its principal products are fencing, wire, nails, rivets, and gates. About half of output is turned out in semi-finished form as sheets, which are sold to manufacturers of automobile bodies, refrigerators, furnaces, etc. Its largest market is in the middle west.

Net income for the six months to Dec. 31, 1933, was $19,000. This was one-fifth of preferred dividend requirements and compared with loss of $303,000 for the corresponding 1932 period. Sales for the year ended June 30, 1933, totaled $5,565,000 and loss was $60,000.

Yr. ended Dec. 31.	Sales.	Net loss.	Loss per com. shr.
1931	$ 8,163,000	$ 407,000	$3.45
1930	11,857,000	38,000	1.39
1929	16,720,000	*932,000	*4.01
1928	15,777,000	*1,040,000	*4.80

On Dec. 31, 1933, current assets totaled $4,413,000 and current liabilities were $985,000. Cash was only $405,000, against $1,087,000 the year before; notes payable were $400,000, and funded debt due 1934 amounted to $101,000.

Excluding 1934 maturities, funded debt was $1,147,000. There were outstanding 28,620 shares of 7 per cent $100 par cumulative preferred and 175,648 shares of no par common. Nothing has been paid on the preferred since July 1, 1931.

The preferred is speculative and the common more so.

Seattle Gas.

Investors' Guide: What can you tell me about Seattle Lighting 5s, due 1949?—A. O. I.

Answer: Seattle Gas company [formerly Seattle Lighting company] is an operating company, part of the Central Public Utility system. It furnishes gas to Seattle, Wash., and vicinity.

Gross revenues reached their peak in 1930 and have since showed a downward trend. Gross for the 12 months to Nov. 30, 1933, was $1,790,000. Only 89 per cent of charges, before property retirement reserves, was earned. For the preceding 12 months gross was $2,039,000 and charges, on the same basis, were covered 1.05 times.

Only 99 per cent of charges was earned in 1932. They were covered 1.41 times in 1931 and 1.73 times in 1930.

On Feb. 1, 1936, $1,307,000 of debentures will mature. The $8,828,000 5s, due 1949, are secured by a first mortgage on the company's properties, subject to a prior lien of $358,000. They are more a speculation than an investment.

STOCKS PUT ON A RALLY; SILVER ISSUES IN LEAD

Small Volume Is Evidence of Traders' Caution.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 27.—Moderate rallying tendencies developed in the stock market today after three successive sessions of declining prices. Dealing continued on a small scale, however, indicating that traders were determined to proceed cautiously pending a clearer view of the strike situation in the automobile industry, the progress of the exchange regulation bill, the trend of the NRA conference at the capital and other problems cloying the market foreground. Volume was 1,262,000 shares.

The day's price improvements seemed attributable mainly to oversold conditions within the market itself rather than to any news influences from without. Reduction of duty on silver by India and Canadian ratification of the London agreement were made the occasion for some buying in the white metals group.

Auto Output Encouraging.

Figures showing a gain in automobile production last week, carrying output to the highest level for the period since 1930, tended to offset in some measure word from Toledo and other automotive centers indicating a possible spread of the labor troubles. Otherwise, the day's grist brought nothing of particular importance to either side of the market.

Of the different groups the silver shares made the best net showing, due in some degree to the India tariff action and the Canadian pact indorsement. U. S. Smelting was the leader of the division and moved up nearly three points on a rush of late buying orders. American Smelting rose about a point, while Cerro De Pasco and other issues improved fractionally. Most of the other mining shares looked better.

Farm Implements Improve.

Farm implement stocks improved with wheat prices. J. I. Case rose nearly 2 points but eased off fractionally from its high before the closing gong.

Aviation shares were firmer but the group was content to hold its own until more light is forthcoming on the reported plans at Washington to restore air mail service to private companies.

The majority of industrial leaders stiffened as the session neared its close. U. S. Steel rose over a point at its best but slipped back at the last. American Can and Westinghouse looked up a bit but finished below their best levels. Montgomery Ward was churned about in large volume and edged ahead fractionally.

URGE BILL TO BAR INJUNCTIONS IN UTILITY CASES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Support of state regulatory bodies for the Johnson bill to prohibit United States district courts from granting injunctions to public utility companies and suspending rates fixed by state commissions was given today before the house judiciary committee.

Senator Johnson [Rep., Cal.], author of the measure, told the committee he wanted to end long drawn out litigation resulting when utilities, under present law, obtain injunctions from federal courts against state-set rates on grounds they are confiscatory and in violation of the Fourteenth amendment.

John E. Benton, general solicitor of the National Association of Public Utility Commissioners, and Alvin Riese, general counsel of the Wisconsin public service commission, supported the measure. Hugh S. McGill, president of the New American Federal Utility Investors, Chicago, said it was essential to the investors that the utilities be treated as fairly as consumers.

COMMONWEALTH AND SOUTHERN JANUARY NET UP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 27.—Gross earnings of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation and subsidiaries registered a substantial rise during January compared with the corresponding month last year, with a total of $9,785,727 reported, against $9,518,727 in January, 1933. There was a balance available for dividends of $984,292 after operating expenses, taxes, and other charges, against $997,112 a year earlier.

Gross earnings for the twelve months ended Jan. 31 underwent a sizeable decline, totaling $109,310,012, against $113,202,670 for the preceding year. A balance remained for dividends of $8,484,002, equivalent to $5.65 a share on the outstanding $6 preferred stock, which compared with $12,386,441, or $8.26, for the previous twelve months.

The regular $1.50 a share quarterly dividend was declared on the $6 preferred stock today, payable April 2 to stock of record March 9.

U. S. Leather Has $10,219 Profit for Fiscal Quarter

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—United States Leather company reports net income of $10,219 for the quarter ended Jan. 31. No comparison is available because the company recently changed its fiscal year to end Oct. 31 instead of Dec. 31.

PACKERS ATTAIN IMPROVEMENT ON MANY FRONTS

Output, Sales, Prices and Wages Increase.

Production, sales, prices, and wage payments all improved last month in American meat packing, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

Aggregate value of sales billed to domestic and foreign customers expanded to the greatest point since last October, rising 9½ per cent above December, and 31 above January, 1933.

Price Level Up Slightly.

Although the sales tonnage offered was extraordinarily large, demand was strong enough to raise slightly the general price level of packing house commodities. Furthermore, inventories were increased by less than the usual amount, though they still exceeded those of Feb. 1, 1933, by nearly 330 million pounds.

Wage payments gained 4½ per cent over last December, and hours worked 10 per cent. On the other hand, the number of employés fell fractionally.

In the December-January period shipments for export fell off, according to the bank. Restrictions in quotas raised prices of American meats in British markets, but lard sold at a discount, from a Chicago parity, though on the continent it was in excess of the parity.

Cheese Sales Above Output.

Sales tended to surpass current production of American cheese in Wisconsin. While manufacture rose less than seasonally in the five weeks ended Feb. 3, 1934, distribution expanded more than seasonally. The excess of sales over output was 74½ per cent, against the average of 29 for the month.

This movement influenced inventories, which were about 13 million pounds less than at the beginning of the year and about 7 million above the average for the last five years. Prices rose steadily during the five weeks' period.

Production of creamery cheese in the United States was only slightly changed from that in December, but considerably less than that of January, 1933.

Output of creamery butter in the seventh federal reserve district fell contra-seasonally 3 per cent in January from output in December and stood at 16 per cent below that of a year before. Sales tonnage, while 8 per cent less than in December, was 4½ per cent larger than for January, 1933.

PLAN REOPENING OF STATE WHEAT CURB PROGRAM

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Officials of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, today were making plans for the re-opening of the Agricultural Adjustment administration wheat production adjustment program in Illinois following the receipt of a Washington telegram by Dean Herbert W. Mumford announcing the immediate re-opening of the sign-up to admit any growers who could not or did not agree last fall to reduce their acreage.

Fifty county and district wheat production control associations which were organized last fall probably will be used in extending the Illinois sign-up, it was announced by Prof. J. C. Spitler, who represents the extension service of the agricultural college in the AAA programs.

These associations have approximately 25,000 Illinois wheat growers as members, and there is now more than one million acres of Illinois wheat land under AAA contract. The required reduction in 1934 acreage from the base period of 1930-1932 will be approximately 154,000, in addition to whatever reduction is signed up during the extension of the campaign.

FRIGIDAIRE SALES FORCE TO MEET HERE ON MONDAY

Advertising and merchandising plans for the Frigidaire Sales corporation—subsidiary of General Motors—will be presented to 900 members of the organization's selling force at a meeting in the Palmer House Monday. H. W. Newell, vice president, will head a party of national executives of the company who will come to Chicago for the event.

Dealers, representatives of department stores and utility companies, and salesmen from Illinois and adjoining states will participate in the meeting. L. F. Skutt, district manager here, who will be in charge of the convention, said he is optimistic over the outlook for general business and will launch specialty selling, merchandising, and advertising plans that compare with activities in pre-retrenchment periods.

Mr. Newell's party is one of four factory crews which will make flying trips throughout the country to acquaint the company's organization of more than 15,000 men with Frigidaire plans.

Intertype Corp. Reduces 1933 Loss to $94,868

Operations of the Intertype corporation and subsidiaries for the year ended Dec. 31, 1933, resulted in a net loss of $94,868, compared with a loss of $291,466 for 1932, reported N. D. Becker, president, yesterday. Regular dividends of $8 a share were paid on the first preferred stock and $6 a share on the second preferred.

STUDEBAKER

This is what a customer told one of our salesmen yesterday. His story is a typical one. Used car prospects can actually save $165 and up by buying from Studebaker, established in Chicago for over 20 years.

OLDSMOBILE—COACH, 1931. ALMOST AN instant seller in any used car stock. This is an exceptionally clean job and will attract your eye immediately. Priced to fit the average pocketbook. Today it is $310.

ESSEX—1932 SEDAN. RECOMMENDED BY us as our feature value. Has a splendid finish, excellent tires and equipment. Motor has been tuned to a high degree and is very fast and smooth. This car may be had for $375.

CHEVROLET—1933 COACH. NEAT FINISH of conservative shade. Tires and equipment in tip-top shape and worthy of many thousand miles of travel. Interior is neatly handled in broadcloth. This is Chicago's surest value for $495.

GRAHAM—SEDAN, 1931. 8 CYLINDER. Popular body style and one that usually sells instantly at a price such as we feature. This car has many extras, including 6 wire wheels and especially fine tires. The interior is roomy and is luxuriously upholstered. Price $385.

WILLYS—SPORT COUPE, 1932. 6 CYL., with large rumble seat. Very clean and attractive. Nicely equipped. Heavy duty tires. Motor is known for its strength and speed. This is a find at $315.

HUPMOBILE—1931 VICTORIA. 8 CYLINder; has 6 wire wheels, shod with excellent balloon tires. The equipment is complete. The interior is fitted in a rich manner and padded so that all cushions are deep and comfortable. Price $395.

STUDEBAKERS—FIFTY LATE MODELS to choose from. All were carefully checked over in our shop. You can't duplicate our prices anywhere.
